ACHIEVEMENT

PAGES 37 - 116

This state university is noted for its achievements in many fields. These achievements are gained mainly in the classrooms. Without the cooperation of teachers and students in classroom activity, the aim of high ideals for the school is lost. It is through the close contact between student and instructor that high achievement is attained. Every person tries in every way possible to uphold this standard. Their reward is evident — for as the years pass, the achievement gained is greater.

DIVERSION

PAGES 117 - 168

Everyone is always ready for a party! Gay diversion is deemed a necessity to create a break in the studious schedule of the student. It may be a spontaneous affair or a planned one. No matter which, you may rest assured that everyone will enjoy themselves. There is always occasion for social gatherings. It is a good trait in the student who can put himself wholly in his work and then take time out for relaxation. This is an important part of university life.

COMPETITION

PAGES 169 - 216

Athletics are not to be underrated in school life. Not only do they arouse the keen sense of competition, but they arouse school spirit like nothing else can. Students wholeheartedly support the team in every way, win or lose. This is their chance to show a feeling of patriotism to the school in one great body. Without this school spirit the school would be lacking. Intramural sports serve to charge their competitive spirits which is also important. The athletic program is a vital aid to the school.

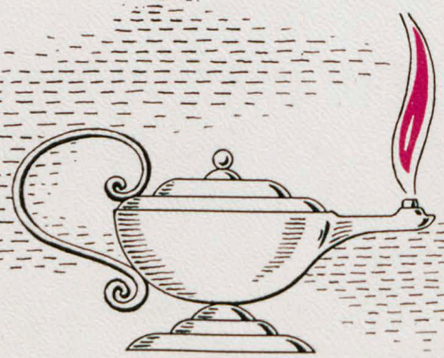

FELLOWSHIP

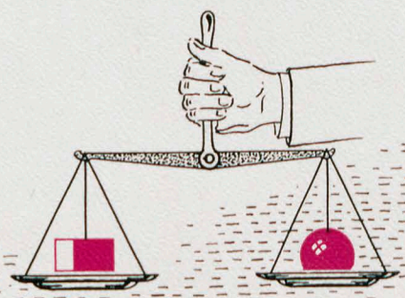

PAGES 217 - 340

Fellowship is an asset to the university. It is a way that small congenial groups of students can get acquainted and work together. Opportunity is given to the student who has leadership ability, to be active in the groups. Many small projects valuable to school and students may be accomplished by the members. It also affords the chance for every student to be an active participant in a working organization. Being part of an active group aids the student as well as the school.

THE UNIVERSITY AND THE STATE

The university and the state of Arkansas have steadily progressed since the founding of the school. Each has aided the other in every way to make this advancement possible. Without wholehearted support from the state the school would not be where it is today. The citizens have contributed from every source to make the university stand out in the nation. It is this loyal support which makes the school an asset to the state.

Arkansas is in return aided by the university. Outstanding achievements and honors of the school have made the state well known. The educational and cultural heritages of the school have helped in placing Arkansas on the map. The students and faculty working closely together have achieved this end. It is their loyalty to school and state that have pushed them to attain high goals. They realize the importance of each.

It is this invaluable bond between the two which causes the citizens to be proud to live in Arkansas — and the students to be proud to attend the university. A loyal state which supports a loyal school is the perfect formula for advancement and progress of both.

THE UNIVERSITY

THE university has come a long way since the first days of "Old Main." We still cherish the old building but other sites have now taken the eye. Through the years, buildings of all types have been constructed on the campus. Expansion of curriculum and increased attendance made these buildings necessary.

During the years, we have passed from the old to the modern age. Architecture has progressed in its ideas also. On the campus one can view the transition. The Fine Arts Center is a product of the new age. It symbolizes the change of the school into this age.

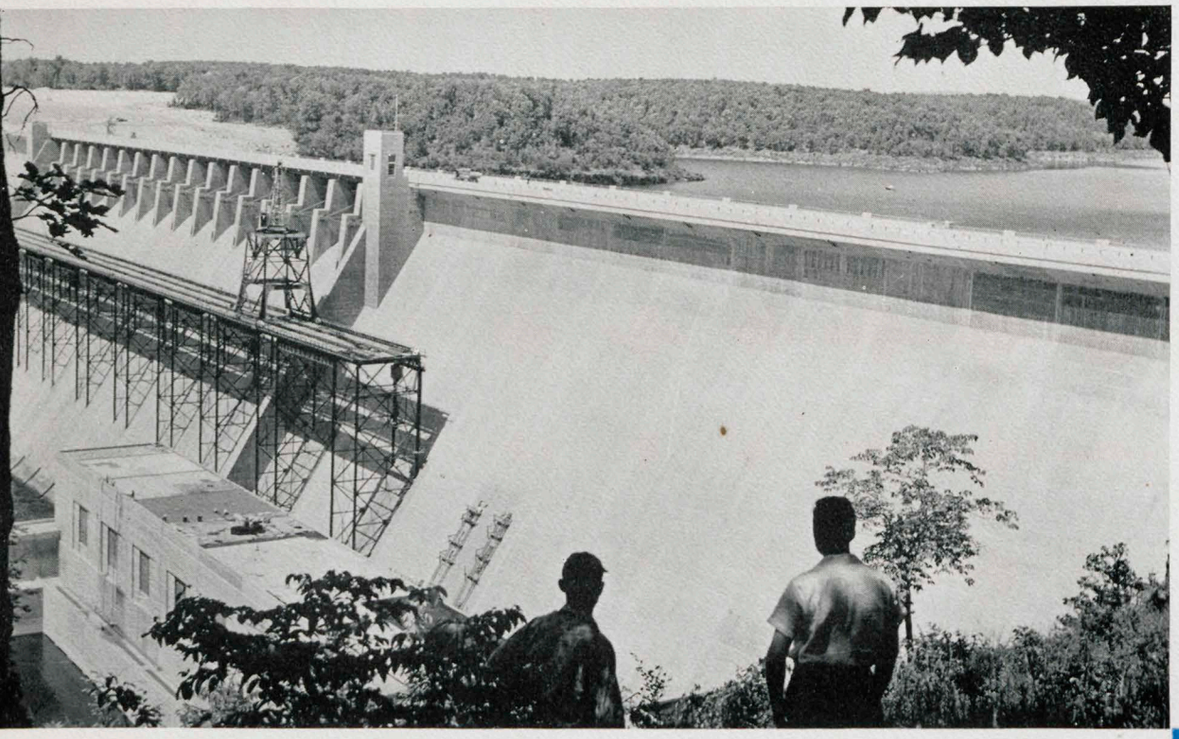

CHEMISTRY

AND THE STATE

ARKANSAS — the land of opportunity. The slogan definitely states the truth about the "Wonder" state. It has progressed more in every field than practically any other state in the union. All types of industries have been established in several sections of the state. This industrialization has been a major factor in the ever increasing population. People from all over the nation have seen reason to move to Arkansas.

The state offers a variety of attractions to the outsider. He may live in the mountainous area of the Ozarks and enjoy the breathtaking scenery. The flat country of the southern part of the state may be advantageous to some. In any section the climate is pleasing.

Natural resources are another answer to the state's success. Water-power, timber, oil, and bauxite are only a few of the resources produced in the state.

Education plays an important part in Arkansas's picture. The newest factor is the Ford Foundation. This is a great step in the advancement of education in the state. The university as well as other schools will profit by it.

Arkansas is advancing onward.

RECREATION

RECREATION plays an important part in the lives of university students. There are things to do all year around. Tennis, golf, baseball and football are carried on both in fall and spring. Indoor sports like basketball, volleyball and badminton are presented during the winter season. Swimming is popular in the late spring. Most students do not excel in these sports but they do participate and receive enjoyment and relaxation from them.

The state as a whole is sports-minded. Stuttgart is noted for duck hunting, and every season sportsmen from all over the nation come to the state to hunt. Boat racing enthusiasts find Lake Village and Batesville excellent places for racing. Streams all over the state are noted for being well stocked with fish. Practically all types of hunting can be done in the plentiful sections over the state.

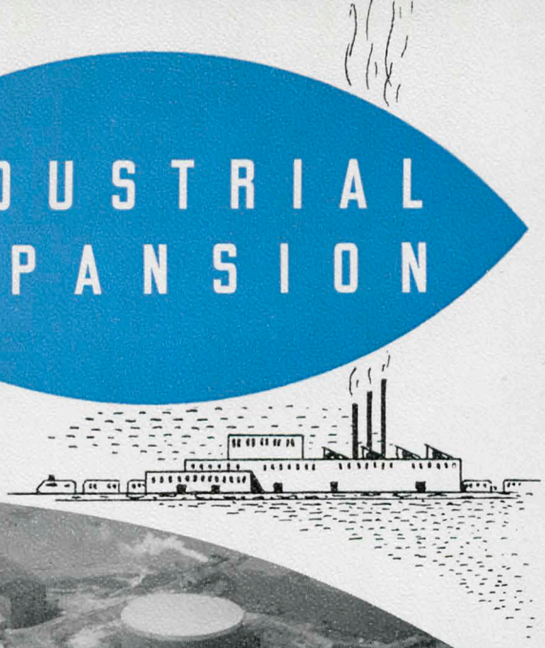

This proves that people of the nation need and find recreation as well as the college students.

INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

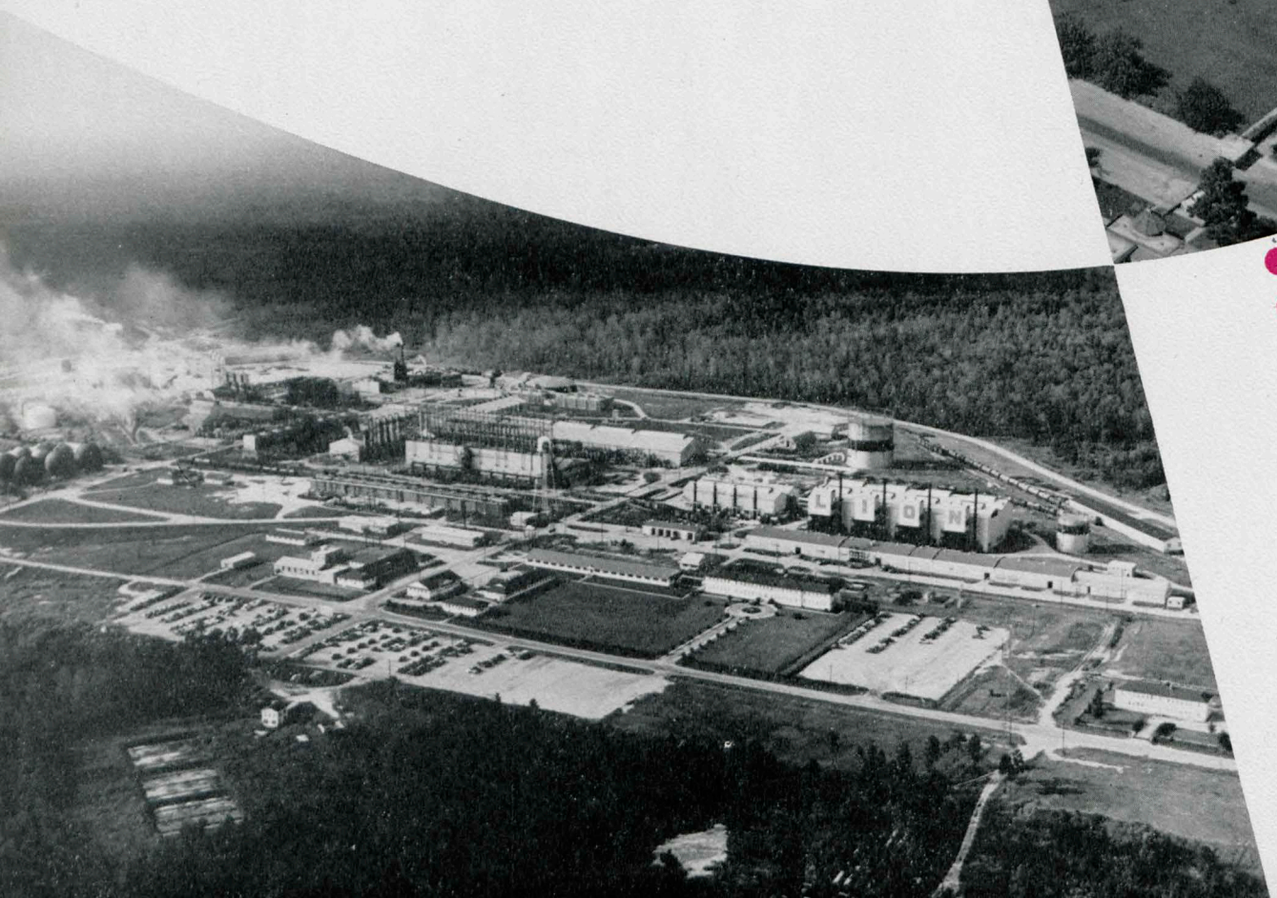

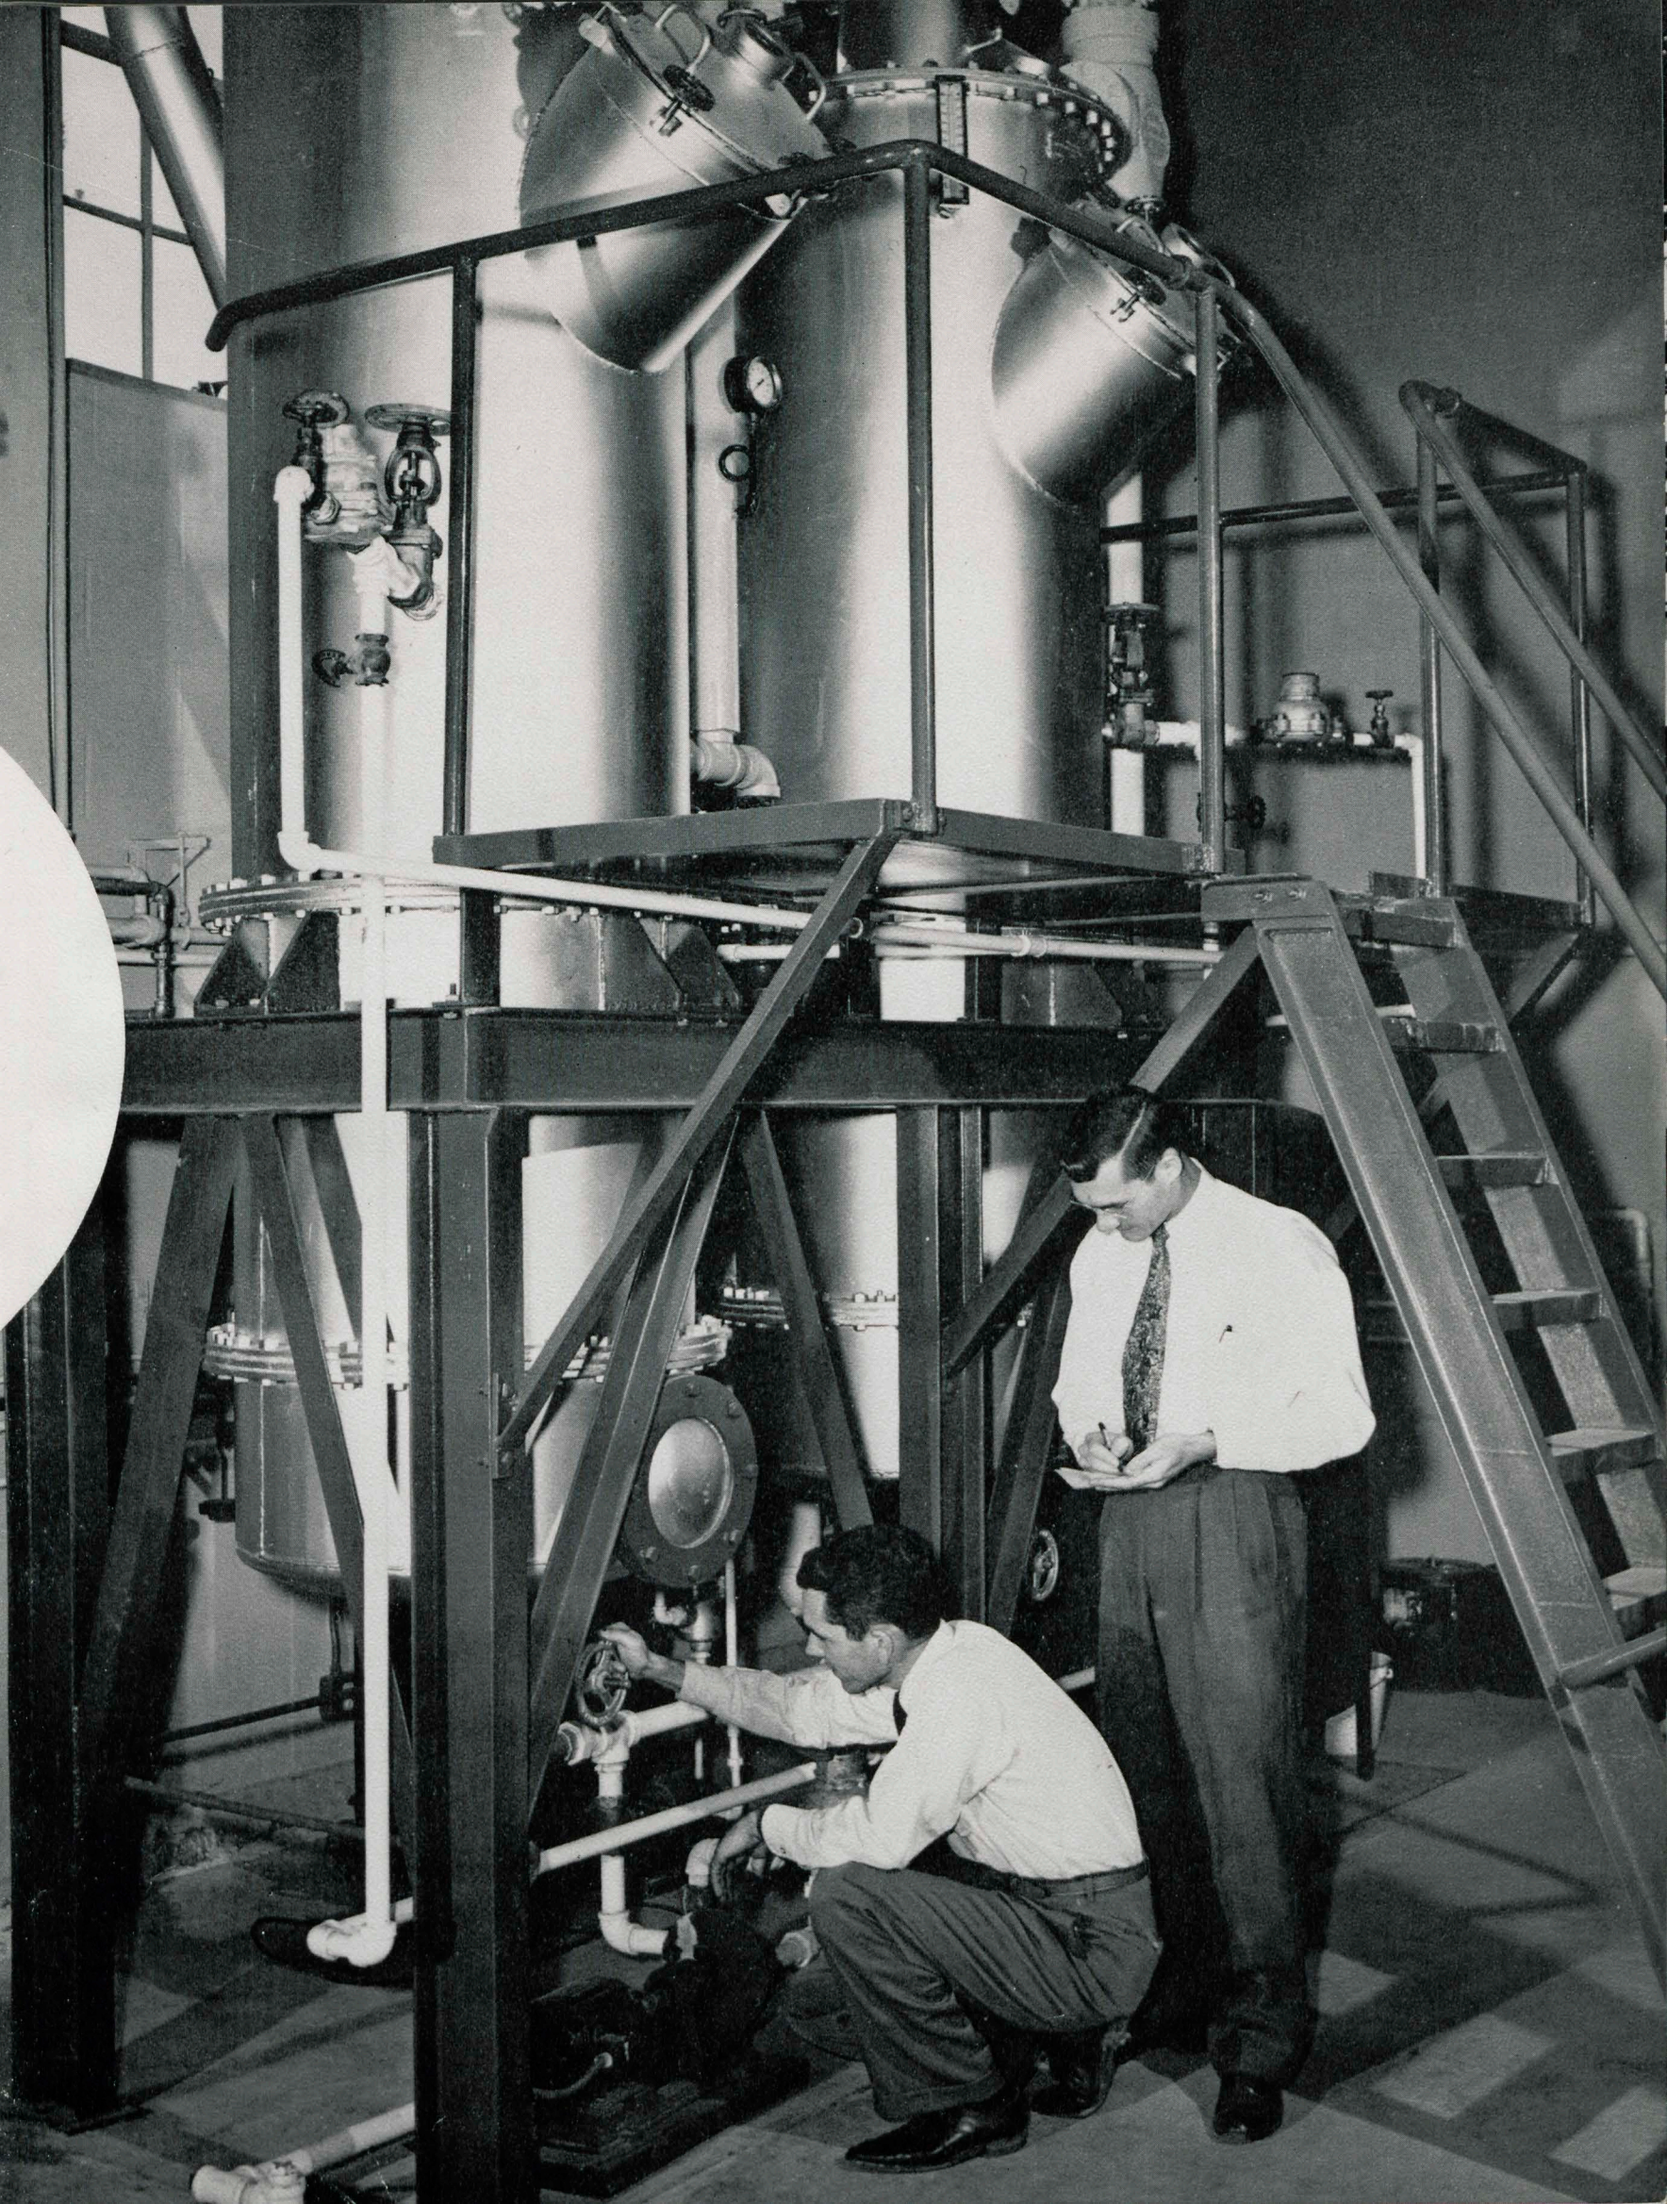

INDUSTRIAL expansion has taken hold of the school as well as the state of Arkansas. On the campus several departments in this field have added to their sections. A new physics building has replaced the inadequate accommodations for the old department. This means that greater steps can be attained through better research equipment. This will be a great advantage for industry.

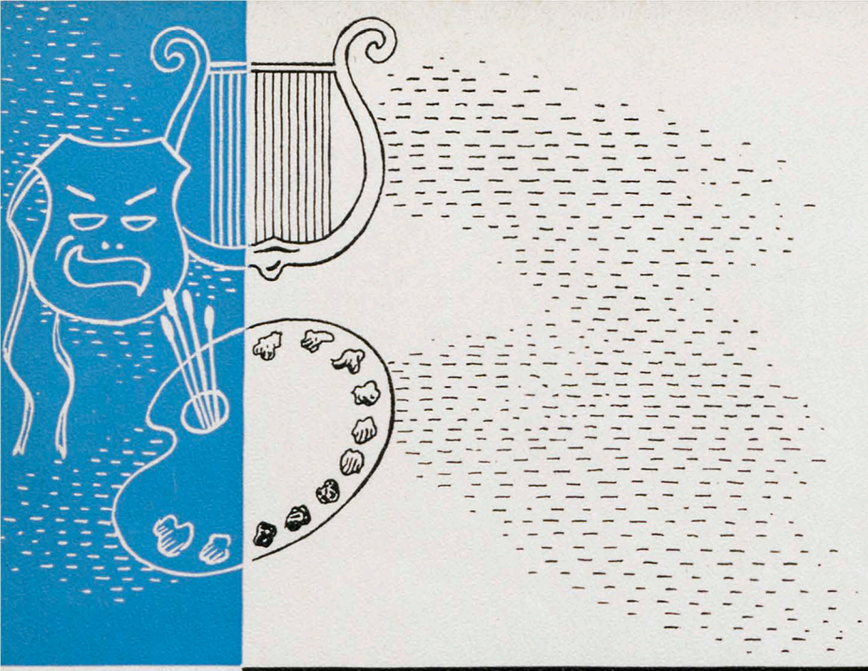

The state is also in the midst of industrial expansion. Big industrial interests from over the nation have discovered Arkansas to be an ideal site for locating their plants. Several sections in the state have increased population and size since this expansion has begun.

The facts prove that the state is fast becoming an industrial state. This will affect every citizen in Arkansas. The university and the state of Arkansas are leading the way to industrial expansion.

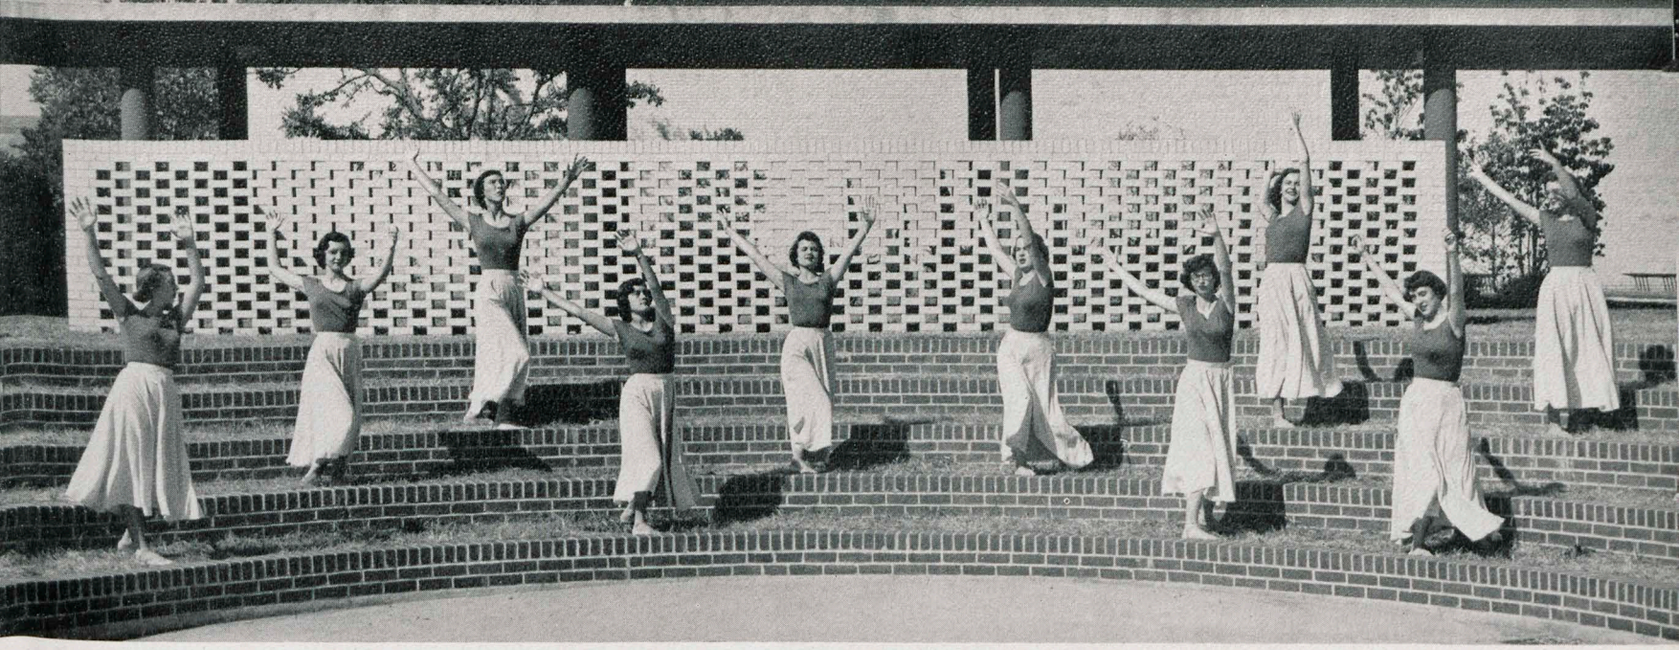

CULTURAL HERITAGE

CULTURAL heritage is important to a state university and the University of Arkansas has realized this. The Fine Arts Center is the culmination of all cultural interests on the campus.

Drama, painting, sculpture and music are a few of the fine arts found practiced in this building. Several plays are presented every year as well as art exhibits and concerts to give the satisfaction of cultural interests for students, faculty and townspeople. Large attendance to these functions proves that everyone is interested in these arts.

These fine arts that are offered on the campus not only give enjoyment — but they also offer opportunities for talented people. They learn to improve their work as well as getting to present them to critical audiences. It also gives the chance for persons interested in these arts to learn them.

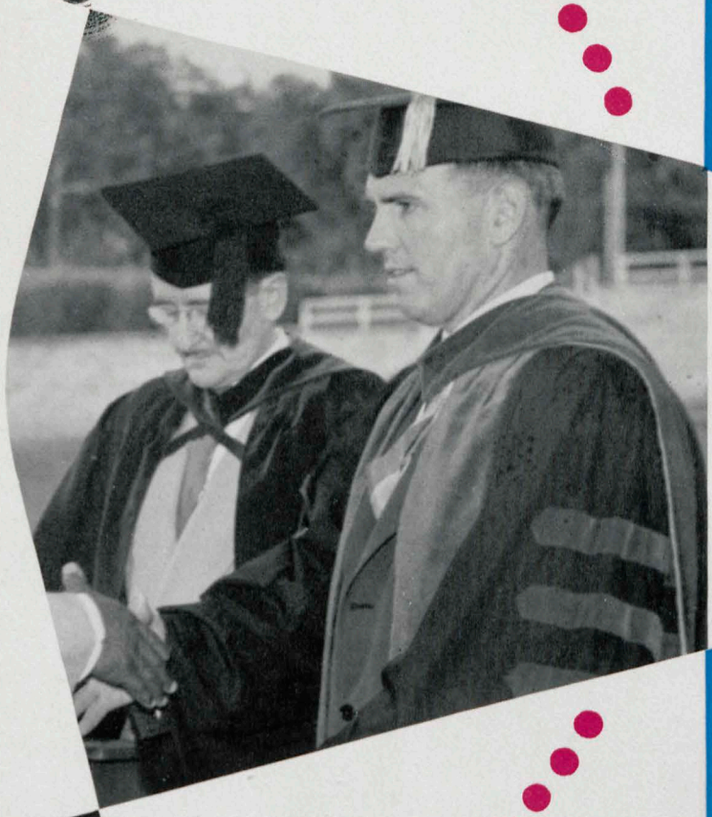

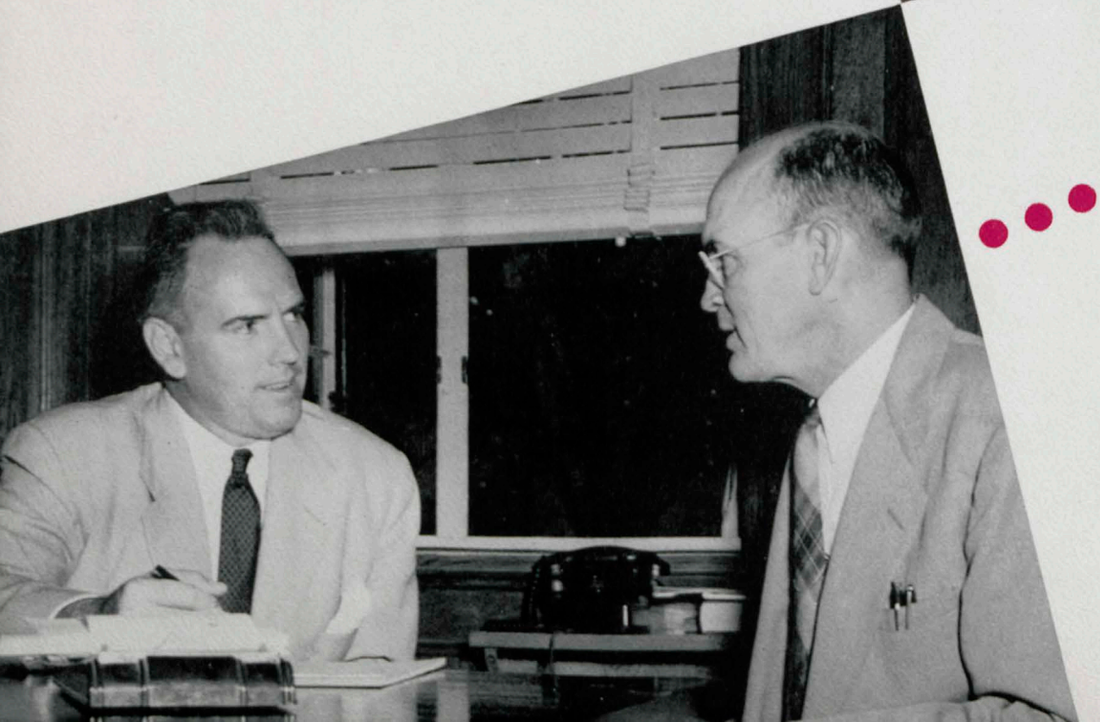

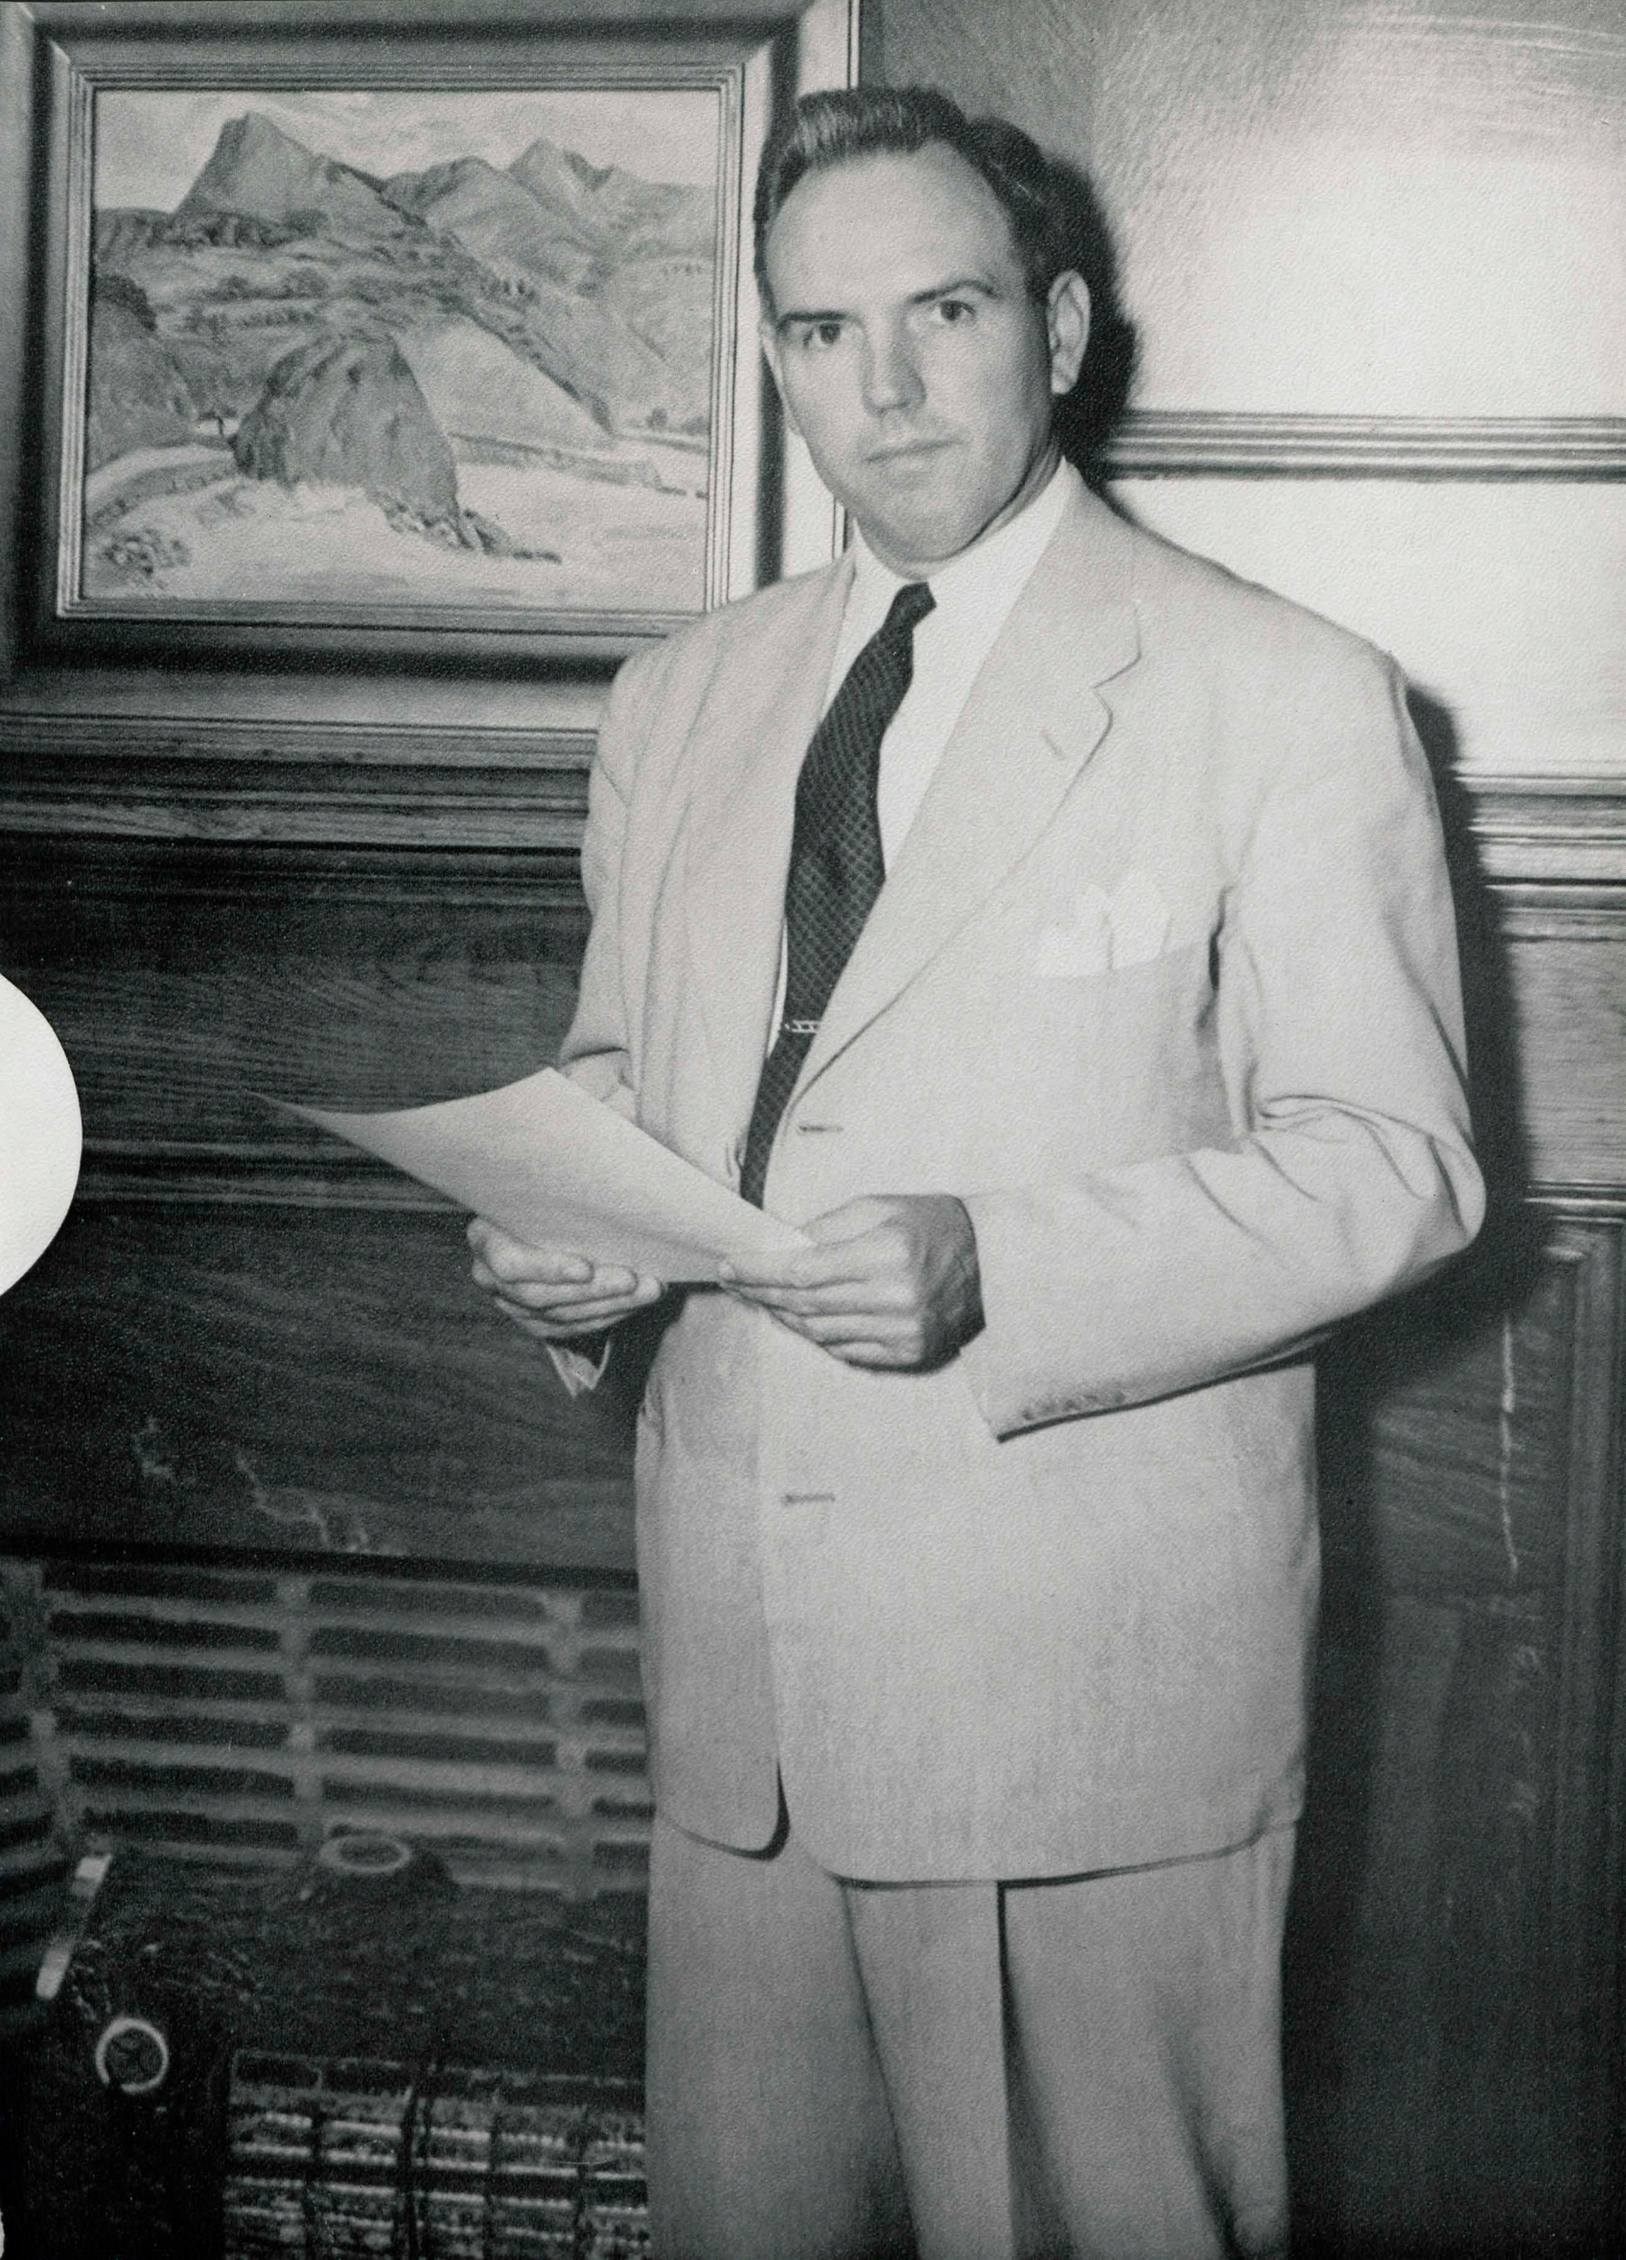

DR. JOHN TYLER CALDWELL, our new president, is one of the nation's leading young educators. He succeeds Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, who resigned last fall to accept the presidency of Rutgers University. Dr. Caldwell has had a wealth of college administrative experience, for he has been president of Alabama College at Montevallo since 1947, and his record at that institution has attracted nation-wide attention.

Furthermore, he has just completed an extensive study of college and university administrative practices in America, during which time he visited scores of institutions — large and small, public and private — in every section of the nation.

The new president has created a great deal of enthusiasm over the campus with his magnetic personality and energy. His leadership promises a great future for the University. The school year of 1952-53 has become one of the best for this school. It could not help but be, with such a fine leader and a group of enthusiastic students.

ACHIEVEMENT

CERTAINLY, the University of Arkansas has progressed in these last 83 years from a small industrial school to a great state university. The progression has not been without both trials and hardships, but it has been largely successful as can be witnessed in the expansion and growth of enrollment, especially in the last few years. In this section you will see many of those who have helped to make this progression possible.

GOVERNOR FRANCIS CHERRY

GOVERNOR FRANCIS CHERRY

"Francis A. Cherry—Fayetteville, Arkansas, Kappa Alpha; Debate Club; International Relations Club." This was the notation on Page 72 of the 1935 Razorback. Eighteen years have passed and the same Francis Cherry is the Governor of Arkansas. Following his graduation from the University of Arkansas in 1936, Governor Cherry opened his law practice in Jonesboro. Since that time, he has served as Chancery Judge of the Jonesboro District.

After a whirlwind campaign and the initiation of a new gadget in Arkansas politics—the Talkathon—Judge Cherry entered the run-offs against one of the most progressive governors in Arkansas history and won by a landslide. He carried all but nine counties of the state's 75. His opponent was another 1936 graduate of the University's law school, incumbent Sidney McMath.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The University of Arkansas Board of Trustees is the official policy-making body of the University of Arkansas. The board members are appointed by the Governor to staggered terms of ten years each. The board meets upon call of the President of the university or the chairman of the board and decides all questions of general, over-all university policy. Members of the board are: L. C. Carter ,Stuttgart; Paul Sullins, Crossett; Earl Williams, Fayetteville; Dr. C. A. Rosenbaum, Little Rock; W. W. Sharp, Brinkley; W. T. Jones, Madison; Jack Stephens, Little Rock; Judge Henry S. Yocum (Chairman), El Dorado; Miss Pauline Holtzel, Little Rock; and Barron Lange, Little Rock.

Row 1: L. C. Carter, Paul Sullins, Earl Williams, Dr. C. A. Rosenbaum, W. W. Sharp.
Row 2: W. T. Jones, Jack Stephens, H. S. Yocum, Miss Pauline Holtzel, Barron Lange.

PRESIDENT JOHN TYLER CALDWELL

The selection of Dr. John Tyler Caldwell as president of the University of Arkansas concluded a painstaking, nation-wide search for an outstanding educator to serve as the successor to Dr. Lewis Webster Jones.

Over 150 persons, whose names were offered for consideration for the office, were carefully considered, and a considerable number of them were interviewed in person.

Dr. Caldwell came to the University from Alabama College at Montevallo, where he had served as president since 1947. During his time there he made an enviable record as head of the women's college.

Dr. Caldwell's energetic personality and his thoughtful consideration of all problems submitted to him, have already made him a firm part of the University community and he is apparently well on his way toward becoming one of the foremost educational leaders of the state.

PROVOST

JOE E. COVINGTON

Joe E. Covington, Provost of the University of Arkansas, serves as administrative assistant to President Caldwell and in that capacity renders a great service to the bettering of the administrative operation of the University.

In his position of Provost, Mr. Covington assumed the duties of President when former president Lewis Webster Jones accepted the Presidency of Rutgers University in 1951. He served in this capacity until the naming of Dr. Caldwell to the Presidency of the University in 1952.

During his directorship of the University, great administrative strides were made and cooperation between faculty and students reached an all time high.

VICE PRESIDENT AND TREASURER

T. C. CARLSON

T. C. Carlson, Vice-President in charge of Finances, is in charge of the Business Office of the University and in this capacity he administers the multi-million dollar yearly program of the University.

The activities of the Business Office include: purchasing; budget control; receipt and disbursement of funds; accounting and financial reports; auditing; and supervision of the many business enterprises of the University of Arkansas.

All phases of the University program are controlled by the office of the Vice-President.

DEANS

ARTS AND SCIENCES

Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees are offered by the College of Arts and Sciences. In addition to these, degrees are offered in architecture, journalism, music, and social welfare. Dean Guerdon D. Nichols was appointed to his position in 1947 after having taught mathematics here for 20 years. He received his BA degree from the University of Iowa and his MA and PhD degrees from the University of Nebraska.

GUERDON D. NICHOLS, Dean, Arts and Sciences

LIPPERT S. ELLIS, Dean, Agriculture

AGRICULTURE

The teaching of Agriculture and Home Economics is the principal function of the College of Agriculture. Another, and an equally important phase of this work is the program of research and extension education for the betterment of Arkansas agriculture. Both the school and the extension program are under the able guidance of Dean Lippert S. Ellis. Dean Ellis received his BS and PhD degrees from the University of Wisconsin.

PAUL W. MILAM, Dean, Business Administration

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Having operated as a two-year senior division school for eleven years, the College of Business Administration was organized along its present four-year college basis in 1937. In this school, more than fifty specialized courses are offered over and above the basic freshman and sophomore classes. Head of the college is native-Arkansan, Paul W. Milam. Dean Milam received his BA degree from State College, San Marcos, Texas; his MA from the University of Texas and his PhD from New York University.

EDUCATION

Having been made a full time college in 1917, the College of Education has three main divisions. These are: Elementary and secondary education; vocational education and physical education. During the past year, the College of Education has been probably the most talked of, of the many colleges that make up the university. This was because of the Ford Foundation Plan which was finally adopted. The plan, to offer a five-year course, was sparkplugged by Dean Henry H. Kronenburg who became dean of the college in 1945.

HENRY H. KRONENBURG, Dean, Education

GEORGE F. BRANIGAN, Dean, Engineering

ENGINEERING

The three-fold purpose of the College of Engineering is the training of men for professional engineering, for the industries and for citizenship. Degrees are offered in agricultural, chemical, electrical, industrial and mechanical engineering. Dean George F. Branigan, a native of Nebraska, received his BS from the University of Nebraska, his MS from Kansas State and came to the University from Iowa State.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Following the inauguration of a new program in 1951, the University of Arkansas Graduate School offered for the first time courses leading to Doctor of Philosophy and Doctor of Education degrees. Each year, many qualified students are awarded fellowships and scholarships. Assistantships are also offered for those who wish to teach or work on research projects while studying. Dean Virgil W. Adkisson became Dean of Graduate School in 1949, having come to the University in 1930.

VIRGIL W. ADKISSON, Dean, Graduate School

DEANS

LAW SCHOOL

With the University's new law school rapidly nearing completion, the Arkansas Law School moved into its 29th year as one of the leading law schools in the United States. The course of instruction offered by the Law School follows the pattern set for many years by American Law Schools. The first year course is largely the study and discussion of cases. The second year is devoted to appelate briefs and the use of law books. The third year students are given a chance to follow court procedure through the use of "moot" court. Robert A. Leflar is Dean of Law School.

JEANETTE SCUDDER, Dean of Women

DEAN OF MEN

Since the day John Shoemaker accepted the position of Dean of Men at the University of Arkansas, his constant allegiance has been given to the student body and its activities. He must daily assume the task of being mediator, guiding force, father and friend to the University students. He, like the Dean of Women, has as his responsibility, the working out of student woes as well as the supervision of the conduct of all male students on the University campus. Dean Shoemaker was born in Seattle, Washington, where he spent much of his life before coming to the University as Ordark director in 1946.

ROBERT A. LEFLAR, Dean, Law

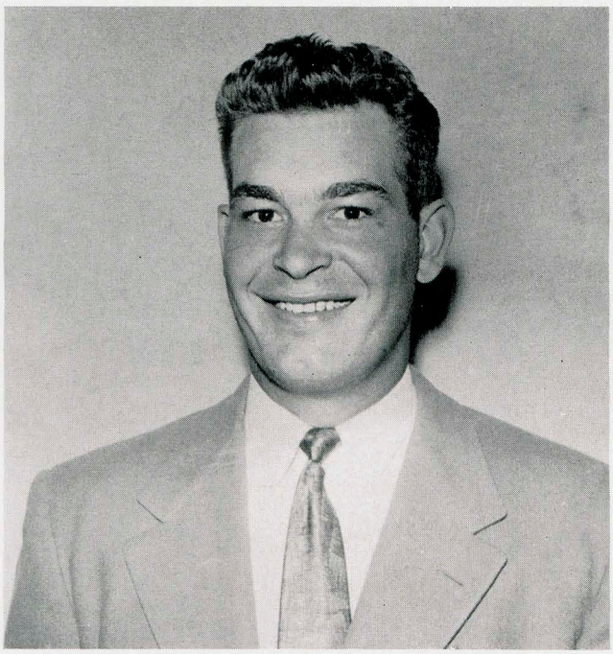

DEAN OF WOMEN

Miss Jeanette Scudder, Dean of Women, is beginning her 13th year in that position at the University of Arkansas. The dean's duties include counseling with women students over various problems and the close supervision of living conditions, including lodging and food. The dean also brings well-known women to the campus and represents the University at all meetings where the welfare of women students is discussed. Dean Scudder received her bachelor's degree from Purdue University and her master's from Columbia.

JOHN E. SHOEMAKER, Dean of Men

STUDENT BODY OFFICERS

BUDDY SUTTON, President, Associated Students of the University of Arkansas.

The Associated Students of the University of Arkansas is the title given to the organization of student government. It is composed of four all school officers, 12 senators representing the schools on the campus and other senators representing particularly important segments of campus life.

The four top all-school posts form the executive branch of the government, with the vice-president, secretary and treasurer serving on the legislative body, the Student Senate. The vice-president is the president of the Senate. The student judiciary is the Student Court, an appointive body, with authority to question the constitutionality of measures passed by the Senate as well as to hear and redress student grievances.

The organization of the Associated Students follows the committee line with students, appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate, comprising them. These committees are set up in a standing fashion to control and regulate various traditional segments of campus life. Other committees are appointed by the Student Senate, but they are of a temporary nature and serve only at the pleasure of the Senate.

The officers of Associated Students are the Attorney General who is appointed by the president and who defends Associated Students and its committees against suits by individual students and an executive committee which helps the president in keeping informed on campus problems.

Student Senate

The Student Senate is the legislative body of the Associated Students. Its members are elected each spring to serve the entire following academic year. The presiding officer of the Senate is the vice-president of Associated Students. He is also an all-school elective officer. In addition to its legislative duties, the Senate gives several all-school attractions each year, such as the Cement Mixer street dance and the Porker Party at the end of the football season.

Who's Who

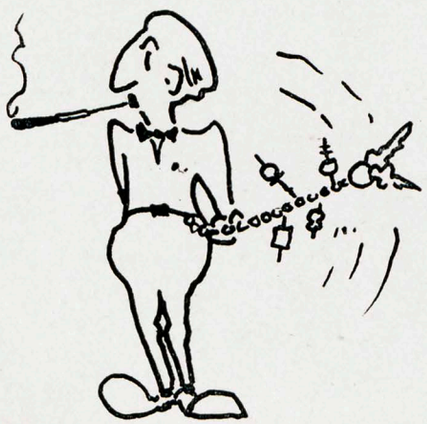

THE 1953 RAZORBACK

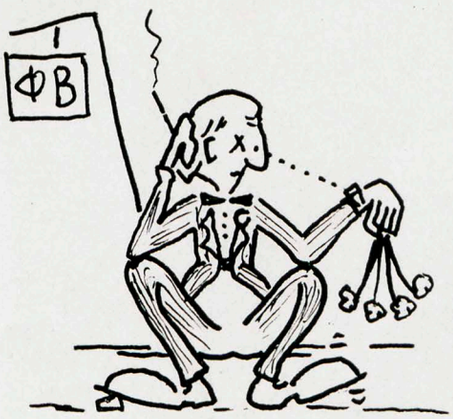

PRESENTS

ARKANSAS WHO'S WHO

On the following six pages the RAZORBACK takes pleasure in presenting the 1953 RAZORBACK's Who's Who on the campus of the University of Arkansas. This list, while we realize it to be in no means complete, embodies the most outstanding men and women on the university campus. It is extremely difficult for any selecting group to single out thirty men and women from the some 600 members of the senior class pictured in this book for the honor of being named to Who's Who. We feel that many other members of this senior class of 1953 fall into a category of comparative equality on the basis of campus activities with these students pictured, but we further feel these men and women to be at the top of the list in service to the University of Arkansas. With this introduction, the RAZORBACK and the Deans of Students, who gave a great deal of aid to this selection, commit to you students of the University of Arkansas, the 1953 RAZORBACK Who's Who.

1953 RAZORBACK

Building the traditions

And Recording the

Customs of Arkansas life

PERRIN JONES, Editor-in-Chief

You now have your copy of the 1953 RAZORBACK in your hands. While you may not realize it, this RAZORBACK is the product of a great deal of back-breaking work for the staff. They have given unselfishly of their time during this year with no thought of monetary remuneration. They have given it all for the University of Arkansas and the student body thereof.

Much of the work has been placed in a few very capable hands, to-wit: Tommie Cautrell and Rita McCaskill, who handled the work from start to finish on the opening section and divisions and on Greeks and Dorms respectively. This was done in their capacities of Assistant Editors. Betty Ann Proll and Mitzi Smith who bypassed the glamour work and concentrated on the filing and copying of the more than 5,000 individual pictures in this book. Mary Beth Breshears and Ann Alcorn, who handled, quite ably, the feature sections of this year's RAZORBACK. Tom Dygard and John Rosso, who while being swamped with the jobs on the Traveler, gave of their time to get the sports section in shape. Tom Stanford, who single-handedly took on the most patience-requiring job in the book—the accurate accounting of the military section. Jean Jamell and Bonnie Nicksic, who took care of all of the beauty and Who's Who work and the presentation of the book. Shirle Umfress, untiring letter answerer, and Jim Cordonnier and Sam Boyce, who handled all of the many odds and ends of publication. Bill Mays and Ann Jainnas, who had the exasperating job of keeping up with copy and the copy and typing staffs who did the real bone-rending labor of keeping everything straight. Joe Henson, who devoted a great deal of time to the selling and collection of advertising money, and to the other members of the Business staff: Jim Snapp, Bill Ketchum and Pat Phillips.

This is just a short summary of the work done by all concerned. In addition to expressing our sincere appreciation to them, the RAZORBACK wants to also thank: Aubert Martin and Ed Puska, photographers; Mr. R. C. Walker, of Southwestern Engraving Company, Tulsa, Oklahoma; Mr. W. W. Mercer and Mr. R. J. Collins of Economy Advertising Company, Iowa City, Iowa, and all of the members of the student body who have aided us so materially this year. Without your help and cooperation, this RAZORBACK would never have reached the presses.

All together at last! The members of the Razorback staff, who seldom can all get into the Razorback office at one time, settle for a get together on the stairs of Hill Hall. The photographer just happened to be present . . .

ARKANSAS TRAVELER

An Informed Student Body Improves Tomorrow's Citizenry

TOM DYGARD, Editor-in-Chief

The Traveler stepped up in 1952-53 from a twice-a-week newspaper to a semi-daily with publication each Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of the school year.

Also, the Traveler added world news to its pages through the services of the United Press. Campus news, however, continued to get top play, and most of the world news was boiled down in a column, "World News In Brief," which appeared on Page 1.

It was the first daily newspaper in the history of the University of Arkansas, and it marked the culmination of a plan which started brewing when the University installed its own printing plant in the Journalism Building three years ago.

The editorial page under the direction of Editor Tom Dygard, which appeared in Tuesday's edition, contained signed columns by Associate Editor Jerol Garrison and Managing Editor Bob Robertson; a "Newsmakers" feature on a student or faculty member of the University who was "making the news" that week; and the "Paradox" column.

Under the direction of John Rosso, a sports page appeared daily, furnishing the latest news of the Razorbacks and their opponents in the Southwest Conference, and the intramural competition. Working with Rosso on the Traveler sports desk were Gerry Hickman and Jim Bell.

Mary Arnold's society page appeared each Thursday, with news of coming social activities and the weekly column, "Travelin'." Society assistants were Sarah Leech and Pat Farnsworth.

Working under Dygard, Garrison, Robertson and News Editor John Graham Sudbury on local coverage was a staff of seven reporters —Jacq Eves, Ed Maxon, Donald Harrington, Anne Robinson, Bill Center, John Armstrong and Fred Coger.

Business Manager Harry Kraus handled local and national advertising and the finances of the Traveler. His business office assistants were Russ Phillips and Lura Wheeler. Jame Smallwood was Traveler credit manager.

An air of reluctance but achievement surrounded the Traveler staff assembled above for the purpose of the annual RAZORBACK picture. Believe it or not, this was not the first time that the whole staff had been in the office at once.

GUILD TICKER

Published By And For The Students Of Business Administration

JERRY GREEN, Editor

The Guild Ticker, official publication of the students of Business Administration, has as its main purpose the printing of articles of particular interest to students of the business college. Hence, the statement, "published by and for the students of Business Administration."

The Ticker is published twice yearly. During the period preceding the publication of the magazine, the editor and the members of the staff strive diligently to find subjects that would appeal to those interested in business, and a look at either issue of this school year will make it evident that the staff actually succeeded.

About 1,000 copies of the publication are circulated among the students and approximately 400 copies are sent out to businessmen all over the state. This practice, the staff feels, helps to build friendship between the businessmen and the University. It also gives the student a view as to what is in store for him in the business world.

On the business side were John Andreae, David Shelton, and Reid Davis, Advertising Managers, and Jim Cordonnier and Bill Randall, Associate Business Managers. Shirley Henly served as Advertising Secretary.

A collection of students of Business Administration gathered for their annual picture as members of the staff of the Guild Ticker. The Guild Ticker is the official publication of the students of the Business college.

ARKANSAS AGRICULTURIST

For The Furtherance Of Agriculture Through Student Participation

JIM TURNER, Editor

The official voice of the students and faculty of the College of Agriculture is the Agriculturist. The magazine has been published since 1924 and it contains news, pictures, features and comment on various developments in the field of agriculture.

Editorials by the student editors and comments from the faculty view on the Dean's Page have helped through the years to make the title of "voice of the students and the faculty" stick.

This year's Agriculturist, edited by Jim Turner, continued in its first edition to follow the cover design begun by last year's editor in an effort to brighten up the magazine. The design, following a pitchfork theme, also pictures various scenes concerned with agriculture.

The Arkansas Agriculturist is published four times yearly. In doing this, rather than publishing eight editions as was formerly the case, the magazine and its staff are allowed more time to devote to longer and more integrated news stories, features and pictures.

The editor of the Agriculturist is elected by the students of the College of Agriculture and the staff is appointed by him. This year's staff members include: Richard Hudson, Business Manager; Juanna Jackson, Associate Editor; Jim Atkinson, Managing Editor; Jim McGhee, Assistant Editor; Virginia Green, News Editor; Betty Johnson and Pat Ellis, Feature Editors; Charles Looper, Frank Murchison, Mary Harbuck and Marlene Kerr, Staff Writers; A. B. Thompson, Assistant Business Manager; Peggy Franks, Advertising Manager; Dale Talbert, Leonard Venable, Jim Kimbrough and Lawrence Luther, Advertising Assistants; Frank Murchison and Billy Neal, Collection Managers; Lynn Lewis, Circulation Manager, and Sully Ligon and Bobby Huey, Circulation Assistants.

Those devoted to the publication of news, features, pictures and comment on various phases of agriculture and for the betterment of the College of Agriculture through student participation join in publishing the Arkansas Agriculturist.

ARKANSAS ENGINEER

For The Students, Looking Toward Higher Engineering Standards

JOHN ASHWORTH, Editor

Designed chiefly for Engineering students on the University campus, the Arkansas Engineer is sent to high schools throughout the state. The purpose behind this is to interest high school students in Arkansas in the profession of Engineering. It also serves as a good relations builder between the University and the high schools, looking toward raising of enrollment on the campus.

The Engineer is published quarterly by a staff headed by John Ashworth, who was elected to the post last year in an all-Engineering school election. The staff, selected by the editor, includes: Frank Carl, Business Manager; Jim Collier, Managing Editor; Robert Lanham, Make-up Editor; Laura Faust, Copy Editor; Jim Bowen, Allen Venner, Bob Miller and Hiram Cooper, Feature Editors; Phil Snedecor, Engraving Editor; Clif Vineyard, Assistant Business Manager; Don Overton, Circulation Manager; and Dennis Reed, Assistant Circulation Manager. Dean G. F. Branigan and Professor J. R. Bissett supervise the publication.

This year's Engineer has the distinction of being one of the finest publications of recent years. This is because the Engineer staff has concentrated on the presentation of articles that have a direct bearing and general interest to all those interested in the field of engineering.

In order to give a break in the necessarily heavy reading of the technical articles, the Engineer features two columns of lighter reading, going under the title of "Hawg Waller" and "Cracked Retorts." These are two of the most sought-after sections of the Engineer and offer the best in college humor.

Taking everything into consideration, this has been an extremely successful year for the Arkansas Engineer.

Those who have the job of assembling and arranging the comments of the "Voice of Engineering School" gather for staff photo. The magazine is one of the best on the campus.

ARKANSAS LAW REVIEW

A Publication Devoted To The Understanding Of The Laws

JOHN ELROD, Editor

The first edition of the Arkansas Law Review went to the presses in the Spring of 1946. Since that time, the publication has gained wide approval from the lawyers of Arkansas as an extremely accurate legal publication.

Subscribers to the Law Review are not confined to Arkansas alone, but live in many other states, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. More than 1400 copies of the book are sent to subscribers following each publication.

The Law Review, which is issued quarterly, is published three times each year by the Arkansas Law School and once by the Arkansas Bar Association, covering the proceedings of the meeting of that legal group. The reason for the existence of the Law Review is the compilation and interpretation of outstanding legal problems with an eye toward giving assistance to the lawyers of Arkansas.

The legal articles are written by members of the Law School faculty and other outstanding legal writers. Student staffers write comments, case notes and edit the publication in conjunction with the faculty editor.

Work on the Law Review is considered as invaluable experience for the law students in that it gives the students a chance to work with source material in gaining their opinions and comments on cases.

The Review has its own offices in the basement of the Law Building which is thoroughly equipped with all materials necessary to complete a job of this kind, complete with a library. Here the staff members read and sift the findings of the high courts and write their comments on them. They also correct and criticize the work submitted to them by other students.

The Law Review offers a real service to the Arkansas bar.

Promising young barristers join together to publish the Arkansas Law Review, one of the most accurate collegiate legal publications in the country.

BOARD of PUBLICATIONS

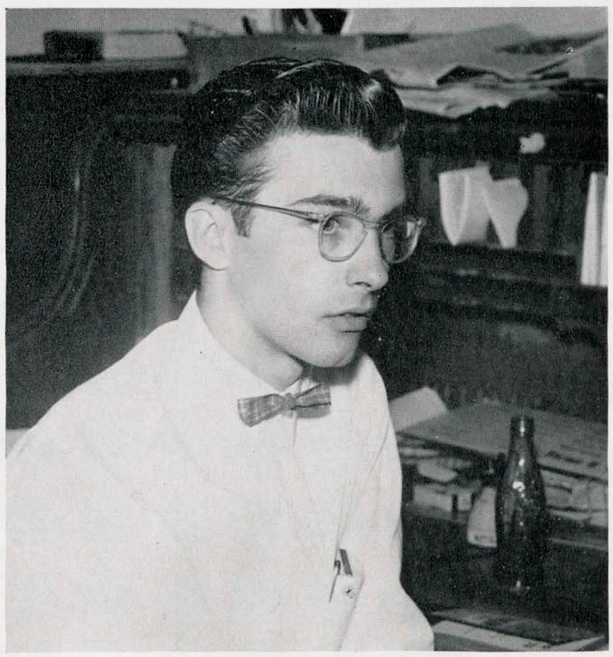

Members of the Board of Student Publications: Mr. J. A. Thalheimer; Mr. Bunn Bell; Dr. Franklin Bridge; John Ashworth, Arkansas Engineer; Perrin Jones, ARKANSAS RAZORBACK; Jerol Garrison, Press Club; Vince Skillman, Student Senate; John Elrod, Arkansas Law Review; Tom Dygard, Arkansas Traveler (Chairman).

The Board of Student Publications is a committee set up by the constitution of Associated Students for the purpose of regulation and control of all campus publications. The board is authorized to accept bids and award contracts on the all-campus publications and to elect the editors of the Traveler, RAZORBACK and A Book. It also names the Business Managers of the Traveler and RAZORBACK. The board approves salaries of editors, business managers and other important staff positions on the all-school publications.

Each new publication started on the campus must have the approval of the Board of Publications.

Membership on the board is set up in the following way: The editor of the Traveler is automatically chairman, the editor of the RAZORBACK and president of the Press Club are permanent members. The president of the university appoints two faculty members each year: One from the journalism faculty and one other. The president of Associated Students each year appoints one faculty member and one member of the Student Senate to the board. In addition to these, two more seats are filled each year by two of the four editors of the Law Review, Engineer, Guild Ticker and Agriculturist. These are appointed by the president of the university and serve only one year.

RAZORBACK BAND

The University of Arkansas' Razorback Band had an eventful year in 1952-53. Starting off the season with their new uniforms and an entirely new marching style, the band made almost all of the Arkansas football games and the familiar strains of the Rebel Charge spurred on both the football team and the students in the stands. Many impressive marching demonstrations were given during halftime ceremonies at the Arkansas games.

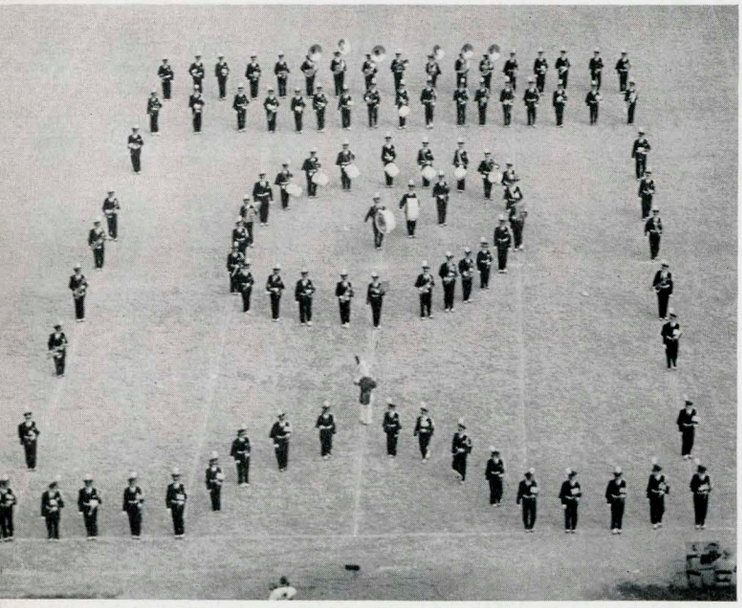

The band, to show versatility, also played concert arrangements and the Homecoming Parade gave yet another side of band life with the Ragged band. This group, wearing nondescript uniforms, made an immediate hit on the campus. A great deal of work and a lot of practice was necessary to make the Razorback Band what it was this year and taking all into consideration, it was an extremely successful year.

DIVERSION

A MAN can smile and smile and smile and be a villain.'' So the old saying goes, but luckily, there are but few villains around when the university lets its hair down and decides to have a good time. However, luckily, too, the smiles still linger . . . even after the time of diversion is passed. At least one thing is certain: Whether it's a street dance like the ''cement mixer'' shown above, a hot political race (above left), or just packing to move out after rush week (center), the university's fun-loving students know how to have a good time.

The inevitable "bevy of beauties" greet Razorback Cameraman before one of the night rush parties.

A cleanup was in order . . . the floors, of course.

A bathing suit, a ballet dress, an evening gown and school clothes, what else?

SORORITY RUSH

Zetas had a quartet chorus-line . . . with a female MC, no less.

Rushees throng Union doorway before getting back to the grind.

Best dressed girls on the campus . . . 30 years ago!

Rushees take a short rest at DG pajama party.

The UofAs own Monte Carlo . . . money isn't real, though.

SORORITY RUSH

Chio living room looks a bit crowded at this point.

Friendly greetings and farewells were order of the day . . . everywhere.

Our cameramen missed what they were looking at . . . but it's an intriguing shot.

Pi Phis make like Peter Rabbit for rushees . . . entertaining, don't you think?

Everyone seems well entertained, but look at the blossoming of flash-bulb smiles.

All over but the moving in.

SORORITY RUSH

And the moving out!

Above you will find an excellent example of a student convocation. We trust there was no speaker.

Rushees, after hearing names called, are escorted from Union . . . to another party.

Wassell made an excellent interlocutor for the SAE minstrel.

FRATERNITY RUSH

KZs engage in friendly discussion with rushees . . . the week was still young.

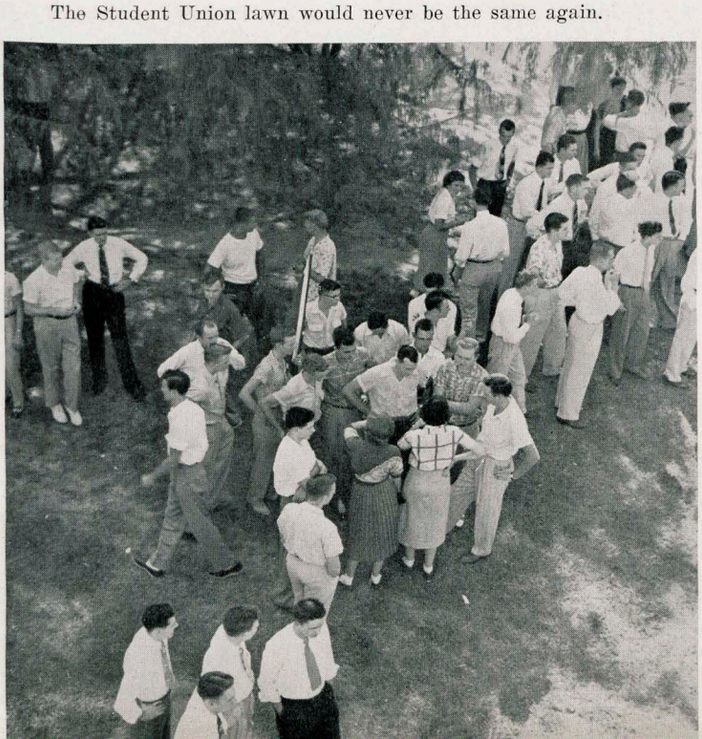

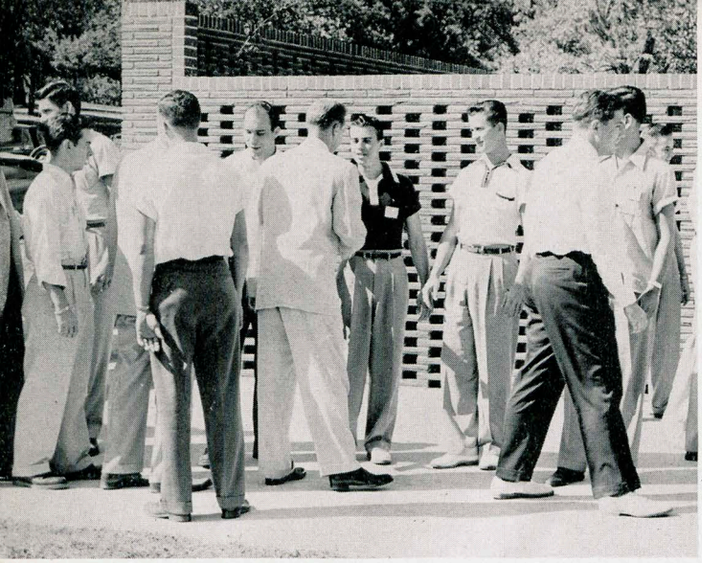

Interested students await announcement of new pledges on lawn of Student Union.

Sigma Chis moved out to patio as the thermometer soared.

The Student Union lawn would never be the same again.

Sigma Nus form a receiving line outside to beat unseasonal heat.

FRATERNITY RUSH

Lambda Chis enjoyed spacious facilities of new house.

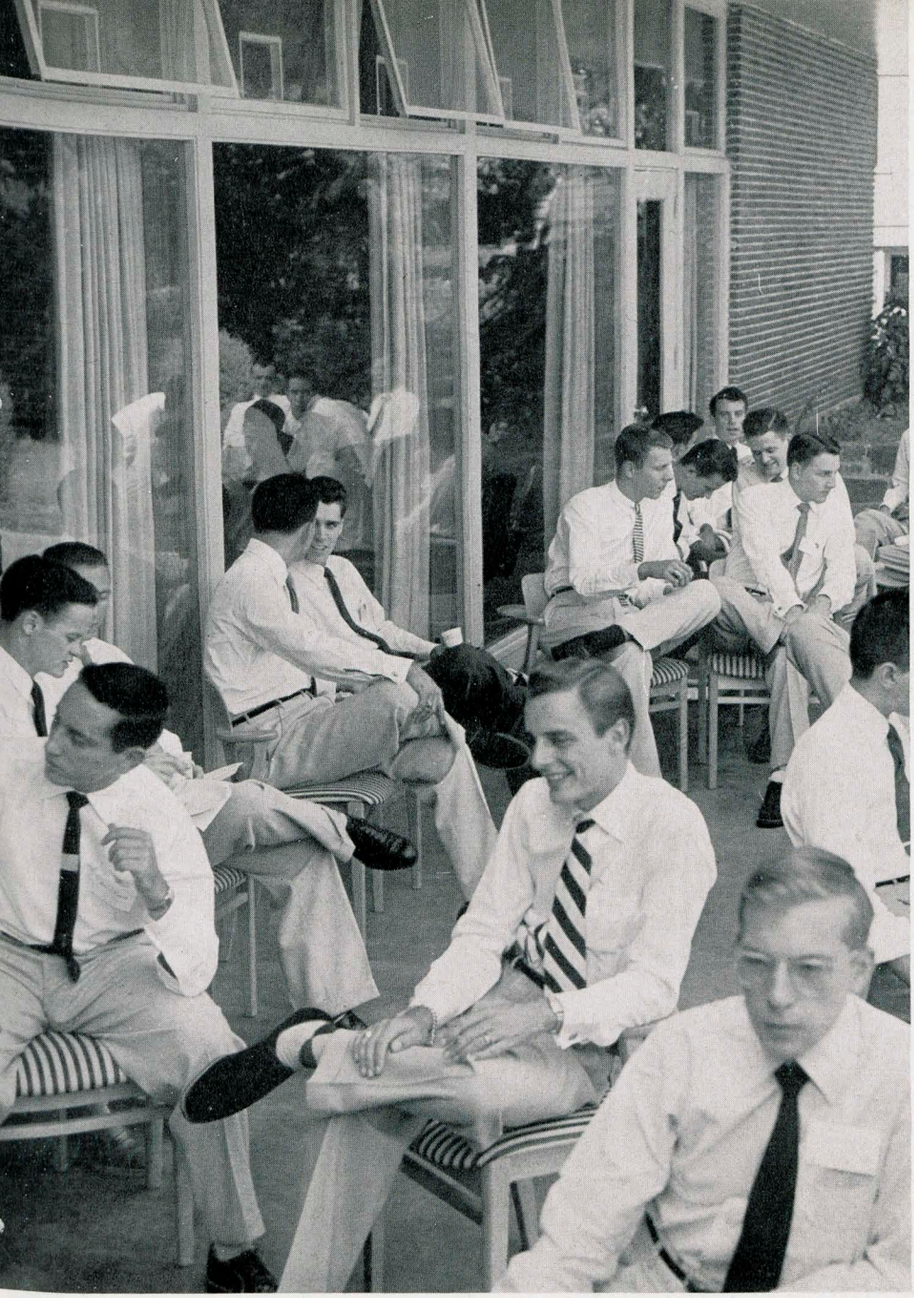

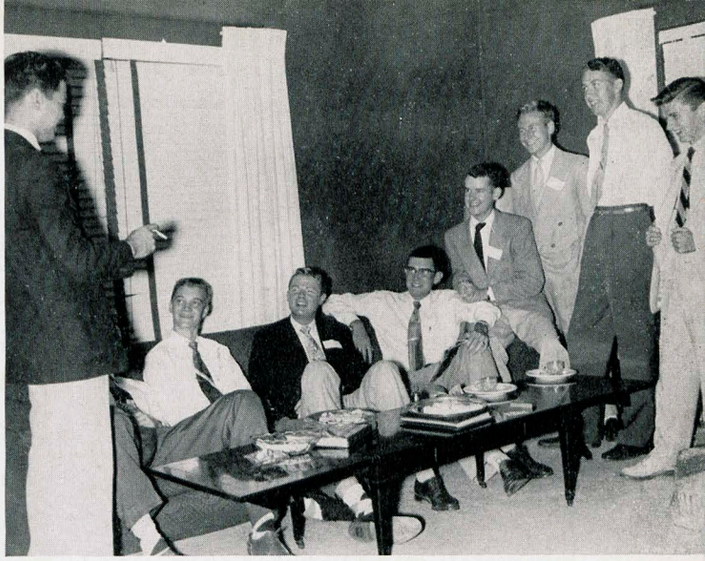

And a good time was had by all present!

This lengthy discussion could be on almost any subject . . . even politics.

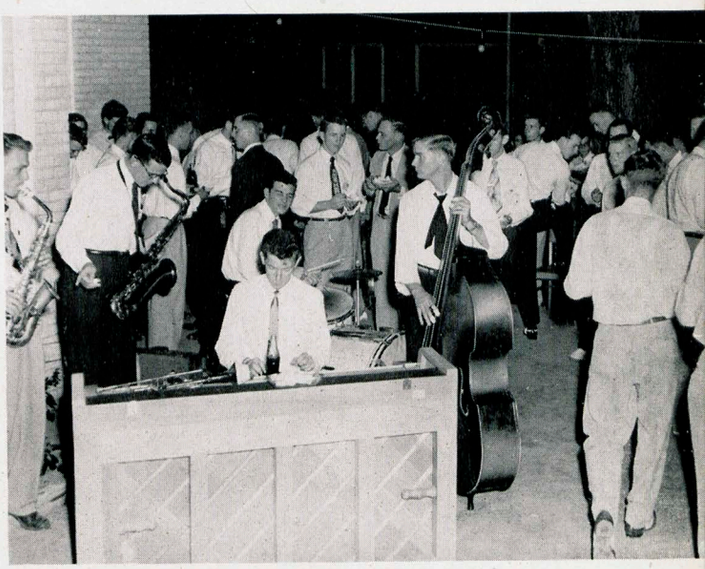

Sigma Nus also enjoyed fresh air of patio.

Boyce drops words of wisdom to Phi Delt rushees.

FRATERNITY RUSH

Sigma Chi "combo" gave the festivities a musical air.

Shirt sleeves were in vogue at most of the parties and water by the gallon.

In the event you are wondering, these are supposed to be Greek gods and goddesses come to life in varsity show.

The gods and goddesses are practicing the art of being gods and goddesses.

Below we present the one and only Cugat in an ancient Rumanian folk dance . . .

GAEBALE

Pi Phi gave an impression of a Turkish harem. Sultan Ann Ferguson, presiding.

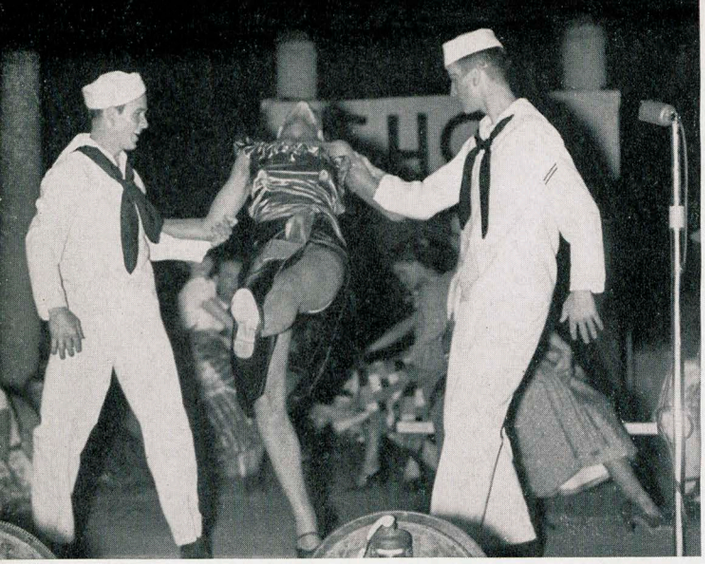

Kappas won Gaebale Carnival award with a real-life presentation of "Showboat."

At extreme right you will notice a student taking a bath during the Gaebale parade.

Dancers in varsity show warm up before rehearsal.

Beyond comment!

GAEBALE

Two inmates of Pi Phi harem take a break.

Xavier and company delight student audience with Beethoven's Fifth.

Governor-to-be Cherry found beauty show to his liking.

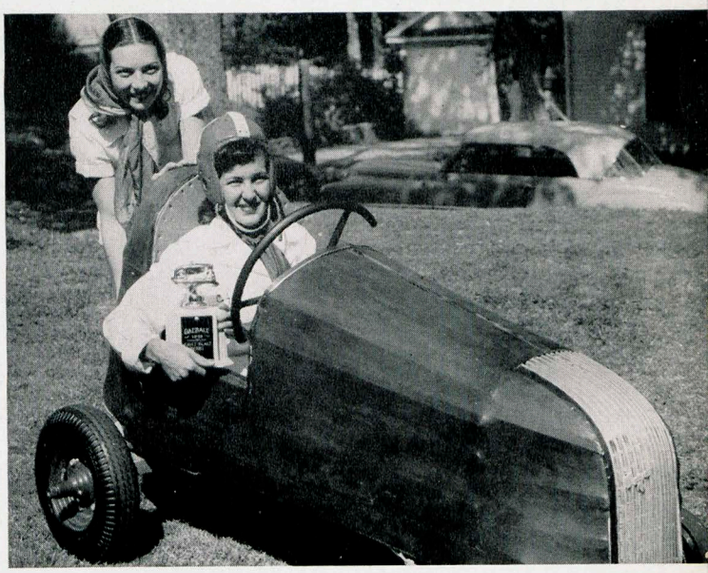

Varsity show star seems to have detected something amiss . . . The Varsity Show!!!

Sigma Nu show featured Arty motif.

GAEBALE

The winner of the soap box derby . . .

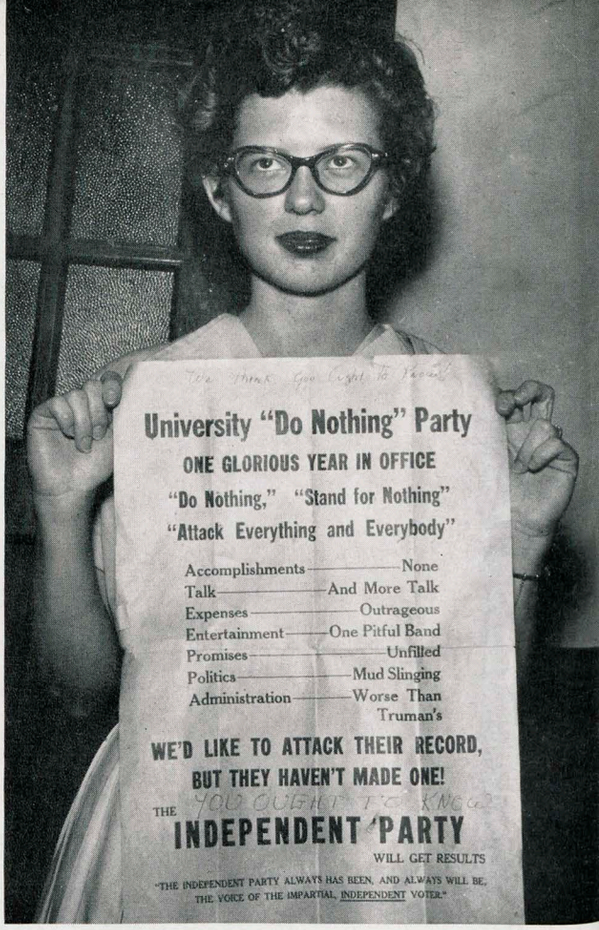

Texas dancers performed in Fine Arts Center Theatre during weekend.

The Associated Students line up to exercise their right to vote for the candidates of their choice . . .

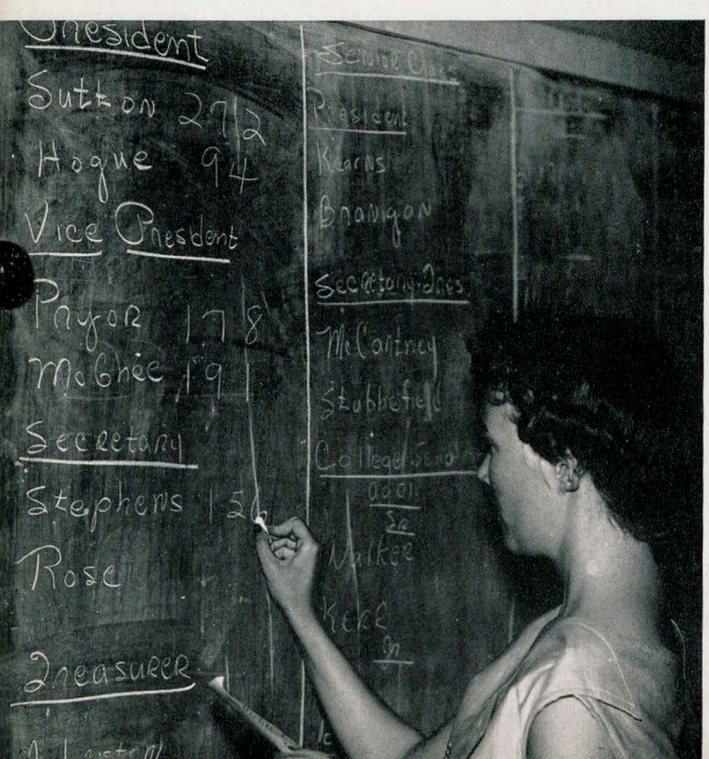

University Party official shows copy of opposition "Attack sheet."

A victorious president and wife beam as results gave overwhelming majority to Sutton . . .

STUDENT ELECTION

An anxious crowd milled around as the first results began to trickle in . . .

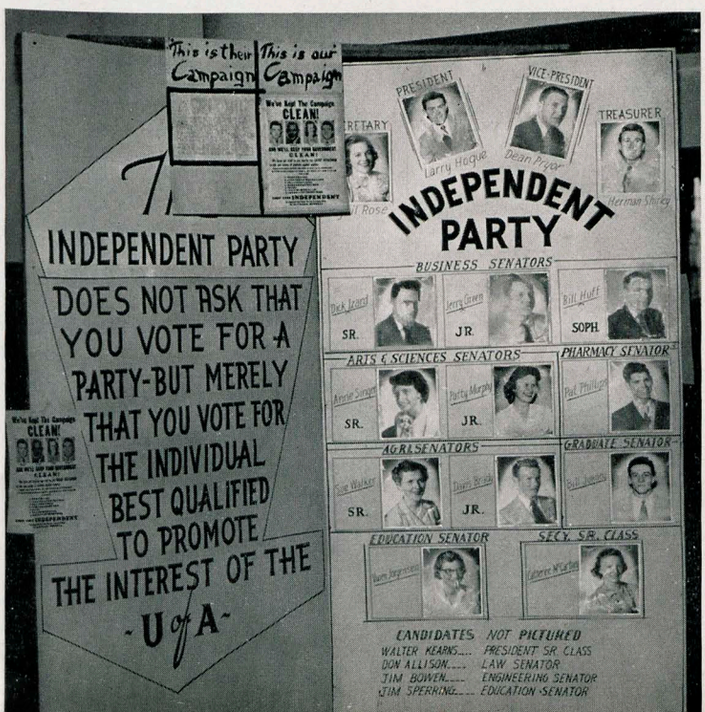

The new Student Senate takes over following end of hot political campaign . . .

The new president, vice-president and Party Campaign Manager discuss results as first lady looks on . . .

Independent Party signboard contrasts U. P. ''Pink Sheet'' with ''clean'' campaign poster . . .

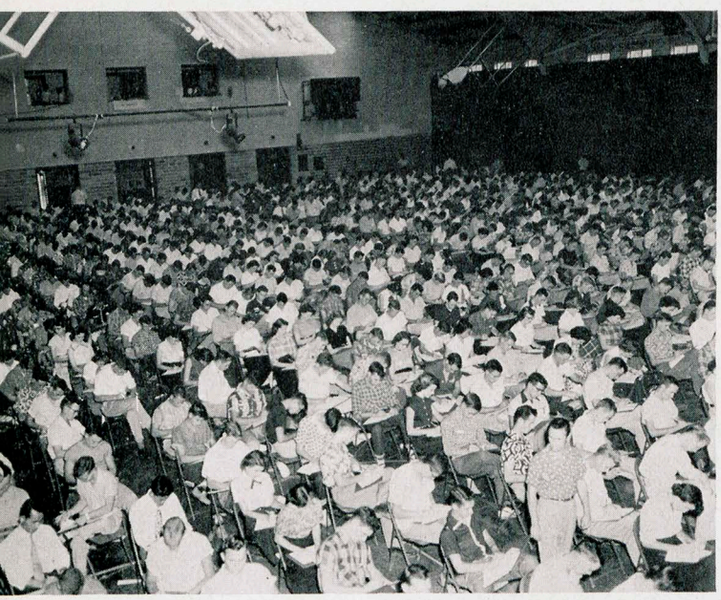

The military was also on hand.

REGISTRATION

Freshmen had to take entrance exams.

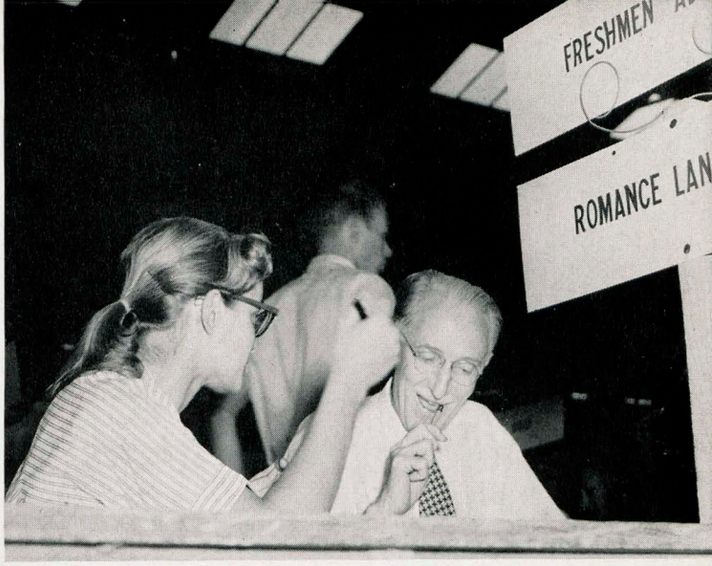

A word from the wise is sufficient . . . usually . . .

Part of the first day's line to begin fall regisrtation forms at Field House.

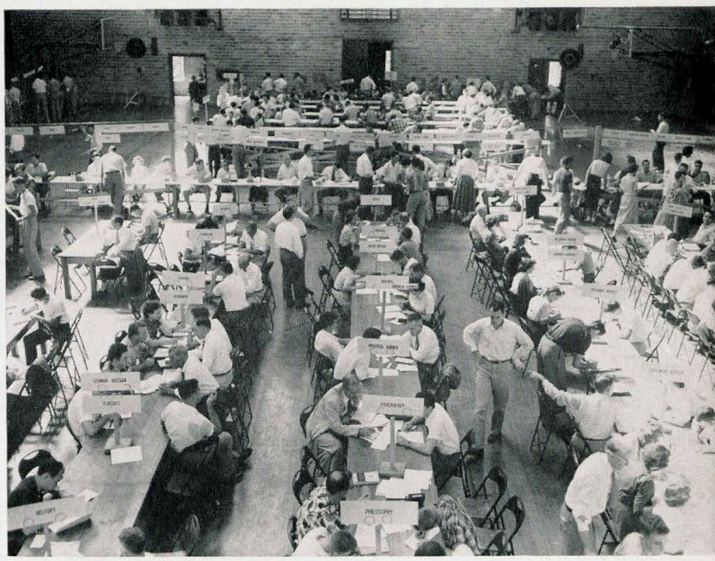

Even photographers were asked to register in one of the many Field House lines . . .

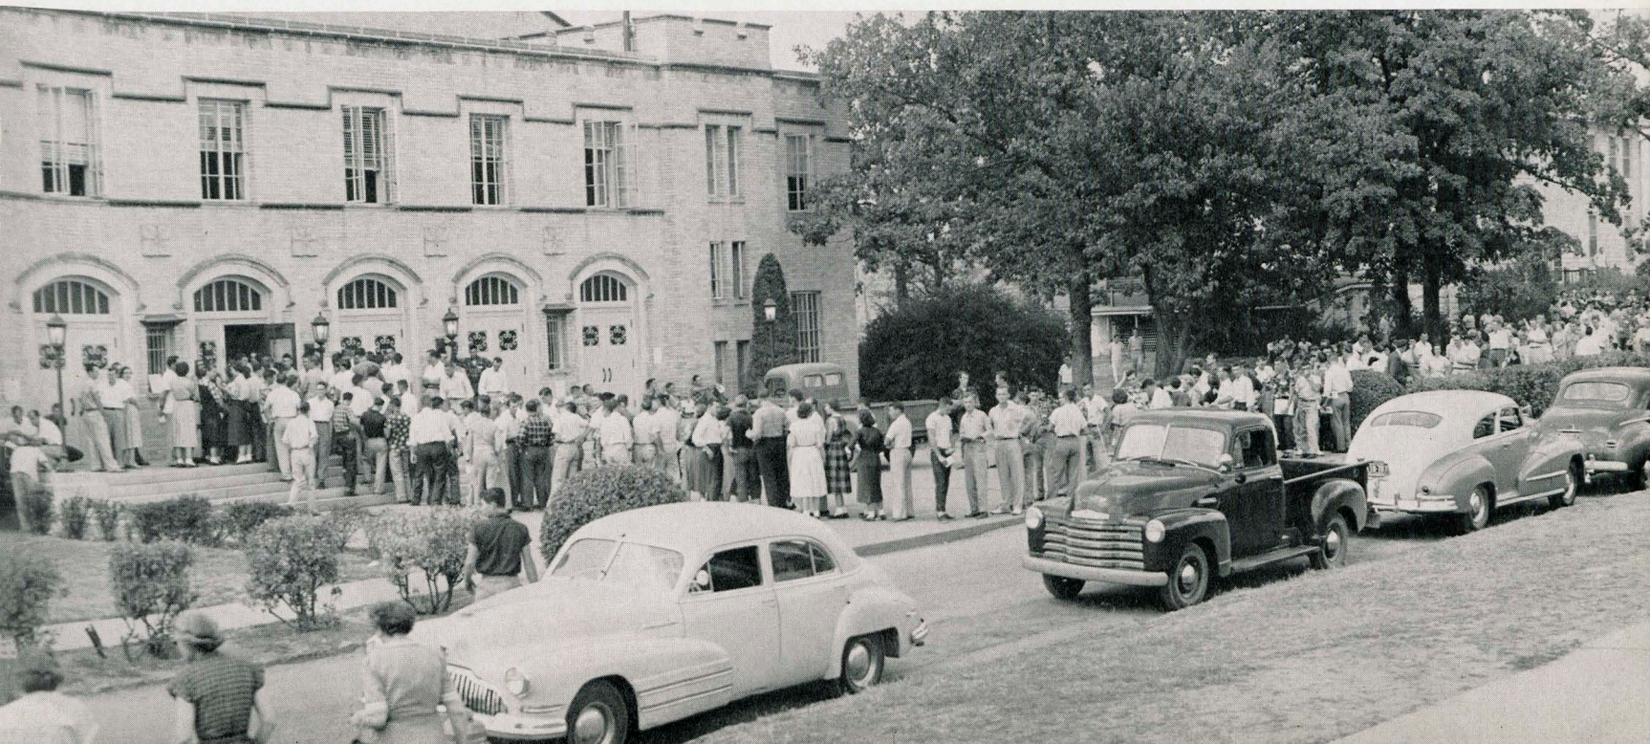

The sign above could be misleading . . .

REGISTRATION

Everyone got seated at a quiet moment in the registration melee . . .

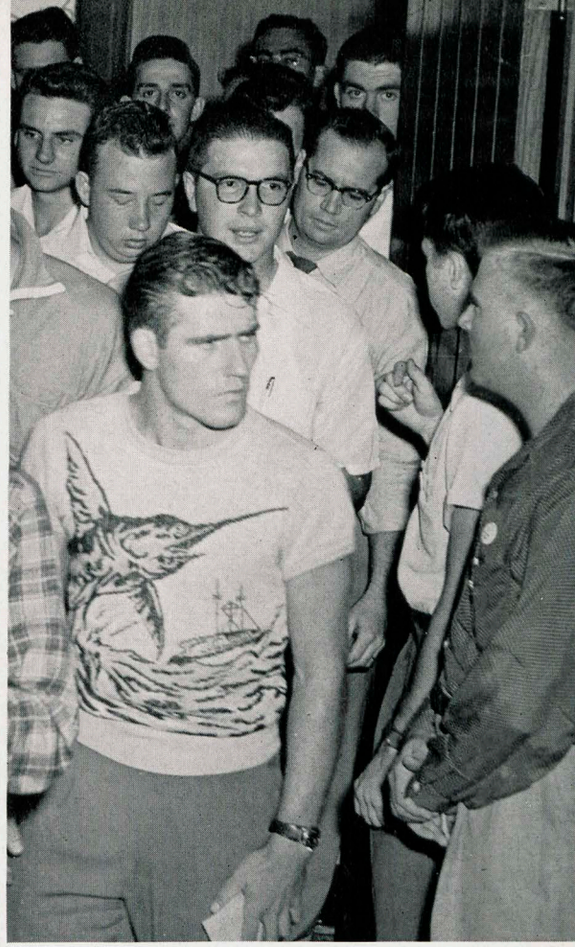

Yet another line develops as students try to get worrisome ordeal over . . .

''There must be a less complicated way of doing this,'' the line sentiment said.

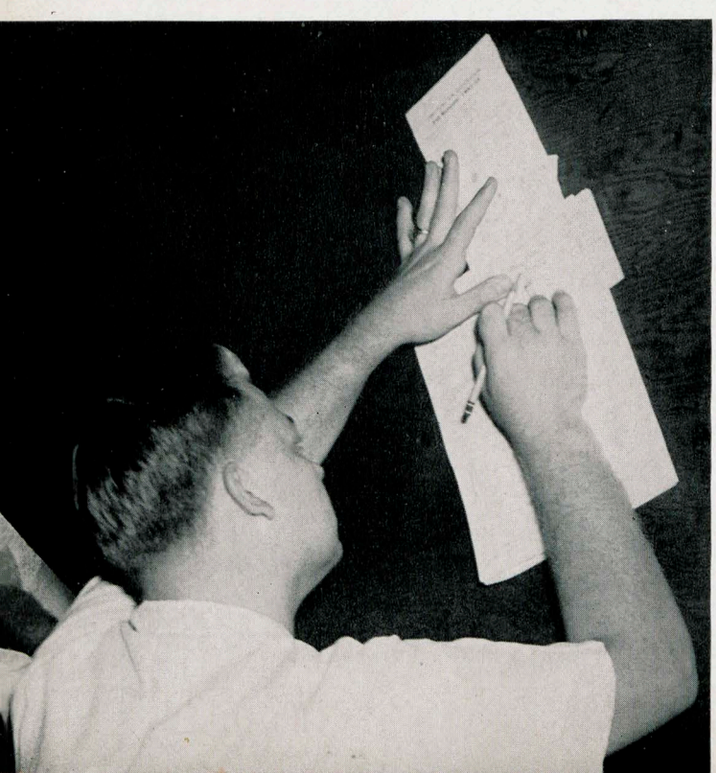

Everyone had to have a number.

The end of the line is in the upper left hand corner on Maple street.

REGISTRATION

Seriously, this fellow is not voting . . . he's registering for fall semester.

SWEETHEART OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS

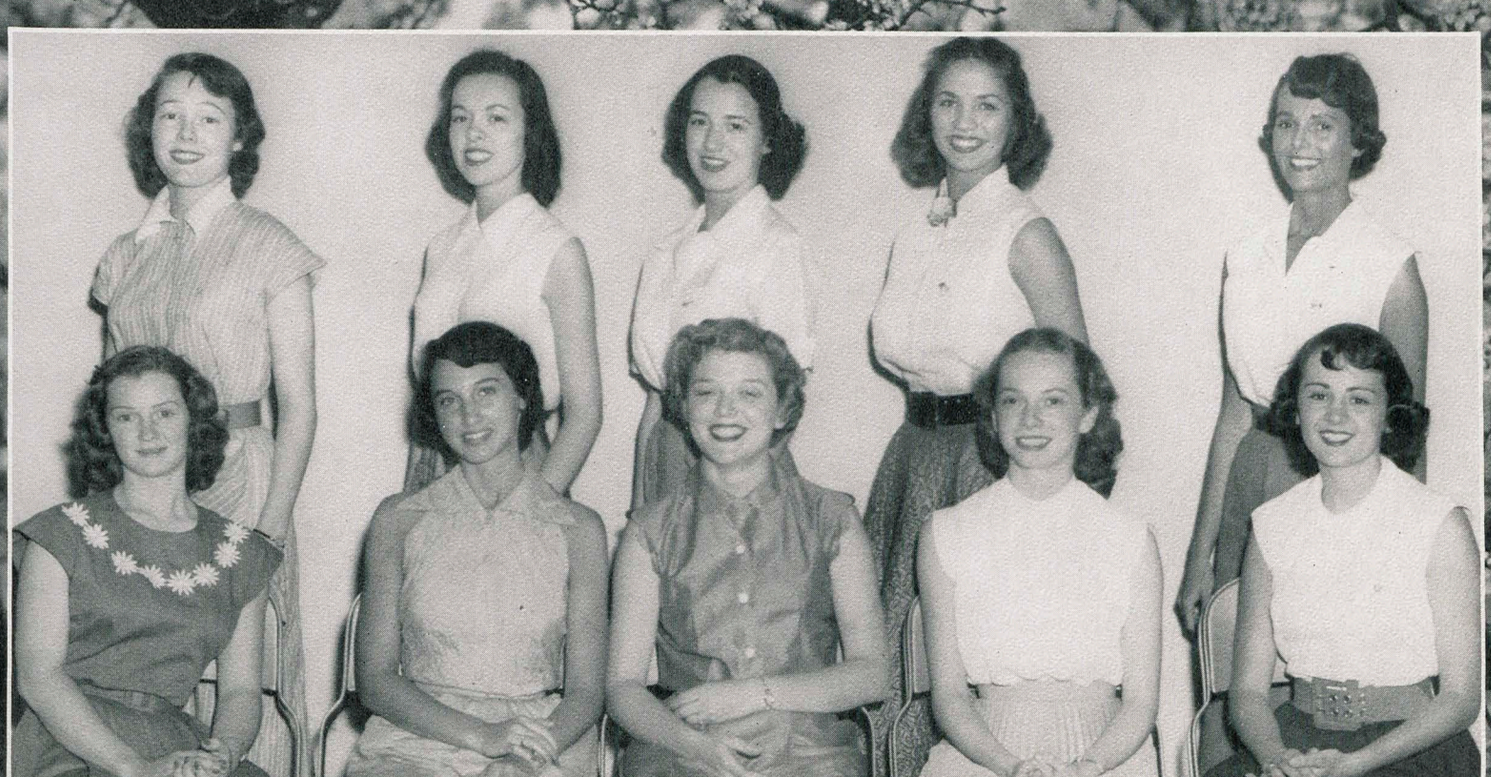

MISS BETTE CASTLEBERRY
Zeta Tau Alpha

Miss Castleberry was selected in the Spring of 1952 during the Gaebele celebration as the first annual Sweetheart of the University of Arkansas. On this page appear scenes of Gaebale Beauty Show, in which Bette was named.

With the final decision out of the way, a few of the judges compare notes . . .

Anyone for a nerve tonic???

As one candidate walks out of judging room another enters . . . after suitable primping, of course . . .

BEAUTIES

State's Congressional Medal winners look down on Arkansas beauty . . .

Facial expressions were as varied as the opinions of the judges . . .

No one seemed to know just what their expressions should be . . .

BEAUTIES

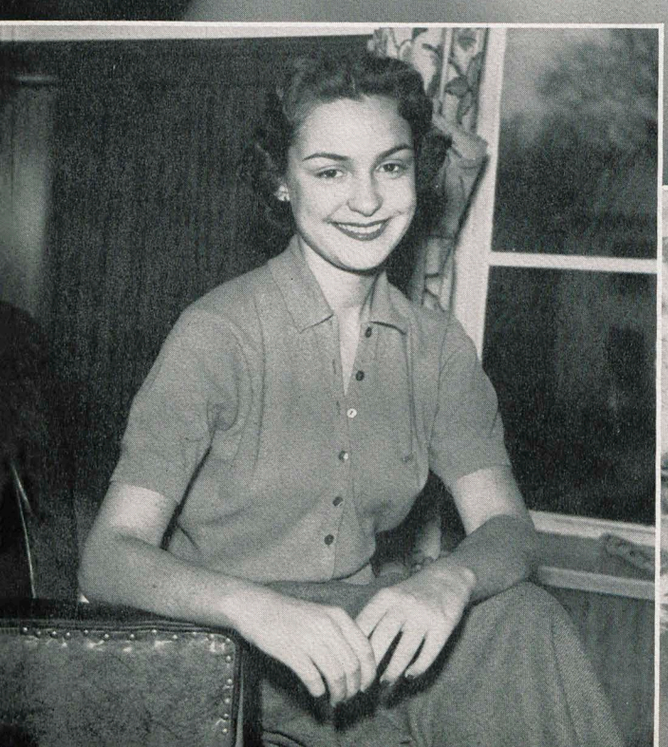

Soon after the judging began a crowd began to gather . . . most stuck it out . . .

The beauties of the Arkansas campus pass in review!!!

COMPETITION

RIGHT after the new school year gets underway, the spirit of competition may be seen in every direction. The military comes to life after the long summer camp season is over and drill begins. The results can be seen above. Intramural wrestling and varsity baseball fall into place after the major sports of football and basketball have had their day and occasionally you may see a young man strolling to the union with a coed on each arm . . . all, in a sense, a part of the competitive spirit that goes to make the university what it is today.

RAZORBACK COACHES

JOHN BARNHILL

Athletic Director Barnhill came to the University of Arkansas as head coach in 1946 after an extremely successful tenure at Tennessee. With him, Barnhill moved in the Tennessee single wing and the rock-ribbed defense that has for years made Tennessee famous. He remained as head coach for four years until 1949 when he was elevated to the position of Athletic Director.

Coaching Assistants: Tommy Thompson, George Cole, Charlie Hanks, William Ferrell, Dick Humbert.

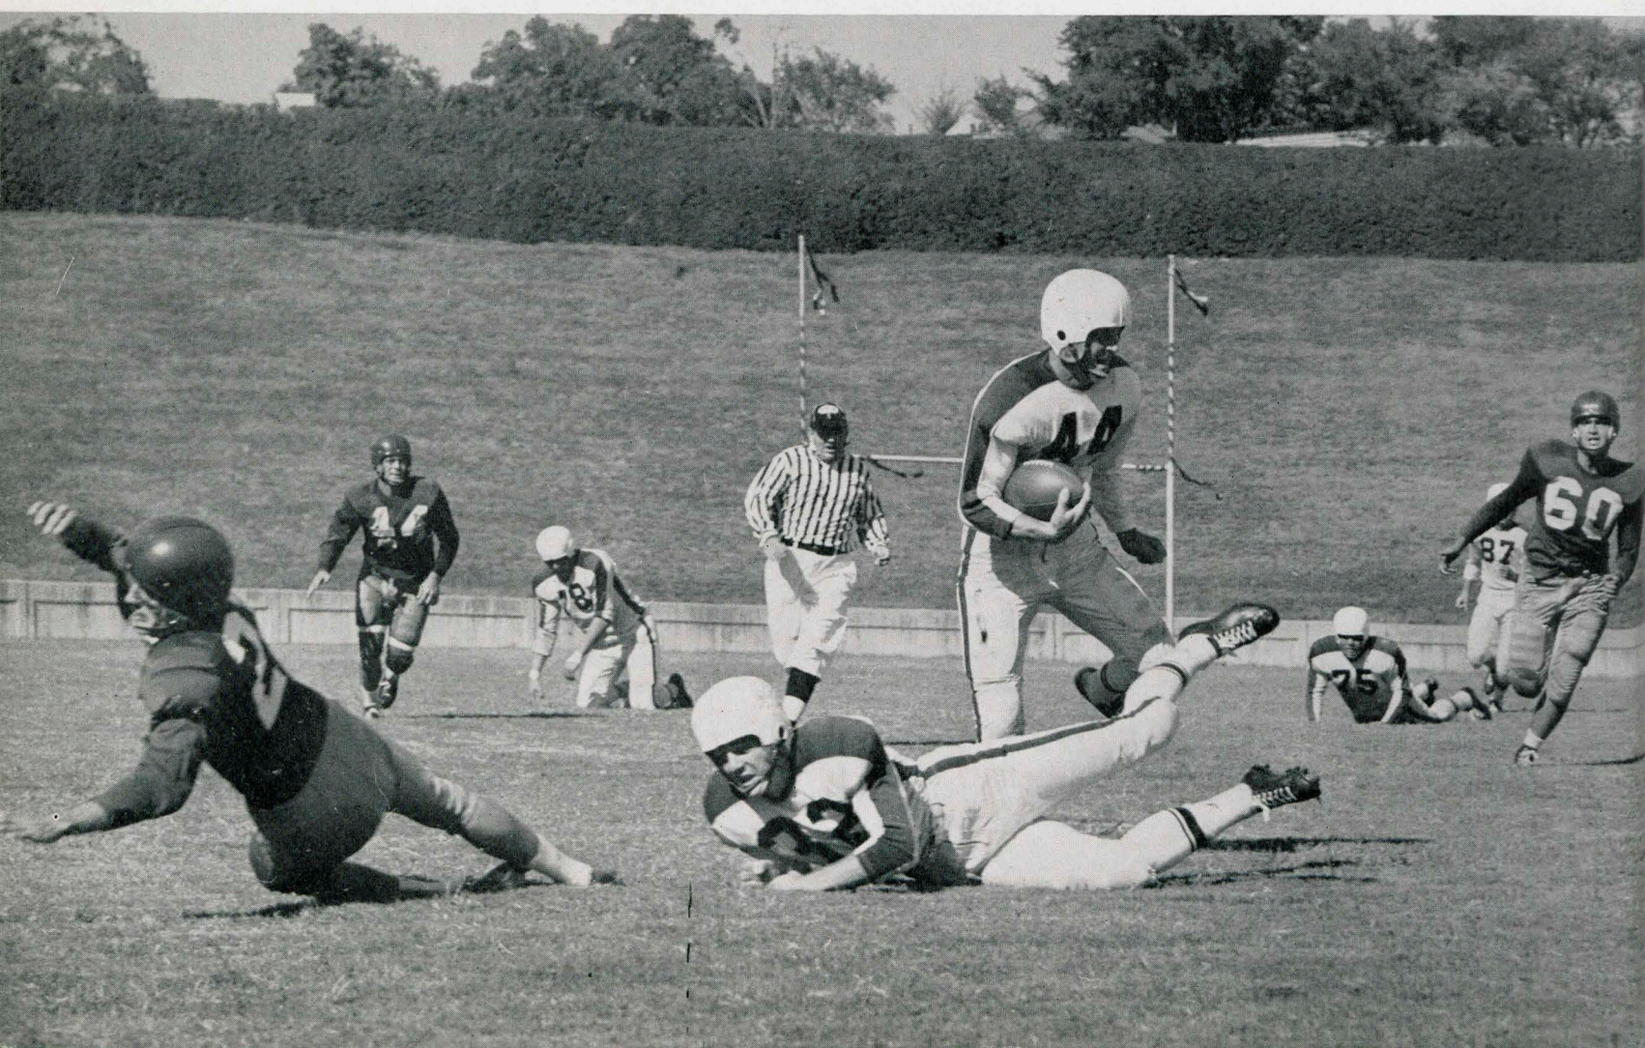

OTIS DOUGLAS

Coach Otis Douglas rounded out his three years at Arkansas with a 2–8 season. Douglas came to the Razorbacks from the Assistant Coach spot of the Philadelphia Eagles. He brought with him several of the greats of pro-football to aid in the switch away from the single wing to the T formation. During his three years, the Razorbacks, plagued by bad luck and the fickle finger of fate, won only nine games while dropping 21.

The line piles up as Razorbacks squeeze by Oklahoma Aggies, 22-20.

One touchdown was all the Porkers could make in falling to Houston.

ARKANSAS — 22
OKLAHOMA — 20

The Razorbacks opened the football season with a victory over Oklahoma A. & M. at Little Rock the night of September 19. The Porkers preserved their 22–20 margin when they held the Aggies in the waning seconds of the game.

The kicking toe of Carl Mazza provided what proved to be the difference. He booted a field goal from the 17-yard line early in the first quarter.

The victory was a shaky one for the Razorbacks. Coach Otis Douglas described the offense as "spotty" and the defense as "inconsistent."

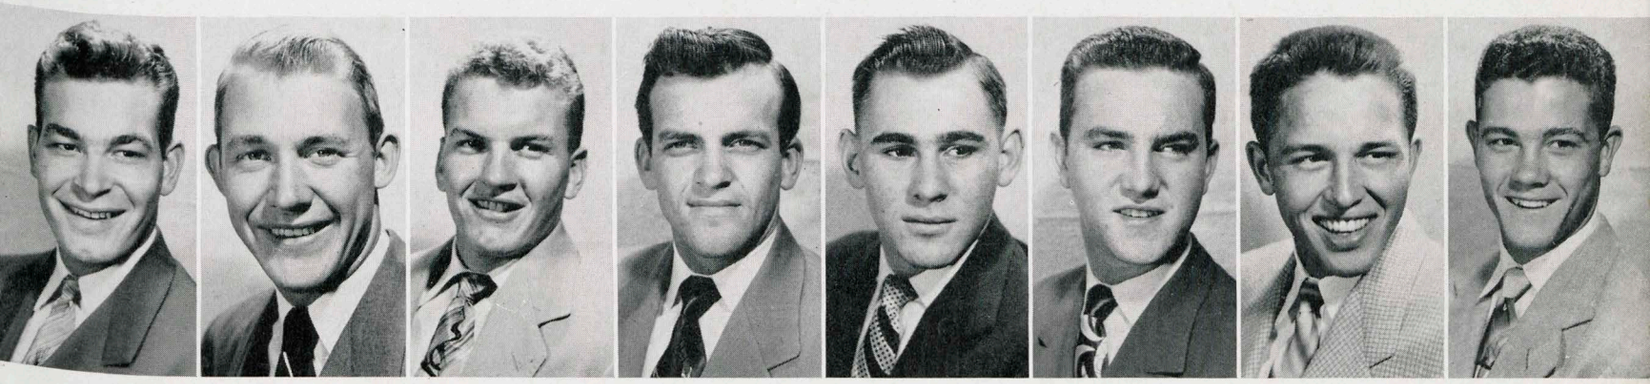

Ron Forrester led the Razorback receivers with four catches good for 74 yards and one touchdown. In the ball-carrying department, Lewis Carpenter toted for 70 yards in 21 carries.

But perhaps the sensation of the game was Bud Brooks, a sophomore. The iron-muscled defensive lineman twice shook the ball loose from an Aggie carrier, and he covered one fumble himself.

Either team could have won. The statistics bear out the tiny difference in the score—both teams made 14 first downs; the Aggies made 136 yards rushing to 115 for Arkansas; Arkansas passed for 139 yards to 120 for the Aggies; Arkansas was penalized 91 yards to 35 for the Aggies.

Forrester scored one of the Razorback TDs and Carpenter scored two.

HOUSTON — 17

After Otis Douglas had resigned, he said that this was the game that "alarmed" him. An ambitious outfit from the University came to the Ozarks to take their first victory over a Southwest Conference team on the sacrosanct soil of Razorback stadium.

The Razorbacks led, 7–3, at the half, but the final score was 17–7, Houston.

A 62-yard pass play from Bob St. Pierre to Lewis Carpenter accounted for the only Razorback touchdown. St. Pierre spelled Lamar McHan, the Porks' triple-threat quarterback who had been injured on the first play of the game.

One would-be Razorback touchdown, a 60-yard punt return by Co-captain Dean Pryor, was called back for clipping.

The "off-day" atmosphere of the Razorback team can be summed up in a recall of the opening and closing plays. A Razorback fumbled the opening kickoff. The game ended with Houston in possession after an Arkansas drive had been stymied near the goal by a penalty.

It was the second game the Razorbacks had lost on their home field in 10 years—the other being a 9–6 loss at the hands of the Rice Owls at the 1950 Homecoming.

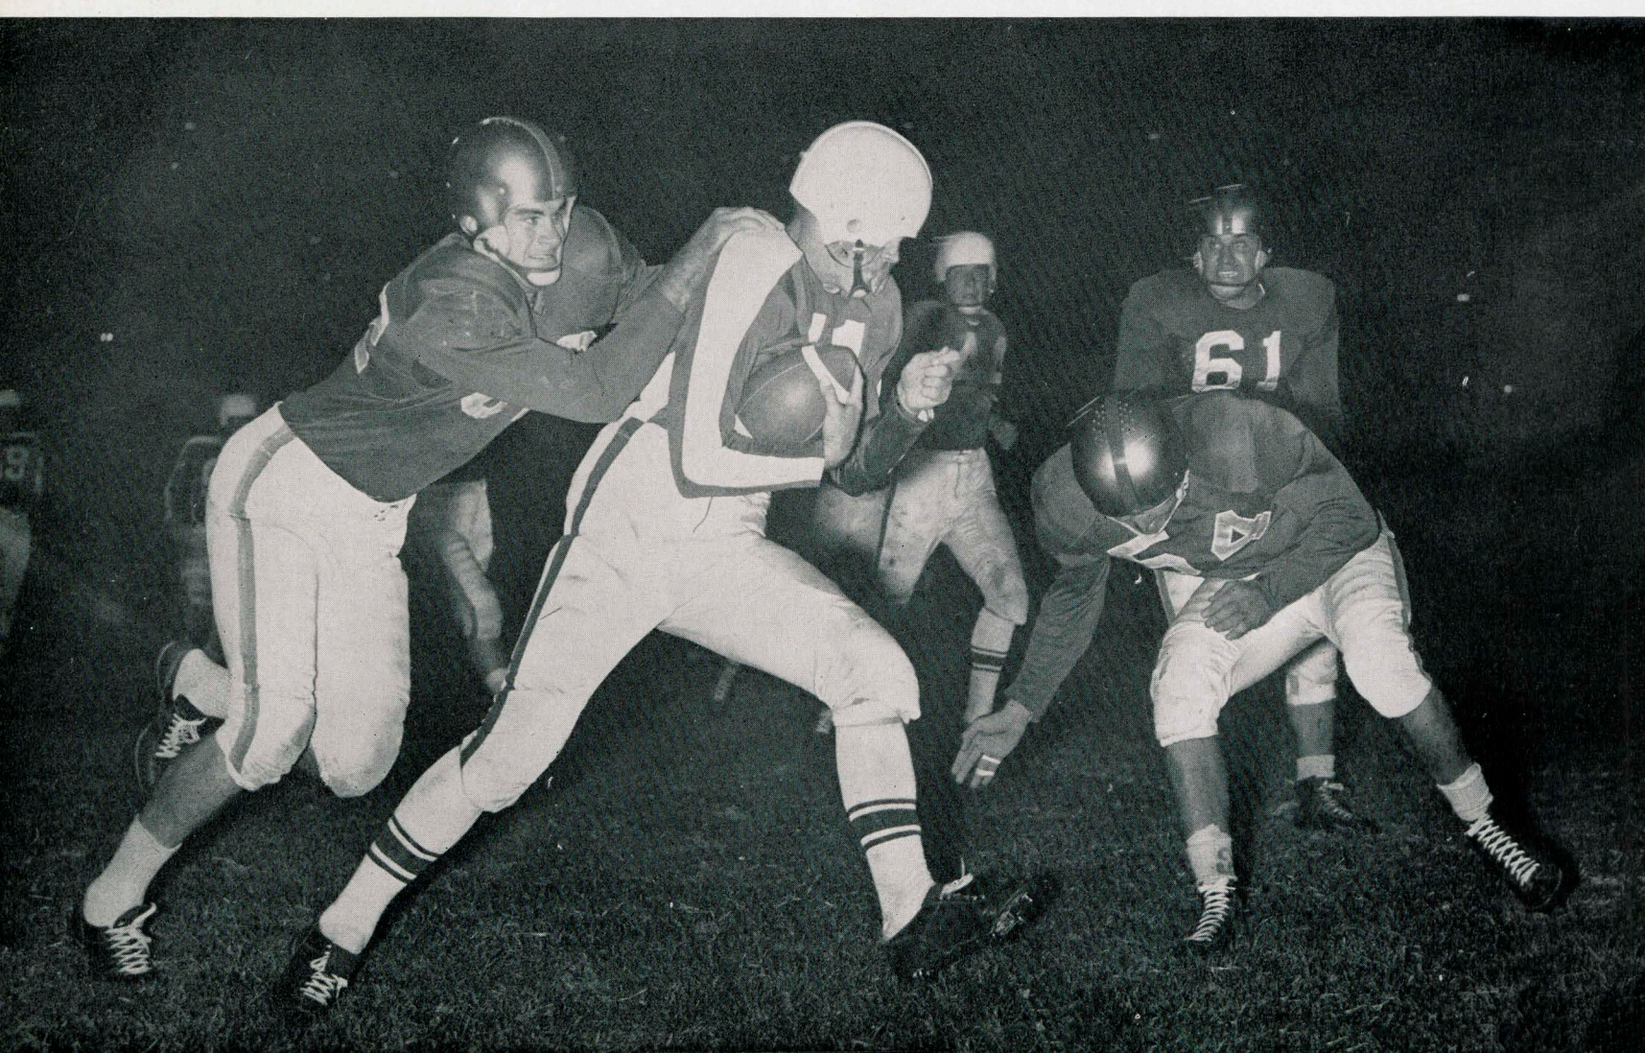

Bud Brooks again played an outstanding defensive game for the Razorbacks. He gave his team a break early in the second half when he jarred the ball loose from a Houston back. But the Porker offense bogged again, and McHan punted.

TCU stumbled past Hogs, 13-7, in Southwest Conference opener.

Razorbacks opened up latent power to overcome Baylor Bears, 20-17.

ARKANSAS — 7
T. C. U. — 13

Although the offense could generate enough for only one sustained scoring drive, Coach Otis Douglas called this the Razorbacks' first "good" game of the season. The defense did a fine job of clogging up the fancy spread formation used so successfully by TCU.

The Porkers utilized late in the game a deep split T, with Lewis Carpenter or Lamar McHan or Bob St. Pierre playing in the fullback's shoes. The ball could be snapped through the quarterback's legs directly to the fullback. The strategy planned to give the passer more time to find a receiver and the runner more time to pick up blocking.

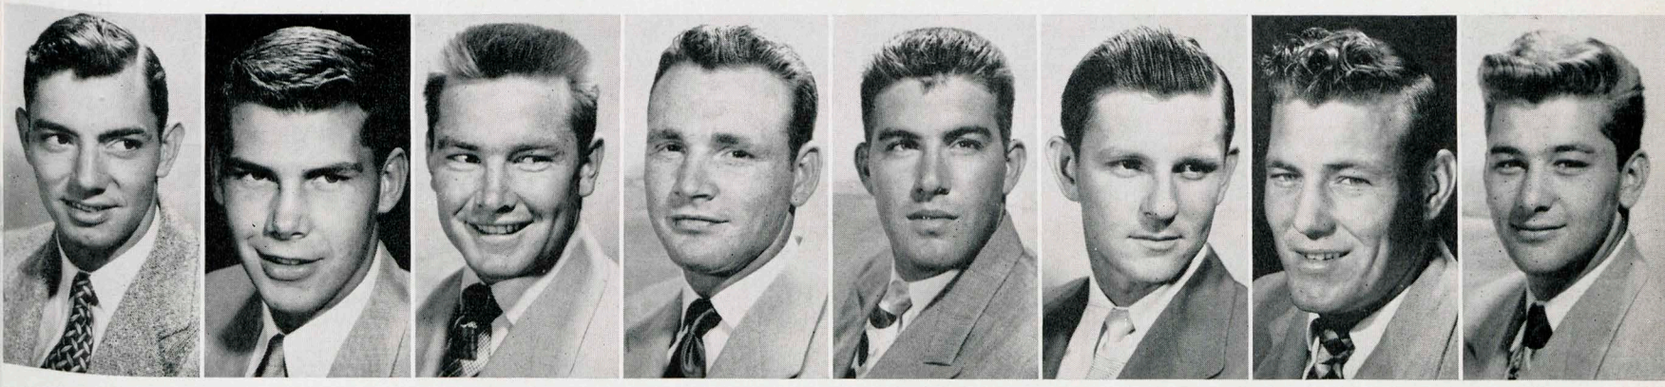

But the TCU kept the Hogs deep in their own territory in the second half, and they could not use their new formation to good advantage.

The Frogs wasted little time on their first score. Ray McKown took Dick Keyser's kickoff and returned it 10 yards before lateralling to Ronnie Clinkscale, who got to the 16. The Frogs then covered 84 yards on six plays for a touchdown. McKown passed to Blair for the tally.

Arkansas retaliated with Buddy Sutton, Carpenter and Jack Troxell doing the toting work. Troxell scored from the 18-yard line and Mazza tied the score, 7–7.

A Razorback fumble and a penalty set up the winning tally. TCU scored in three plays from the Arkansas 20 with McKown going through the line for the last seven yards.

BAYLOR — 17

Ralph Troillett, ranked No. 3 on the rollcall of Razorback quarterbacks, took the field in the third quarter when Lamar McHan's knee was injured. He promptly engineered the Porkers to their first (and only) Southwest Conference victory of the season.

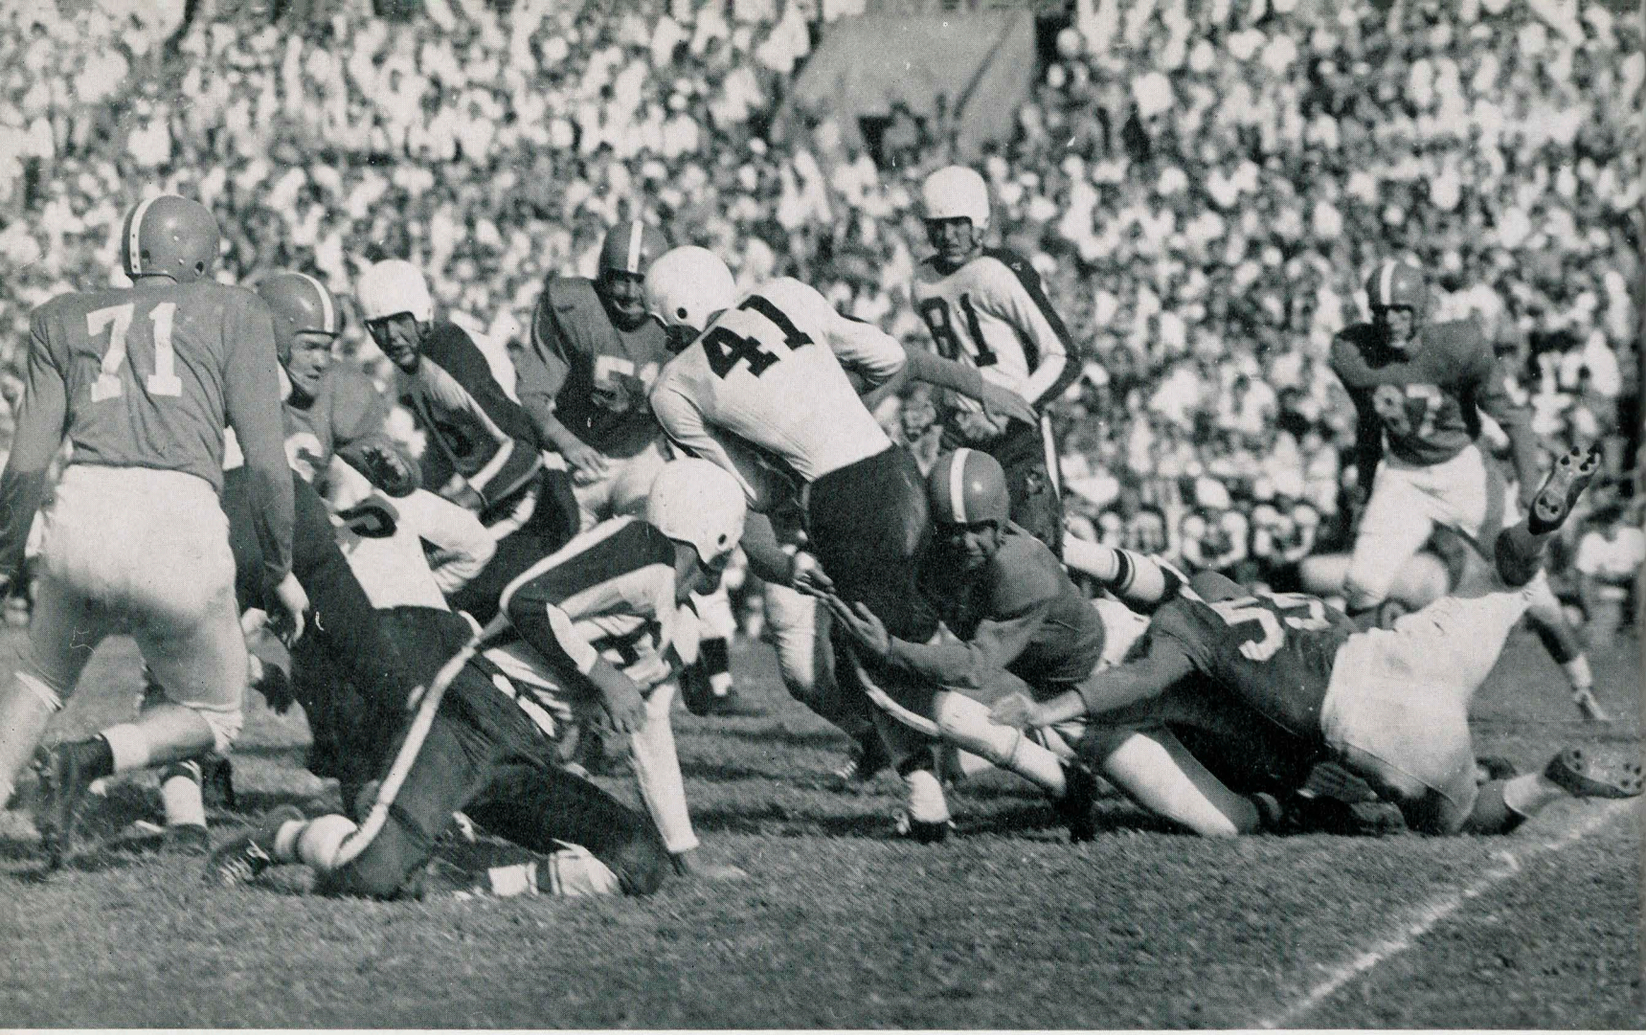

By virtue of a McHan-to-Jerry Bogard pass, the Razorbacks were even with Baylor, 7–7, at the half.

Troillett accounted for the other two Razorback tallies, one on a quarterback sneak and the other on a pass to Murray Elton. After the game, Troillett was carried from the field by Razorback players and fans. In the dressing room, Co-captain Buddy Sutton presented Troillett with the game ball.

The game was hard-fought. One Razorback was motioned off the field by an official for unnecessary roughness. And two consecutive Baylor penalties for roughness turned the tide of the game in the third quarter.

Baylor touchdowns were scored by a Billy Hooper-to-Don Carpenter pass and a run by Jerry Coody. C. O. Brocato, who beat Arkansas with a field goal last year, also booted a three-pointer.

The game was played at Little Rock the night of October 11.

Mississippi couldn't do anything wrong in crushing Pigs, 34-7.

TEXAS — 44

Evidently the Texas Longhorns could still sniff the unpleasant odor of the 1951 loss they suffered at the hands of the Razorbacks. They socked the Porkers at Austin, Tex., October 18 to the tune of a 44-to-7 triumph.

And there was never any doubt. The Texas backfield (all of which made the all-SWC offensive team) steamrollered over Arkansas' defense from beginning to end.

The massive Longhorns charged in the line like one man. Their backs churned for three to seven or 10 yards on every play. Not once did the Steers punt. They collected 31 first downs to five for Arkansas, 388 yards on the ground to 63 for Arkansas, 125 yards in the air to 49 for Arkansas.

Arkansas' lone touchdown came in the third quarter. Bob St. Pierre, who quarterbacked in place of the injured Lamar McHan, passed 15 yards to End Ron Forrester to set up the tally. Then Murray Elton swept end, six yards to pay dirt.

It was the worst beating for Arkansas at the hands of a Texas football team since 1942 when the Steers poured it on, 47–7, at Little Rock.

Gib Dawson was a runaway locomotive for Texas. He scored three touchdowns and kicked six extra points for a 24-point total.

OLE MISS — 34

A team that was on its way to its first undefeated season and a place in the Sugar Bowl against Georgia Tech would not be stopped by the Razorbacks. Ole Miss trampled Arkansas, 34–7, at Little Rock, October 25.

Jimmy Lear and Tommy Spiers were the punch for Ole Miss, and although they frequently got trouble from Porkers Bud Brooks, J. W. Loudermilk and Charlie Faulkinberry, they were as perfect as could be expected.

Arkansas entered the end zone first, scoring within five minutes of the opening kickoff. Lewis Carpenter led the drive and did the scoring. After the game, Coach Otis Douglas called Carpenter the best player on the field. He gained 99 yards on eight carries and grabbed five passes for 70 yards.

Lamar McHan, still weak from a leg injury suffered in the Baylor game, went most of the way for the Razorbacks. He moved good enough to pass and direct the plays, but he had to ignore several chances to run because his leg would not carry him.

It was the worst shellacking Arkansas ever received from Ole Miss, an old rival which just last year reentered the Razorback schedule.

It was another rout for Porkers as Cadets stormed past by 31-12.

Arkansas went down in a high-scoring 35-33 defeat before Owls.

ARKANSAS — 12
TEXAS A&M — 31

The "grey ghost" of Texas A. & M.—Ray Graves —was too much for the Razorbacks at College Station November 1, and the Porkers' chances of a winning season dropped below water level. The 31–12 loss dropped the Razorbacks into the Southwest Conference cellar.

The Razorbacks matched Graves at his own game—passing—but they could not make it pay off in the clutches. Ralph Troillett and Lamar McHan did most of the tossing and completed 12 of 26 with six interceptions.

McHan passed to Floyd Sagely for the first Razorback touchdown and Troillett passed to Lewis Carpenter for the other. The Aggie game marked the end of a brilliant college football career for Carpenter. He was injured on the next-to-last play of the game and did not recover before the end of the season. Carpenter missed only three plays in the Aggies game —two in the middle when he took a rest from his middle linebacker post and the last play of the game, after his injury.

Graves was insurmountable. He completed 19 passes for 231 yards. His favorite receiver was Don Ellis, the Aggies' left halfback, who caught eight of Graves' tosses. Ron Forrester led the Razorback receivers with six for 59 yards.

RICE — 35

If it had not been for a leaky first half, the score would not have been so close. The Razorbacks could have easily trimmed the feathers of the Rice Owls in their Dad's Day game at Fayetteville, November 8.

But the slipshod first half was there, and the Owls got three free touchdowns. Even then, the Razorback offense got fired up to take the lead in the second half. But the defense sagged again, and that was finis in the first Dad's Day loss in the young history of the event.

It was the first victory in six outings for the low-rated Owls, and it was the sixth loss for the Razorbacks. All chances of an even-break season went out the window.

Still, a little less wind in the face of Carl Mazza's last-minute field goal attempt might have saved victory. But his kick dropped about a foot short, although it was headed for the center of the uprights.

Fullback Lewis Carpenter, injured the week before in the A. & M. game, was replaced by Larry Hogue, who did a fine job, especially on a fullback trap play used frequently and successfully.

The difference in the score—two points—brought up a sad reminder. In three years with Douglas at the helm, the Razorbacks have lost three games to Rice by a total of 11 points. The score last year was 6–0 and in 1950 it was 9–6.

Mustangs spoiled Homecoming with 27-17 drubbing of Arkansas team.

Tulsa edged past Razorbacks in track-meet style game in Skelly Stadium, 44-34.

ARKANSAS—17
S. M. U. — 27

Arkansas slammed through, making its own breaks and then taking advantage of them, to lead SMU early in the game. But then the defense folded and the offense refused to click and the Mustangs took to the air to overtake and defeat the Razorbacks at their 31st Homecoming, 27–17, November 15.

The hero for SMU was chunky Sam Stollenwerck, son of a former SMU great who had quarterbacked the Ponies against Arkansas in the first Razorback Homecoming game in 1922. Arkansas won that game, 9 to 0.

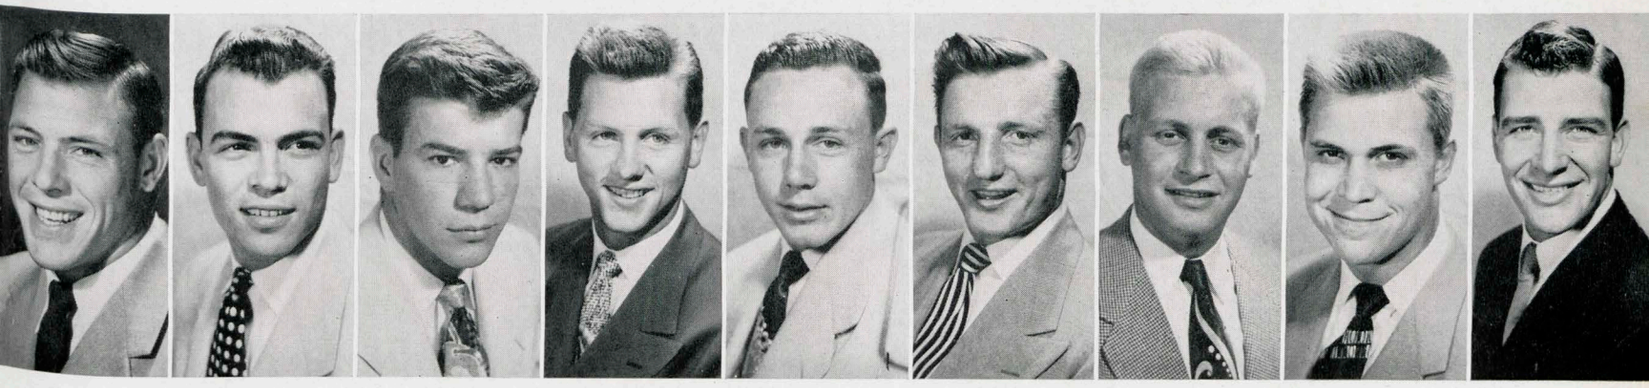

Carl Mazza started the scoring for Arkansas, booting a 40-yard field goal for a 3–0 lead with just 1:20 of the first quarter gone.

Later in the quarter two Mustangs misjudged Lamar McHan punts and both of the miscues led to scores. Buddy Sutton recovered one bobble in the end zone for a touchdown. Edsel Nix had slammed into the Pony safety and caused the fumble. Center Jimmy Cauthron covered the second miscue on the SMU two and McHan bucked his way into the end zone.

So, with the second quarter barely a second old, Arkansas led SMU, 17–0. But from there on, Arkansas's only role in the scoring was that of spectator.

Stollenwerck passed for three SMU touchdowns and his aerial total at the end of the game was 10 of 24 completed for 209 yards. He had splendid protection for his passing, and always had plenty of time to seek out the receiver he wanted.

TULSA — 44

Offensively speaking, the Razorbacks' best game of the year was their last one. They lost it, but for blocking, running and passing, it was the best Arkansas game of the year. Despite the 10 point difference, neither Arkansas nor Tulsa could be counted out until the final whistle.

The Razorback attack produced the season's high in points, but the defense was faced with the nation's greatest producer of yards—Tulsa's Howard Waugh—and it didn't measure up to the task.

In the first quarter, Arkansas showed its potential—which had remained hidden previously. After Tulsa had stomped down the field to score a quick touchdown, the Razorbacks roared back and took a 20–7 lead by the midway mark in the first period.

But in the end it was Waugh, and Tulsa offense that set national yardage records. Waugh carried 19 times for 250 yards and two touchdowns. Tulsa's total offense was 490 yards, 397 of it on the wet ground.

Jack Troxell scored the first Razorback touchdown by taking a kickoff on his six and racing 94 yards to the end zone. Edsel Nix recovered a fumble to set up the next Arkansas tally. Sutton and Elton counted through the line before Larry Hogue bashed his way to the end zone from 17 yards out.

It was the same formula as J. W. Loudermilk quickly recovered another Tulsa fumble on the Tulsa 47. On the next play Sutton barreled through center, cut to his left and out-ran the Tulsa defense to the goal line.

The other two Razorback touchdowns were scored by Hogue.

GLEN ROSE, Head Basketball Coach, returned to the helm in 1952.

BASKETBALL

The Razorback Basketball team, after making a good showing in early season games, fell by the way-side when conference play started. Glen Rose returned to the University, bringing the fast break style of play.

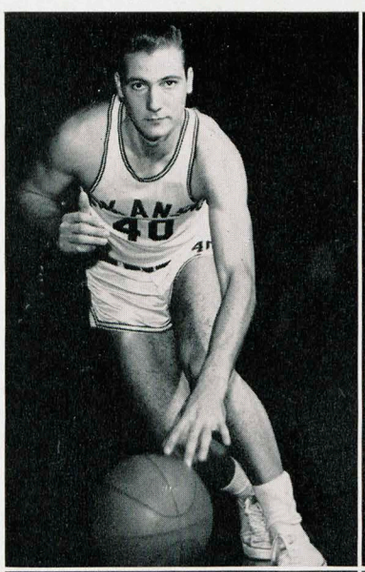

The Razorbacks finished the season with a 10 won—11 lost record. They had four victories and eight defeats in conference play, ending up in fifth place. Gean Lambert led the scoring with a total of 270 points.

The team opened the season with a 69–54 loss to Tulsa, then ran over Mississippi State 102–71. Next they beat Missouri 65–64. That weekend they beat Ole Miss 104–72 at Little Rock.

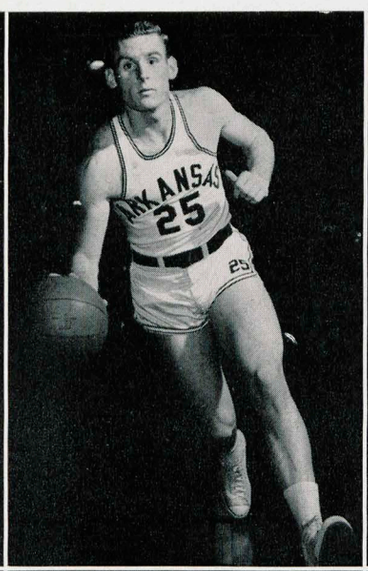

At Dallas for the Southwest Conference tournament, they defeated invited Arizona 68–51. The Hogs lost to SMU, the tournament champion, 65–62, in the semi-finals, and beat Baylor 59–54 for third place. Tulsa repeated its win, 61–50, the following Saturday at Fayetteville.

The Porkers opened their Southwest Conference play with a loss of 56–48 to Texas A & M in a double overtime and 62–57 to Texas. They then took on Rice in Fayetteville, outscoring the Owls 87–68. Lambert made four free throws and Kearns made one in the last minute of play to defeat Baylor 49–47. After exams the team under Mel McGaha, substituting for Rose who was ill with the flu, beat Kansas State Teachers 79–63.

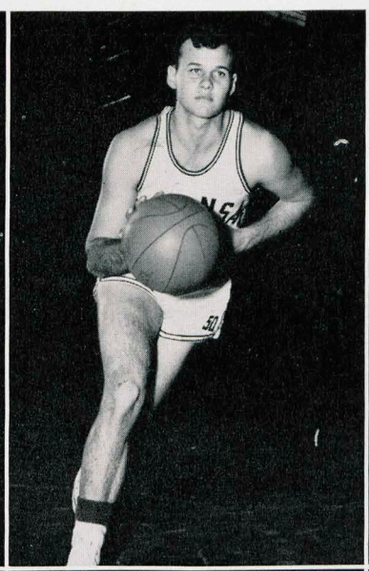

For the first game of the second semester the Razorbacks lost to TCU, the conference champion, 49–46. The team returned to Texas, beating SMU 71–66 and losing to Rice 70–45. Back in Fayetteville the Texas Longhorns edged by the Razorbacks 70–65. Then in Little Rock the Porks routed Texas A & M 66–46. They hit the road for another disastrous trip to Texas, losing to Baylor 74–68, and were edged out by TCU in an overtime 65–63. The Razorbacks closed the season in Fayetteville with a 79–74 loss to SMU.

With the departure of only two lettermen from last season's Razorback track team, Coach John Barnhill might not have the best cinder squad in the school's history this spring, but events which have been weak in the past have been improved.

Coach Barnhill will have a fine nucleus of 15 lettermen and at least 13 newcomers to work with. Losses included two-miler Bill Cairns and sprinter Al Wilkenson, who graduated, and quarter-miler Lee Yoder, who transferred to LSU at the end of the first semester.

A potential group of five men can make the Hogs a leading contender in the loop in the century and 440-yard relay. Back are Jack Troxell, Bill Diven and Dick Hazard from last year and in addition are Johnny Cole and Tommy Britt.

Back to lead the Hogs in the distance events is Rick Heber, who won the mile run in the Conference track meet last spring. The league's second and third best two-milers, Temple Brown and Jim Bean, will help Arkansas retain the title of "distance school of the south" this year.

Frank Metcalfe, Jim Tennison, Allan Eshbaugh and Ed Morton can be added here, too. Eshbaugh set the frosh two-mile record for Arkansas last year, while he and Morton established a new mile mark.

In the field events, such as the shot put and discus, the Razorbacks have three men who have the potential to lift Arkansas out of a poor past, with Dick Keyser, 230-pound footballer, the best bet. Others are Earl Kaiser and Charlie Faulkenberry.

Arkansas will have the finest group of quarter-milers in the Southwest led by co-captain Bill Diven. Diven is backed by John Clarke, Joe Witt and Reed Donnelly, all lettermen.

Texas A&M thwarted Arkansas' efforts to gain permanent possession of the SWC cross-country trophy on November 24 by downing the Hog harriers, 23–59, in the conference meet at Austin, Texas. Arkansas had won the title two years in a row and victory last November would have given them permanent possession of the trophy.

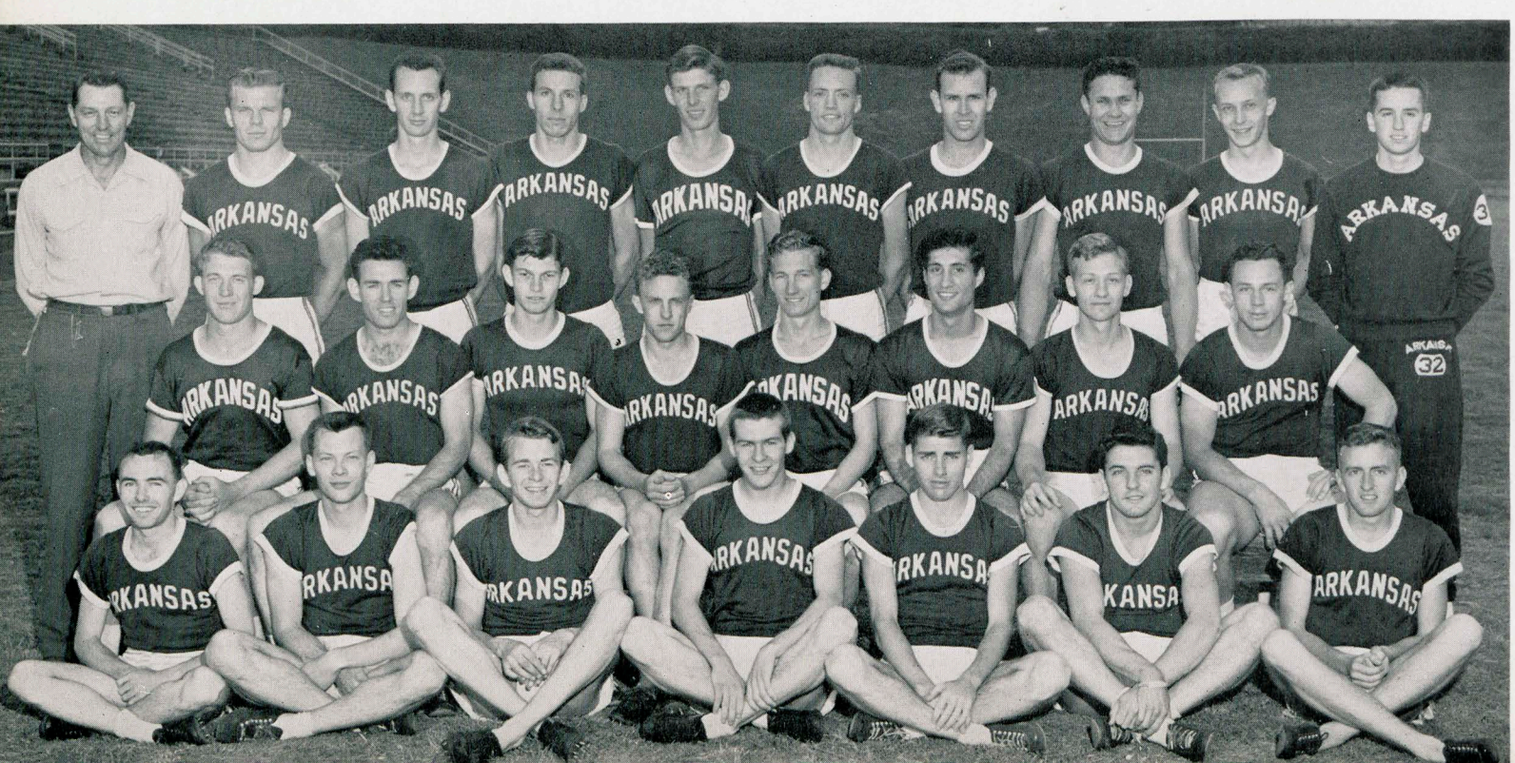

Last spring the third annual Arkansas Relays was held in Razorback Stadium, with more than 450 thinclads participating from three universities, eight colleges and 21 high schools.

Divisional winners in the meet saw Oklahoma A&M nose out Michigan in the University Division, while the Hogs finished third; the Arkansas freshmen won the college-freshmen division; Tulsa Central high school triumphed in the Big Six Class AAA division, and Russellville took the Class A crown. In all, 14 new track records were set during the meet.

The history of track in the Southwest Conference rightfully belongs to three member schools—Texas, Texas A&M and Rice—in that order.

In the 36 years that the league has held track meets, these three schools have finished in the top three positions together 23 times. However, Arkansas is coming fast as a threat in the SWC track field and has finished third three times in the last six years, including a fourth place finish last year.

Pictured below are the 24 members of the Arkansas Varsity Track team which was coached by Coach Johnny Morriss before his resignation this year.

BASEBALL

Operating with a group of sophomores in each of the past two years, and with shaky pitching support, the Razorbacks have floundered past the weaker opponents and been beaten by the top diamond crews.

Coach Bill Ferrell's baseball charges finished the 1952 season with a 6–9 record, the first time that the Porkers have failed to break over the .500 mark since Ferrell took over the reins in 1950.

During his three-year reign while at the helm of the Razorback hardballers, Ferrell's charges now have a mark of 21 victories and 19 defeats.

After winning six of their first 10 contests last year, the Razorbacks proceeded to drop five straight on a six-game road trip through the Midwest to Buena Vista, Bradley and Illinois.

For Coach Ferrell, 1953 will be his first chance to put a veteran baseball outfit on the field for the Porkers, along with a solid corps of flingers.

Hitting is the main problem which Coach Ferrell must solve if he is to have a winning season. Last year, the team batting average was a miserable .233. Lyle Wilkerson, stock Hog backstop, was the only regular who finished the season above .300, and his team high was only a .308 batting average.

In the field, the 1953 Razorbacks should be strong defensively. The infield is manned by capable letter-winners. On the initial sack, Ferrell has Lewis Carpenter, who tied Red Warren for team home-run honors last year with three.

This infield is solid, with all members having good throwing arms and pretty fair batting eyes. This is one of the best Porker infields that old timers can recall.

Two lettermen return to bolster the outfield corps in right-fielder Lamar McHan and left-fielder Bob "Red" Warren. Both are power hitters.

In the big garden, Coach Ferrell will have to find a replacement for Centerfielder Frank Fischel, who graduated in 1952. This replacement will probably be sophomore Mike Duka.

For reserve strength in the outer pastures, Ferrell will have Charlie Lutes and Glenn Bricker, with Carl Mazza backing up Carpenter at first base.

Those returning from last season's team are: pitchers Billy Blagg, Charlie Brown, Walter Kearns, Lamar McHan and Edsel Nix; infielders Lewis Carpenter, Billy Bowden, Francis Long and Shap Pryor; outfielders Red Warren, Charlie Lutes and McHan, and catcher Lyle Wilkerson.

It looks like a base hit . . .

The pride of the team are righthanders and a lone southpaw on the hill. Four of the five starboard hurlers—Nix, Kearns, Blagg and Brown—are lettermen.

They'll be joined by two hurlers up from last year's freshman team in pint-sized Tom Cusack, considered to be a good No. 1 choice, and left-hander Bob St. Pierre, a 6-5 flinger. It is this fine array of pitchers that makes possible a longer slate. McHan can also be counted on to do relief work on the hill, when he isn't in the outfield.

Behind the plate, Coach Ferrell will have Wilkerson back to handle the catching duties, with Carpenter or Cauthron to back him up. At 5-8, the dependable backstop was the leading hitter on the team last year and a good handler of pitchers.

This year's schedule will be played on the new Porker Diamond, which was constructed last year and used during the brief home schedule. It will be put in A-1 condition for the 1953 season.

TENNIS

An expected peak for the Arkansas Tennis Team failed to materialize last spring and the 1953 season finds the Razorback netters without the services of their two top racqueteers and in about the same position it was a year ago.

After losing the services of only one player from the 1951 team, a banner season was forecast for the 1952 season. Instead, injuries hit midway in the season and after two ties in succession, the Razorbacks went down to 10 straight setbacks on the court.

On four occasions last spring, a doubles win might have turned the tide for the Porker netmen, but an injury to Tom Coker, No. 1 Arkansas doubles player, ended the Razorback threat.

It was a cold day, but the tennis team was at work . . .

Under the coaching of Francis "Wendy" Morris, a graduate assistant, the Hog tennis team played an entirely intersectional schedule. An initial setback was registered when three above-average prospects were declared ineligible for failing to meet residence requirements.

These three who were declared ineligible last year, in addition to four returning lettermen, will be the nucleus around which Coach Frank Myers will build his 1953 team. Coach Myers was named to take over the tennis fortunes after Morris graduated.

The four returning lettermen are: Coker of Stuttgart; Buddy Snider of Little Rock; Jim Porter of Little Rock, and Jim Faulkner of Malvern. On the shoulders of these lettermen, Coach Myers will pin his hopes in trying to improve the results of the 1952 team.

A similar regional schedule is anticipated for the 1953 season, with such schools as Oklahoma A&M and Tulsa, always strong threats for the tennis title in the Missouri Valley, on the schedule.

Besides Oklahoma A&M and Tulsa on the 1953 tennis slate, the University of Missouri is expected to be on the agenda also. Another Big Seven member that will furnish opposition for the Hog netters this spring is the University of Oklahoma.

GOLF

With three lettermen returning from the disastrous 1952 season, the outlook on golf at the University of Arkansas this spring is for improvement.

At least they can't go the other way. Last year the Razorback linksters wound up the season without a victory to their credit and nine losses marring their season's record.

Last year, the Arkansas links crew returned to competition in the Southwest Conference after a one-year layoff, with a team composed of lettermen and four newcomers.

With this nucleus, the Porker golfers lost nine straight matches and finished in the cellar in team play in the Southwest Conference. O lone consolation came in individual conference play, where the Razorbacks finished above the Baylor Bears.

Hog linksters show practice makes perfect . . .

Although their 1952 mark of no wins and nine losses is not a true picture, the Razorbacks lacked the consistency required to win in loop play last season.

Two of the nine matches lost last season were administered by Oklahoma A&M and Baylor, with both links crews coming out on top by a 3½–2½ count.

Even when the Porker golfers lost to Texas by a 0–6 score, you don't get a clear view of the match by the score. The Longhorns won each point by the narrowest of margins.

Last Spring, the Razorback linksters were coached by Bob Zander, professional at the Fayetteville Country Club. For this year's golf crew, Otis Turner, former assistant professional at the El Dorado Country Club, will take over the reins handled by Zander last year.

Back from last year's winless team are three lettermen—Tom Raney of Little Rock, Everett B. Gee of Blytheville, and Jim Billingsley of Helena. Coach Turner will have one of the state's outstanding high school golfers of two years ago to strengthen this group in Phil Rogers of Fayetteville.

In conference individual play in the 1952 season, Raney was Arkansas' top man—18th out of a 340-man field—as he finished with a 333 total.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Physical Education at the University of Arkansas follows many divergent courses. The first division is into men's and women's sports. The men's division, headed by Troy Hendricks, consists of, among other things, the intramural program as well as class training in volleyball, golf, wrestling, tennis, boxing, tumbling and handball. Facilities are always available for workouts in the Field House or track work at Razorback Stadium.

The girl's division, headed by Wincie Carruth, embraces such sports as: archery, soccer, volleyball, golf and camping. Other features of the women's program include: modern dance and folk dancing. Both men and women take part in the Social Dancing class.

Starting from very near scratch a few short years ago, the Physical Education Department has been expanded and improved under Mr. Hendricks until it now offers a diversified, yet almost complete, course of study.

Intramural athletics is planned by the department and headed by a Student Manager named each year.

Under Colonel Henry Neilson, Professor of Military Science and Tactics, the University Army Reserve Officers Training Corps completed its 80th year on the Campus. During these years the Army ROTC Unit has compiled an enviable record in accomplishing its mission; which is, the turning out of basically-trained Second Lieutenants of high potential value to the Service for duty in the Organized Reserve Corps of the United States Army and in the Regular Army.

The Army Staff of the University is justifiably proud of the high academic, military and moral standards which it requires of its ROTC students—the leaders of tomorrow. Graduates of the Class of 1952 received commissions as second lieutenants in nearly every branch of the Service, and today the majority of them are on duty and serving with distinction in the Army in many parts of the world. One of the Army ROTC students, James Russell Holiman, was accepted for the United States Military Academy at West Point, entering July 1952.

At the University of Arkansas, all male students, except veterans, who are physically qualified, are required to take two years of military training in the ROTC. However, students electing to take the advanced course are carefully screened by a board of officers for character, intelligence, leadership, alertness, and aptitude before being accepted.

The Cadet Corps, commanded by Cadet Colonel Robert L. Dortch and organized as a regiment of three battalions of two companies each, has a strength of 645 students, of whom 205 are in the Advanced course.

At the invitation of the Superintendent of the United States Military Academy at West Point, two of the outstanding Army ROTC students of the University, Richard Dean Pryor, also Co-Captain of the football team, and Robert W. Newell, visited the Military Academy during the period 24–27 April 1952. The entire visit was at Government expense.

This year signaled the organization of the Special Drill Platoon which performed during the halftime of the SMU-Arkansas football game. Headquarters Company, commanded by Cadet Captain Marvin G. Kirby, won the Plaque Award for the outstanding unit of the Army ROTC Regiment and Air Force ROTC Wing in the Homecoming Parade.

The Army ROTC rifle team, captained by Cadet Battalion Commander Glenn T. Feilke and never defeated in Campus competition, is compiling an excellent record this year.

Highlights of the Army ROTC program were the annual Federal Inspection, the Military Ball, and inspections of the Unit by Major General E. B. Sebree and Brigadier General William H. Mitchell.

AIR FORCE ROTC

"Tomorrow's Air Force leaders are today's students in the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps Program."

The mission of the Department of Air Science and Tactics at the University of Arkansas is to provide an opportunity for the study of subjects of recognized military and educational value supplementing the regular program of study and assist the student to lay the foundation of intelligent citizenship. In time of peace or war, the United States Air Force looks toward the universities and colleges for its future leaders.

The Air Force ROTC Detachment at the University of Arkansas, now in its seventh year of operation and its second year under the direction of Lt. Colonel Ray W. Alford, Professor of Air Science and Tactics, has increased its enrollment to 665 Cadets. During the past year the Air Force commissioned 65 University of Arkansas graduates. The majority of those receiving commissions are now on active duty with the Air Force throughout the world.

Major William W. Lee, Assistant Professor of Air Science and Tactics, served as Executive Officer for the Air Force ROTC Detachment during the past school year. This year also marked the initial year for the Air Force ROTC units under the direction of the Air University located at Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Alabama. Lieut. General Idwal H. Edwards is Commanding General of the Air University and Brig. General Matthew K. Deichelmann is Commandant.

The Air Force ROTC Wing at the University of Arkansas was under the command of Cadet Colonel Eugene W. Lambert, Jr., and his staff which consisted of the following Cadet Officers: Cadet Lt. Colonel William H. Sutton, Wing Executive Officer; Cadet Lt. Colonel Norris E. Coe, Wing Adjutant; Cadet Lt. Colonel Gilbert S. Stacy, Wing Operations Officer; Cadet Lt. Colonel Frank G. Vestal, Wing Material Officer; Cadet Lt. Colonel Jacob Sharp, Jr., Wing Comptroller; Cadet Major John M. Rosso, Wing Public Information Officer; and Cadet Captain William A. Martin, Wing Photographer. Group Commanders for the Wing were Cadet Lt. Colonel Jacob G. Belew, Group I; Cadet Lt. Colonel Joe P. McNeil, Group II; and Cadet Lt. Colonel Jimmie C. Holt, Group III.

Highlights of the Air Force ROTC program for the year included the annual Military Ball, the outstanding social event of the Air Force ROTC Wing. The Air Force ROTC sponsors Honorary Cadet Colonel Jimmie Anderson, and her staff composed of: Honorary Cadet Lt. Colonels Shirley Smith, Cynthia Kenward, and Joyce Reed, were presented to the Cadet Wing at the Ball. Other events included the participation of the Air Force Cadets in the pre-game ceremonies at the Dad's Day football game; the Homecoming Parade; the Advance Cadet's demonstration at the Homecoming game; and the annual Review for the Air Force Inspection Team from the Air University.

M/Sgt. Charles T. Thomas, coach of the Air Force ROTC Team, joined the Air Force Staff at the University this past year.

FELLOWSHIP

DOUBTLESS, fellowship is one of the most important parts of campus life at the University of Arkansas. It embraces all segments of the student body. Religious meetings such as the get-together above or just chatting at home or around one of the many union tables sipping the inevitable coke or cup of coffee, add a great deal in breaking the monotony of straight study. Greeks, dorms and independents alike lose their identity in the larger identity of the University of Arkansas through fellowship.

Alpha Tau Omega was the first Greek-letter college fraternity organized after the Civil War. It was founded at Richmond, Virginia, on September 11, 1865, and its first chapter was established at the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Virginia.

Its founders were three young Confederate soldiers. Their prime object was to restore the Union, to unite fraternally the young men of the South with those of the North and to foster a Christian brotherhood dedicated to the task of achieving and cherishing permanent peace. They found their inspiration in the sentiment: "No North, no South, no East, no West."

The founders were Otis Glazebrook, Alfred Marshall, and Erskine Ross. They had been strong friends for many years when Glazebrook originated the idea shortly after the Civil War, and they immediately set out to resolve the dream into a national organization.

Alpha Xi of Alpha Tau Omega was established on the University campus in 1882. This made it the first national fraternity on the campus. Although forced to go inactive shortly afterwards, it was reinstalled March 31, 1950.

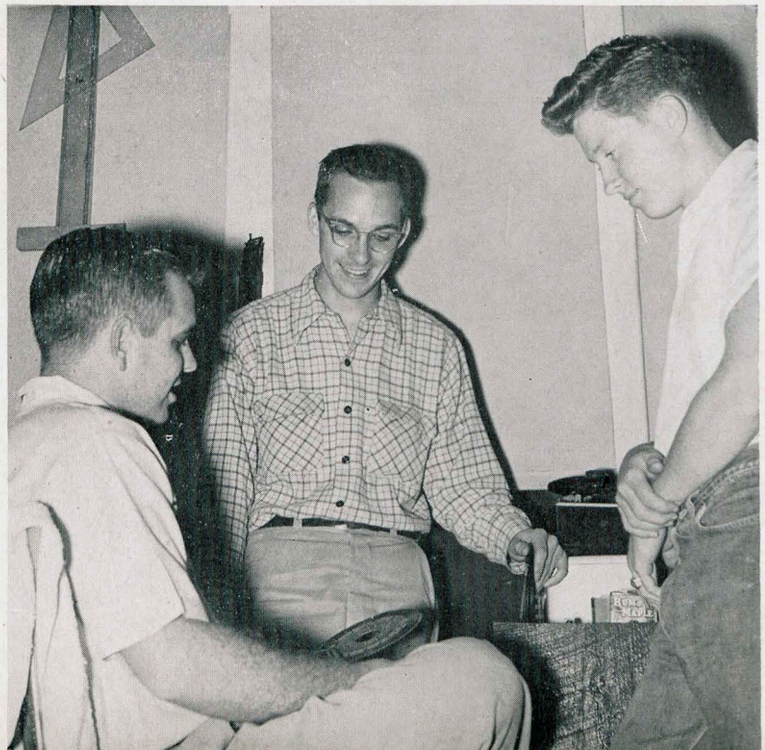

The fraternity colors are blue and gold, and the white tea rose is the flower.

CHI OMEGA

OFFICERS

President	Shirley Newman
Vice President . . .	Joanne Hamilton
Secretary	Caroline Polk
Treasurer	Carolyn Cobb

Strictly national from its very beginning, Chi Omega has grown from a small group of founders into the largest women's fraternity in the nation, having 113 active chapters. The original founders were Ina Mae Boles, Jeanne Marie Vincenheller, Jobelle Holcomb, and Dr. Charles Richardson, who in consideration of his help in planning the organization was made the sole honorary member.

The open declaration of Chi Omega is "Hellenic Culture and Christian Ideals." Included in the fraternity's program is the Service fund, the income of which is used to finance research studies in educational, social, scientific, or civic lines. Each chapter awards annually a prize to the woman in its college who excels in economics, sociology, political science, or psychology, and since 1910 national committees of Chi Omega have supplied data for college and alumnae chapters on education, vocations, personnel, and civic interests. By virtue of these constructive efforts, the fraternity has been admitted a member of the Personnel Research Foundation, among whose members are Columbia University, Harvard, M. I. T., and Yale. Chi Omega is the only fraternity to be admitted.

Underlying Chi Omega's development is the concept that it is a group of women at the college age of intelligence; that such a group must stimulate creative abilities upon which the progress of civilization depends; and that such a group must aid in the preservation of the freedoms essential to the individual.

In 1930 Chi Omega gave to the University of Arkansas an open air theatre, patterned after the ancient Greek theatres and known as the Chi Omega Greek theatre.

The fraternity colors are cardinal and straw, the flower the white carnation.

Delta Delta Delta was founded nationally at Boston University on Thanksgiving Eve in 1888 and locally in 1910. Tri Delta was one of the six founders of the National Panhellenic and has been represented at every inter-sorority gathering since that time.

Today the sorority numbers 95 chapters and 220 alumnae organizations. Delta Delta Delta has the distinction to be the first sorority to become international, having chapters in Nova Scotia, Canada, and Hawaii. Tri Delta's philanthropic service is devoted principally to scholarships for women in American and Canadian universities. In January of this year the fraternity announced that over 900 award winners have received scholarships in the nine years the service scholarship project has been in existence.

The crescent moon and three bright stars which shone so clearly that night on the Boston Common were the inspiration for our own Tri Delta pin worn by thousands of coeds from Coast to Coast. Three pearl stars surrounded by a golden crescent containing three raised Deltas, a golden trident guard running diagonally through it; this is our badge, so graceful to look at and so full of legendary meaning to those who wear it.

Everyone likes to go home for Christmas. Even in 1878, at the Lewis School at Oxford, Mississippi, the girls were excited for weeks ahead over the prospect of the gay holidays at home. However, when bad weather and impassable roads kept three of the students from going to Kosciusko for the vacation, they put their heads together and discovered a marvelous solution to their problem. That December, the trio, who were Eva Webb Dodd, Anna Boyd Ellington, and Mary Comfort Leonard, founded a new fraternity. They chose for it the Greek letters, Delta Gamma, like the fraternities with Greek names at the men's college in Oxford, the University of Mississippi. So enthusiastic were they about Delta Gamma, the society based upon high ideals of friendship and personal standards, they had drawn up the ritual and the by-laws before the other girls returned to school. Their first meeting was held on January 2, 1874.

The original Delta Gamma anchor was designed in 1879 by Corrinne Miller, though previously a gold letter "H" with the DG enameled in blue on the cross bar was the badge. In 1883, bronze, pink, and blue were chosen as the official colors, and two years later, the cream-colored rose was adapted as the flower of the fraternity. Through the initiation of one man, Mr. George Bants who established a Delta Gamma chapter at Franklin College, his fraternity, Phi Delta Theta, has become traditionally Delta Gamma's brother fraternity.

Delta Gamma was founded on the campus of the University of Arkansas in 1930. With the construction of the first sorority house built on the campus, Alpha Omega chapter of Delta Gamma began its record of continual growth.

DON TRUMBO, President

For 87 years, the Kappa Alpha Order has trained young collegians for the battle of life. In their lives and character it finds its highest and noblest monument.

Our essential teaching is that members shall cherish the Southern ideal of character, by honoring and protecting pure womanhood, practicing courtesy, self-control, and preferring self-respect to ill-gotten gain. We aim to perpetuate the Southern ideal of a gentleman of which Robert E. Lee, our spiritual founder, is the perfect expression.

The Kappa Alpha Order was founded in 1865 at Washington and Lee, and expanded until the 35th chapter was installed at Arkansas in 1895. We have maintained the original purpose of the order and have all 79 chapters south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

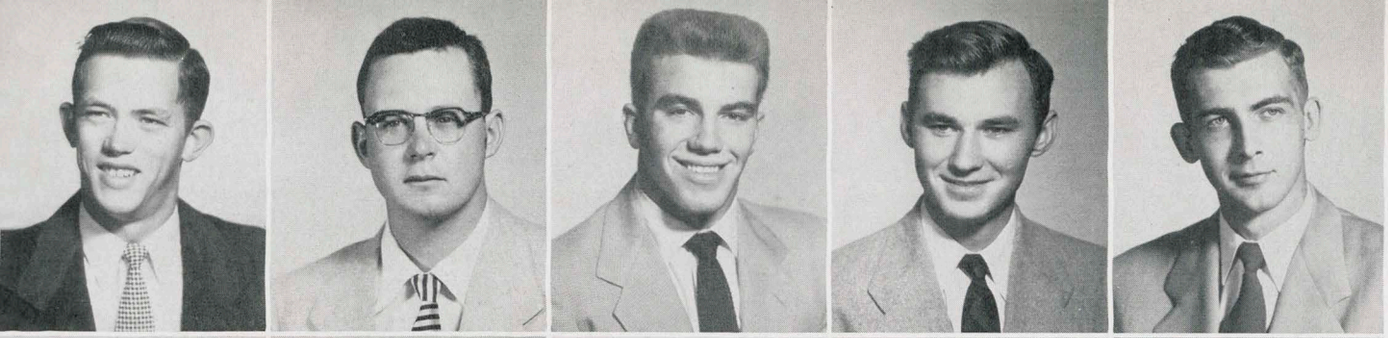

This fall will be the first semester of occupancy in our new modernistic fraternity house, which is designed for the individual's comfort and for the fraternity's operations. The theme of confederacy is carried in all our social functions.

The entire chapter takes this opportunity to welcome you to the University of Arkansas and to Kappa Alpha's "Home of Southern Gentlemen" where true Southern hospitality and congeniality are always present.

Alpha, the first chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma, was founded October 13, 1870, by six college women at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois.

The Golden Key, later changed to The Key, Kappa's national magazine, was the first one published by any sorority and Kappa issued the invitation for the first convention of Pan-Hellenic at Boston in April, 1891.

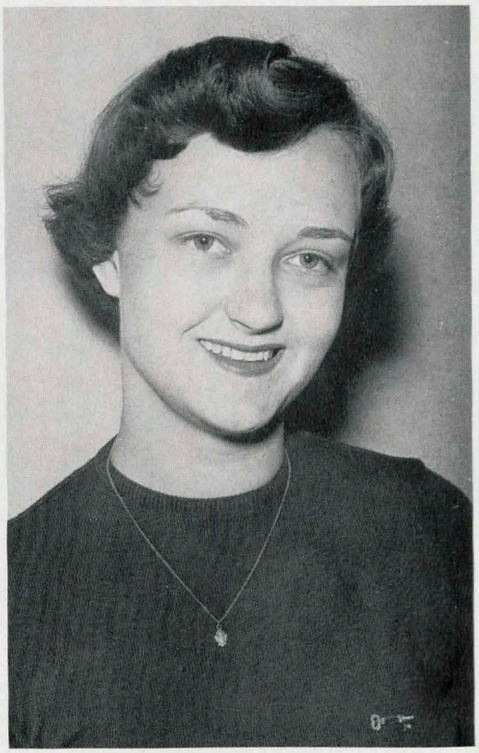

With a total membership of 50,000 women, Kappa Kappa Gamma has 82 active chapters with 4,500 undergraduate members.

Individual chapters undertake many philanthropies, but the new national philanthropic project is the Kappa Kappa Gamma Rehabilitation Service. All members participate in this project by aiding adult and child rehabilitation problems given to the fraternity by state directors of the Crippled Children's Society and allocated by state and local chairmen.

In the field of scholarship, Kappa offers undergraduate scholarships; graduate counselor scholarships; foreign fellowships; and graduate fellowships.

One recent honor came when Kappa was the only Greek fraternity to be invited to send a delegate to a UNESCO conference of the United Nations in San Francisco.

Kappas from Texas, Oklahoma, New Orleans, Louisiana, and Kansas City, Kansas, invaded the Ozarks to install Gamma Nu Chapter, April 9, 1925. Afterwards the petition for membership of Kappa Kappa Gamma local sorority was granted by the National Council.

CHARLES ROSCOPF, President

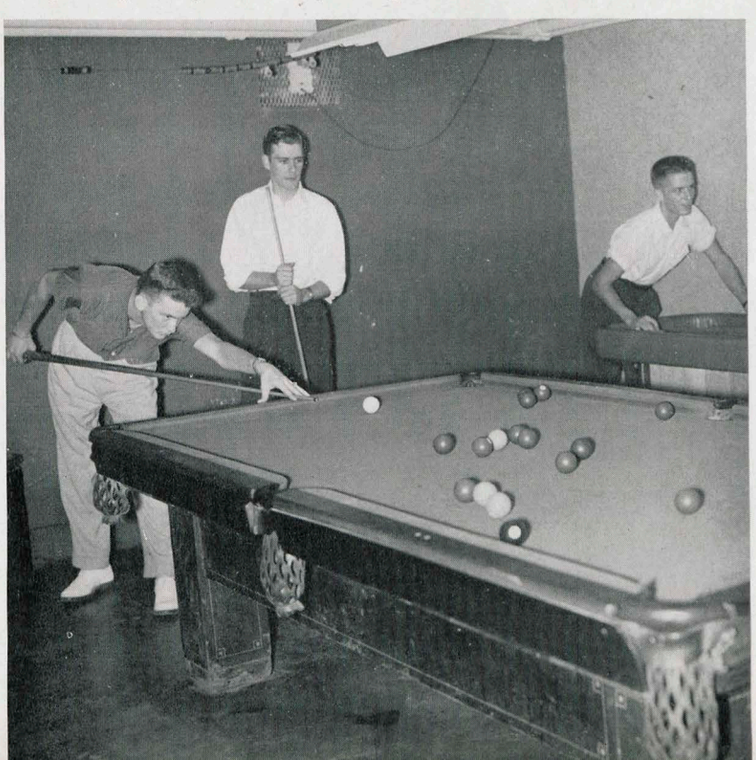

Fabulous Xi Chapter was established on the University campus in 1890 due to the efforts of Dr. Charles Richardson who was a Kappa Sigma from Emory and Henry University. Dr. Richardson was instrumental in the establishment of several national fraternities besides Kappa Sigma on the campus, and was the promoter in the founding of Chi Omega in 1892. Xi has enjoyed a long and illustrious history, being the oldest continuously operating fraternity at the University. But tremendous growth followed the War, resulting in an expansion of the chapter house facilities to their present size. The addition to the house gave it the distinction of being the largest fraternity house in the world, a title yet to be disputed.

Kappa Sigmas have long been influential in campus affairs, exhibiting their desire to further the University wherever possible. Xi now boasts an alumnus as president of the National Fraternity in Mr. Tom Cutting of Ft. Smith. Among the social events for which Kappa Sigma is famous is the annual Christmas formal in the winter, and the Stardust Ball in the spring. The social calendar of Kappa Sigma is liberally spiced with costime parties, dinner dances, and also an annual Smorgasbord.

Xi is a perennial Sweepstake contender in intramural athletics, which is another phase of the activities which make Xi a well rounded organization. The functions of Xi all point to the common goal of a better University.

1952-53 was a year of achievement in all phases of campus activity for Lambda Chi Alpha. This was Gamma Chi's second year in its new colonial home on Stadium Drive. The fall social season got under way with the pledge-initiates dance just after rush week, and included the annual Lambda Chi Alphatraz prison party, and the winter formal. Outstanding Spring events were the Valentine party and the traditional Black and White formal, held on Founder's Day, at which the Crescent Girl was introduced. Hayrides, informal outings, and houseparties were held throughout the year.

Lambda Chi had men active in many sides of campus life during the year, and several won honors. Lewis Carpenter, Eddie Bradford and Jim Foreman were on the varsity football team. Lambda Chi as a group was active in all intramural sports, and last year won the basketball trophy as well as the interfraternity sing.

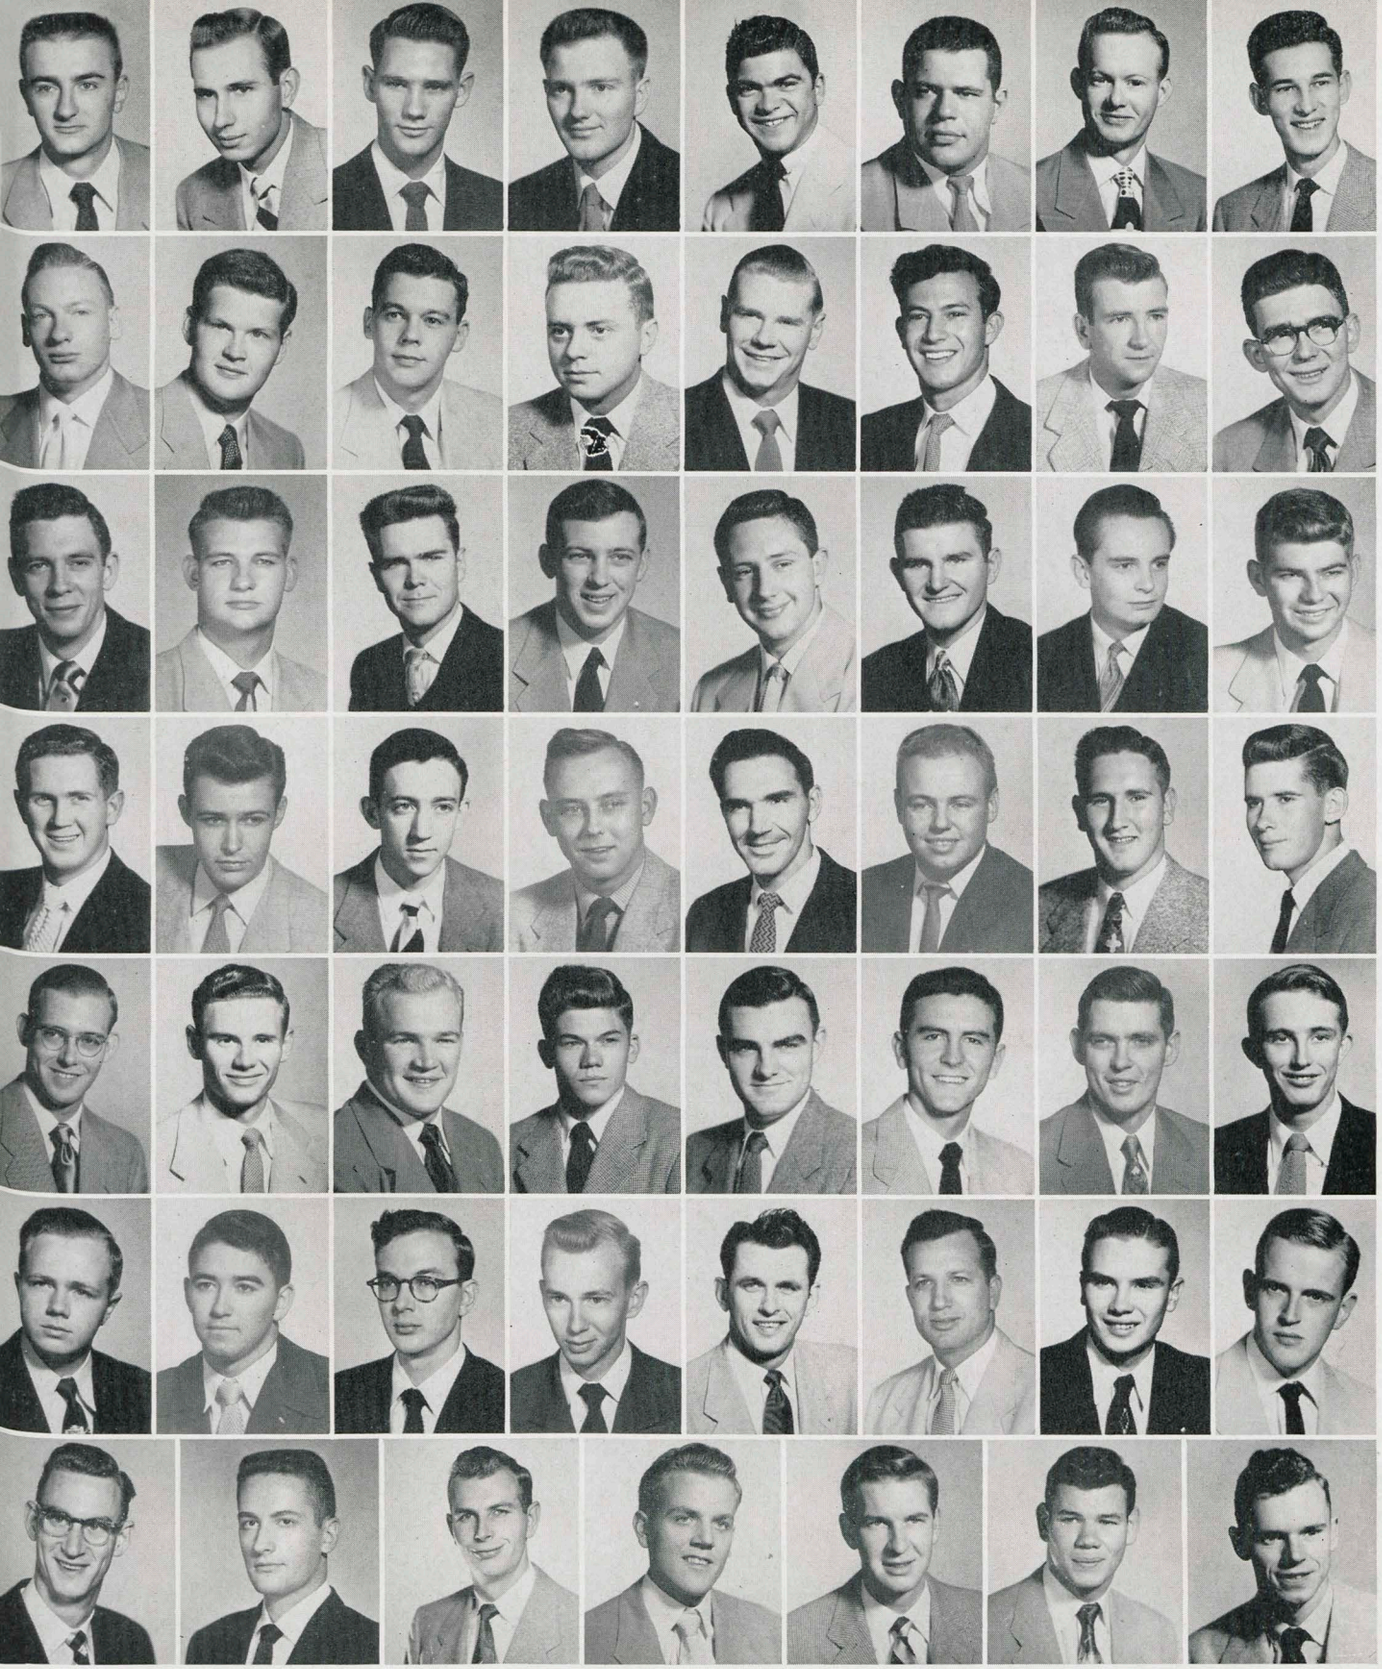

Lambda Chi Alpha was founded nationally in 1909 at Boston University, Boston, Massachusetts. The Gamma Chi chapter was installed at Arkansas in 1925. Since then the fraternity, nationally, internationally, and locally, has grown and developed until it enjoys a position of great respect in the fraternity world. Lambda Chi Alpha is the largest of the national general fraternities, having 147 chapters and colonies.

Lambda Chi Alpha owns its own headquarters building and has full time travelling secretaries and a national alumni secretary, Dr. John Clark Jordon, who for 15 years was national president of Blue Key.

PHI DELTA THETA

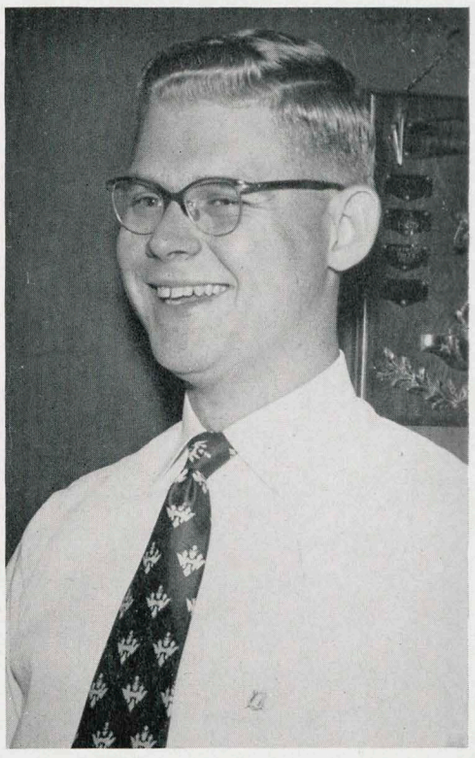

OFFICERS

President . . . . . Dick Hargraves

On December 26, 1948, Phi Delta Theta completed her first century of uninterrupted existence. One hundred years performed a miracle of growth and achievement far beyond the fondest hopes of the first Phis who gathered 'round Phi Delta Theta's altars. Little did they dream that one day the fraternity's collegiate chapters would be found in 43 states of the United States, much less than the desire for fellowship in Phi Delta Theta would embrace six of the Provinces of Canada. The groundwork, so carefully laid by our immortal six founders, has brought us today 115 active chapters, 138 Alumni Clubs in the U. S., Canada, Europe and many parts of the Orient as well. Since the founding of Phi Delta Theta at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in 1848 nearly 80,000 brothers have signed the Bond of Phi Delta Theta, of whom approximately 62,000 are living to enjoy the privileges of membership.

Arkansas Alpha Chapter was installed on the University of Arkansas campus in November of 1948, one hundred years after the founding of Phi Delta Theta. Thus we are known as the "Centennial Chapter of Phi Delta Theta." The petitioning group was known as Delta Theta, and was formed by six Phis from other colleges for the purpose of securing a Phi Delta Theta charter. This group was organized in 1946 as a local until the national charter was secured in 1948.

Although Arkansas Alpha is comparatively young, we look with great pride to our past achievements and those of our national fraternity. We are equally proud of our newly acquired chapter house, and our charming House Mother, Mrs. Alex Caven. After winning the Intramural Football Championship in 1951, and being presented with a scholarship award by National Headquarters we marked another important milestone in the history of Arkansas Alpha Chapter.

On April 28, 1867, a group of twelve young college women founded I. C. Sorosis, the first national college fraternity for women to be organized, at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois. Although the name of the fraternity was changed to Pi Beta Phi in 1888, there has been an unbroken existence, development, and progress since the fraternity's founding on that long ago April day.

From the beginning of I. C. Sorosis the girls were determined that it would be a national organization, so they established chapters on campuses in the nearby states. We see today how well the wishes of this group have been fulfilled because now there are 98 chapters of Pi Beta Phi in the United States and Canada.

Arkansas Alpha had an early start after the organization of Pi Beta Phi. The Gamma Epsilon Delta Sorority was organized February 1, 1906, by eight girls. From the first is was their intention and goal to apply for a charter to Pi Beta Phi Fraternity. In March of 1907, Miss Anne Stuart, the president of Kappa Province, visited the chapter and gave the girls helpful advice on fraternity standards, rushing, policies and other questions of interest to the group. At this time the girls had one room that they rented for their weekly meetings. By December 29, 1909, when this chapter was granted a charter from Pi Beta Phi the girls had acquired a house. In 1932 the present lot was purchased and the new house was built. This year plans are being made to build a new house and the hope is to have it completed by the end of the summer. Arkansas Alpha chapter has grown considerably in the past years—the chapter was started with 28 initiates, now has over eight hundred, and each year is gaining more and more members.

The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity was founded on March 1, 1868, at the University of Virginia by a group of six Confederate veterans. These men bound themselves together in a common cause with a comradeship cemented by the rigors of war and mutual devotion.

The founders were Julian Edward Wood, James Benjamin Schlater, Jr., Littleton Waller Fazewell, Frederick Southgate Taylor, William Alexander, and Robertson Howard.

Since its founding eighty-five years ago Pi Kappa Alpha has grown to a national fraternity of 108 chapters throughout the United States.

Alpha Zeta Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha was founded on November 1, 1904. It was the outgrowth of a local fraternity, Alpha Phi. At the time of its founding on the campus, Alpha Zeta Chapter had a membership of ten men. It now has a membership of 105.

In the fall of 1950 Alpha Zeta moved into its new $165,000 modern home. There, the men of Pi Kappa Alpha have continued to uphold the ideals of its founders and to maintain the excellent record of those who have worn the Shield and Diamond in the past.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, the first Southern fraternity, was founded on March 9, 1856, at the University of Alabama by a group of eight close friends. Under the guidance of these men it grew until today the fraternity is the largest in the nation with 131 chapters and nearly 83,000 initiates. National headquarters for the fraternity is the Levere Memorial Temple at Evanston, Illinois. Sigma Alpha Epsilon is the only national fraternity which has built its own national headquarters. The building is named for William C. Levere, a great fraternity leader.

Alpha Upsilon of Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded July 8, 1893, making it one of the oldest fraternities at the University of Arkansas. Since that time, the Sig Alphs have grown on the campus gaining respect and prestige. S. A. E. began the year with added spirit and cooperation after having won the sweepstakes trophy for the third time. Many improvements have been made in the chapter, including plans for a new and spacious chapter house. Much of this progress has been under the leadership of Stan Gray and Jerry Green.

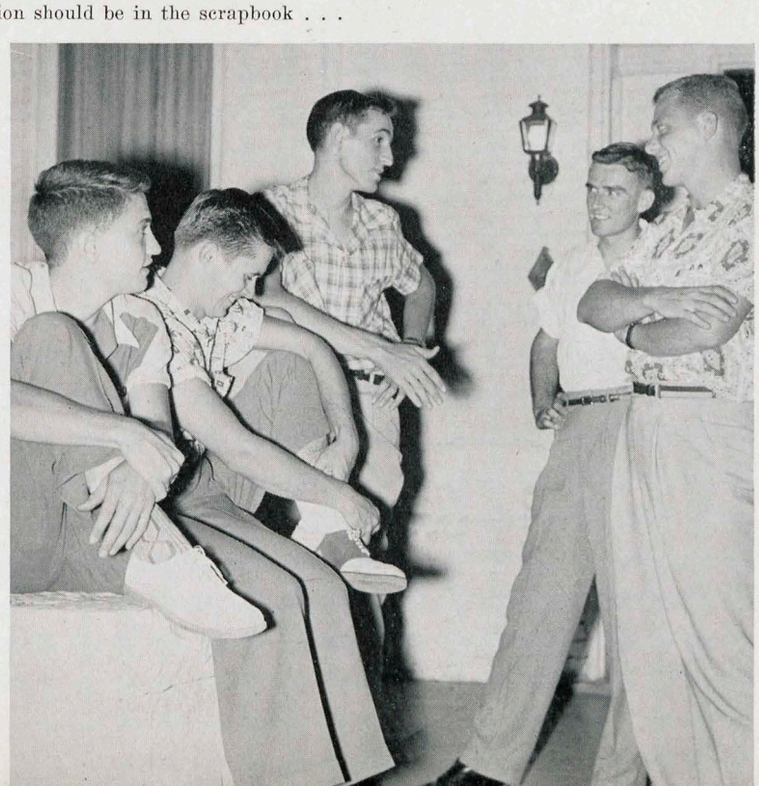

Mrs. Elizabeth "Pud" Bracy, Sig Alph housemother, has been with the chapter only two years, but in that short time she has become one of the most well-liked persons on this campus, and has endeared herself to all who know her.

The founding of the Sigma Chi Fraternity took place at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, during June, 1855. Sigma Chi was the third fraternity to be founded at Miami and completed the famous "Miami Triade" of Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi. The fraternity was founded by seven men from different walks of life with different personalities, yet having the same high ideals. Since that humble beginning 97 years ago Sigma Chi, like its founders, has risen to success in many fields of endeavor. The Constantine Chapter of Sigma Chi was formed during the late part of the Civil War to perpetuate the fraternity in the South. This chapter has served as a model, for chapters formed all over the world in times of war by many fraternities.

At present Sigma Chi has some 126 chapters in the United States and Canada with a total membership of 76,000.

Omega Omega chapter came on the Arkansas campus in 1905 from a chartering group known as the Indian Club. We here at Omega Omega can point with justifiable pride to our charming house mother, Mrs. W. W. Scroggin, "Mother Ring," and to our lovely Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, Miss Patsy Watts. We also take due pride in our house, our campus standing in scholarship, social activities and sports, and in our alumni. Among the more prominent alumni of this chapter are Senator Bill Fullbright, Congressman Brook Hays, the mayor of the City of Fayetteville, Admiral Powell Rhea, and Chet Lauck, "Lum" of the Lum and Abner show.

SIGMA NU

Sigma Nu was founded January 1, 1869, at Virginia Military Institute. Sigma Nu has progressed from this beginning to its present status of one of the nation's leading fraternities with 115 active chapters.

Certainly fundamental in Sigma Nu's growth are its aims which are expressed in the Sigma Nu creed, "To believe in the life of love, to walk in the way of honor, to serve in the light of truth, this is the life, the way, the light of Sigma Nu. . . ."

On the University of Arkansas campus, versatility is the key to Sigma Nu's success. Much of the progress made on the campus in the past year may be attributed to the leadership of Sigma Nus who have contributed more presidents to campus organizations than any other social fraternity.

Socially, Sigma Nu has set a very high mark. Its Sadie Hawkins Day, which the Sigma Nus originated at the University of Arkansas, was one of the most highly attended and popular social activities of the fall social calendar. Its acclaim was heard far and wide. Highlighting the formal spring dance was the beautiful White Rose Formal. In addition, the year was supplemented by many outings, house parties, and other social activities.

The scholastic average of Sigma Nu is topped by no fraternity. This outstanding feat has been the accomplishment of Sigma Nus for many semesters now.

A very valuable asset to Sigma Nu is their charming new housemother, Mrs. Jessie Sain. She has helped, considerably, to carry out Sigma Nu's policy of being the friendliest fraternity.

Certainly Sigma Nu has had another top year.

Upsilon Chapter of Theta Tau, a national professional engineering fraternity, was established on the University campus on April 7, 1928. Since this time Upsilon Chapter has been striving to perform the twofold purpose of Theta Tau—to develop and maintain a high standard of professional interest among its members, and to unite them in a strong bond of fraternal fellowship.

As a service project, Upsilon Chapter has undertaken the program of giving talks in high schools throughout the state to inform high school students of the shortage of engineering personnel and of the advantages offered in the engineering profession.

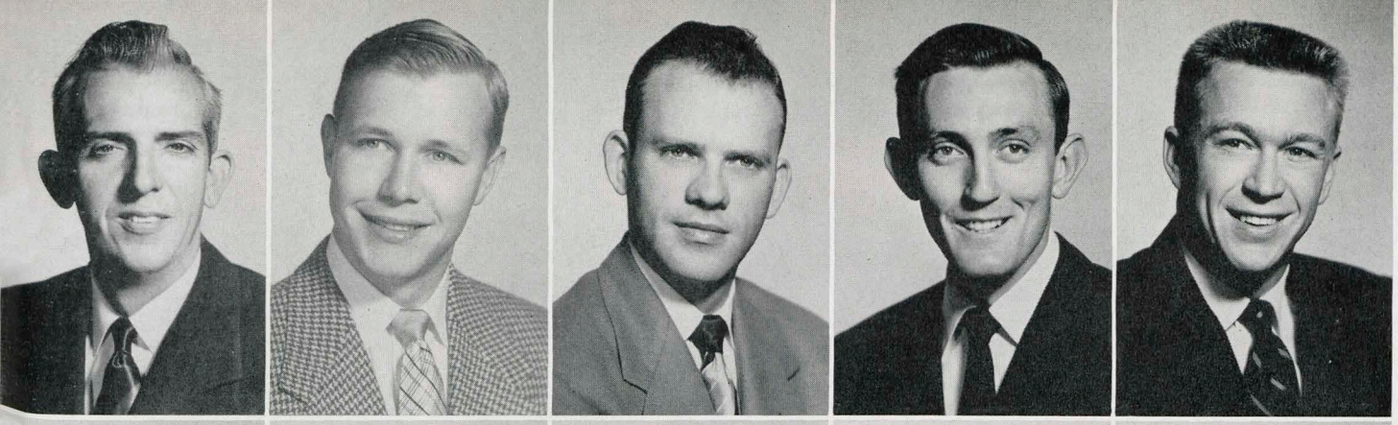

Many Theta Taus are to be found among the leaders in student organizations: George Branigan, president of the senior class and A.E.S.; Jim Bowen, president of O.D.K.; Don Overton, Engineering Student Senator; "Dutch" Kueteman, president of the Engineering Council and A.I.Ch.E.; Al Townsend, president of I.R.E.; Frank Carl, president of A.I.I.E.; John Ashworth, editor of The Arkansas Engineer; Rex Woodruff, president of A.I.E.E.; and Bennie McCoy, president of A.S.C.E.

Theta Tau's social calendar includes the annual Founder's Day banquet, listening parties, and the annual spring picnic.

Back when higher education was a debatable issue for young ladies and a nation was still suffering the effects of a great war Zeta Tau Alpha was born.

At Longwood College in Farmville, Virginia, in 1898, a bold experiment on the part of nine of its most progressive students resulted in the formation of what we call a sorority, which, after going through the various stages of infanthood was named Zeta Tau Alpha. Shortly thereafter, on March 15, 1902, Zeta distinguished itself by being the first women's fraternity to be chartered in the state of Virginia. Epsilon chapter at the University of Arkansas stands out in Zeta history as being the fifth chapter to be organized. Known as Delta Phi on the U. of A. campus until December 19, 1903, Epsilon chapter proudly became another link in the Zeta chain on that date.

In 1909 Zeta became a member of the National Panhellenic Conference, later attaining international status with the establishment of a chapter at the University of Manitoba in Canada. With 93 chapters and 24,000 alumnae it is today one of the largest of the 31 NPC fraternities.

In the little over 50 years in which it has been in existence Zeta has a versatile record of achievements of which it can be justly proud. The Dr. May Agness Hopkins Fellowship, an award established for study in the field of child welfare, is an outstanding example of the kind of scholarships which have been set up to further encourage in almost every field. A plan operative in 1944-45, called the Chinese Scholarship Fund, enabled Chinese girls to go to Ginling college in Nanking on funds raised by voluntary contributions and was presented to Ginling's president at the San Francisco United Nations Conference at which she was a delegate.

The newest addition to Zeta's list of service programs aids in the treatment and training of cerebral palsied children in cooperation with the Cerebral Palsy Division of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

CHARLES BROWN, President

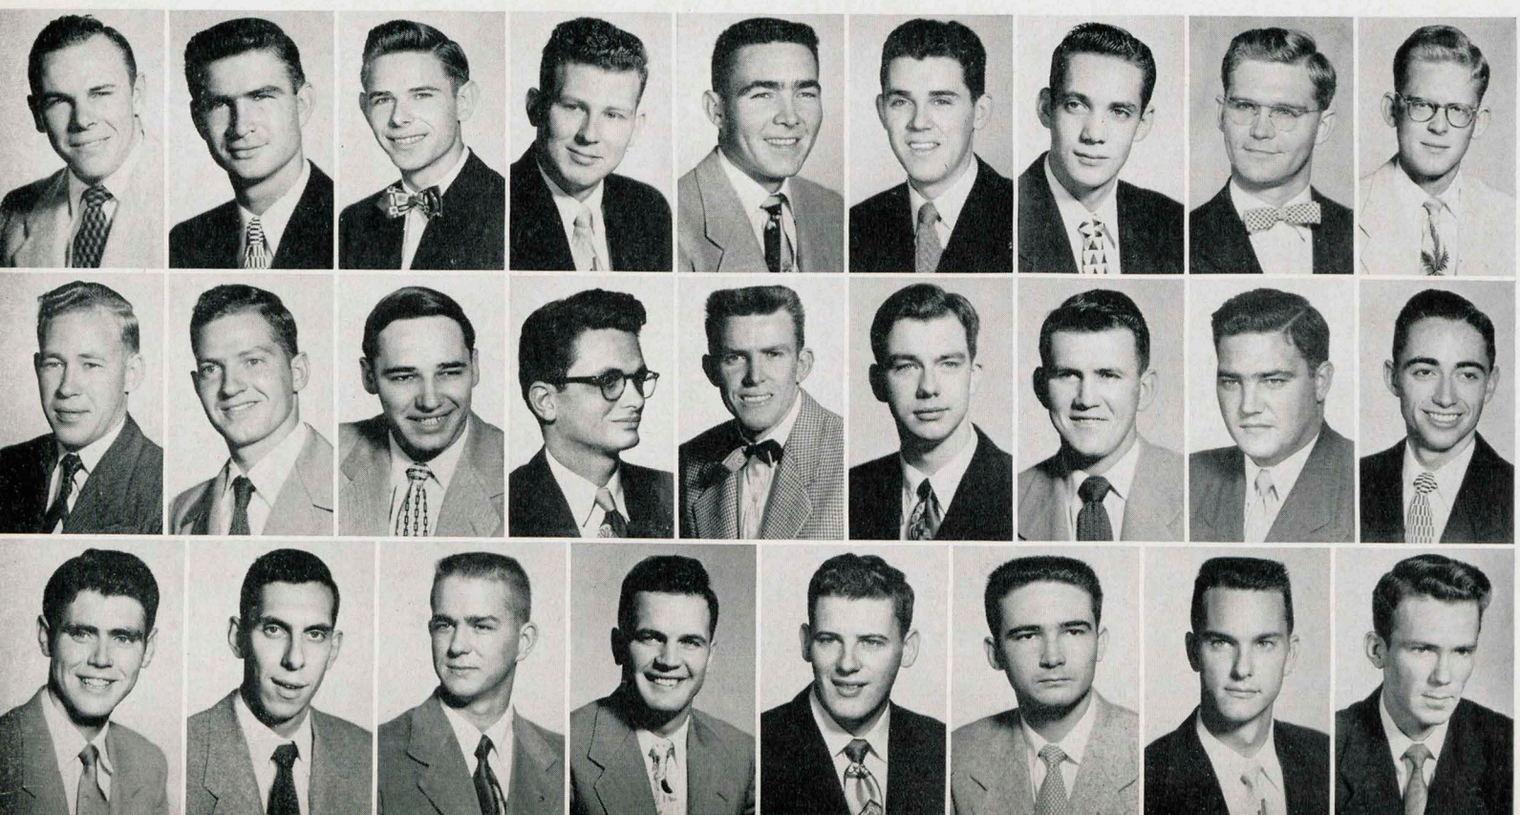

The Arkansas chapter of Acacia Fraternity was chartered on April 14, 1951, and at present has thirty-five active members. The chapter house is located at 340 Arkansas Avenue.

Acacia was founded in 1904 at the University of Michigan by a group of master Masons, as a university social fraternity, using the Greek word "Acacia," a Masonic symbol, as its name. Since 1933 the Masonic membership requirement has not been in effect, although strong ties are maintained with the Masonic organization and many Acacians are Masons.

The fraternity is a charter member of the National Interfraternity Conference, and at present has forty-one active chapters with a total membership of approximately 20,000. Its chapters are distributed principally throughout the larger universities and colleges in the United States. The National Headquarters of the fraternity is located at Evanston, Illinois.

Acacia particularly stresses qualities of leadership, scholarship, and character in its men, and the Arkansas chapter has been very active in intramural activities, student organizations, and last semester ranked first in scholarship among the organized houses on the campus.

"To make better men, and through them a broader and better agriculture . . ." That is the purpose of Alpha Gamma Rho.

The University of Arkansas chapter, Alpha Iota, third youngest chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho, has not forgotten its purpose and many of its members have been and are now leaders in agri school as well as in other organizations.

As a professional fraternity, Alpha Gamma Rho stands behind the school of agriculture in any program it may be supporting. The past years have seen the AGR's helping prepare the Agri Park for picnics, rodeos, and livestock shows, joining the various agri clubs and teams, and taking part in the many Agri day activities.

As a social fraternity, the AGR's, with the help of their house mother, Mrs. Alice Moore, have two annual dances, several outings and house parties throughout the year, and attend campus functions as do most social fraternities.

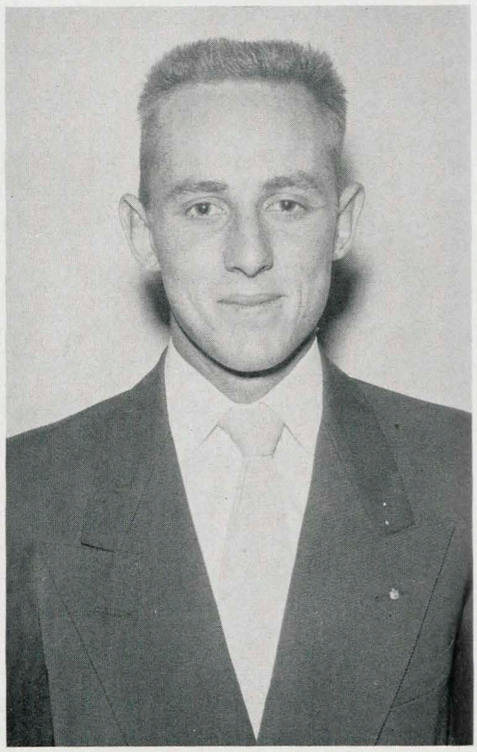

Alpha Iota chapter is proud of its progress since it was founded in 1934. Believing that "those who most appreciate any organization are the ones who work most diligently for its interests," Alpha Iota chapter as well as the National fraternity has become outstanding from both a social and professional standpoint.

Alpha Gamma Rho was founded at Indianapolis, Indiana, 1908, having thirty-two national chapters in 1948. The colors are green and gold.

Beta Tau received its national charter April 15, 1950. Since its founding at the University, the chapter has taken great strides forward in obtaining both national and campus recognition scholastically, athletically, and socially.

Zeta Beta Tau at Arkansas is looking forward to further growth with its ultimate plan being to construct its own chapter house.

Although small in number, Zeta Beta Tau is large in activity. The members are active in many campus organizations, as well as competing in the various competitions such as athletics, Homecoming and Gaebale.

The chapter has tried to obtain a program that is a balance between all the many phases of college life. Special emphasis is put on the primary phase, that of scholarship. It is very proud of the fact that its scholarship rating has never been lower than third-highest on the campus.

The Farm House Fraternity was founded at the University of Missouri on April 15, 1905. D. Howard Doane, founder of the Doane Agricultural Service, was among its seven charter members. Since that time the fraternity has grown to twelve chapters and three clubs in the nation's major agriculture colleges.

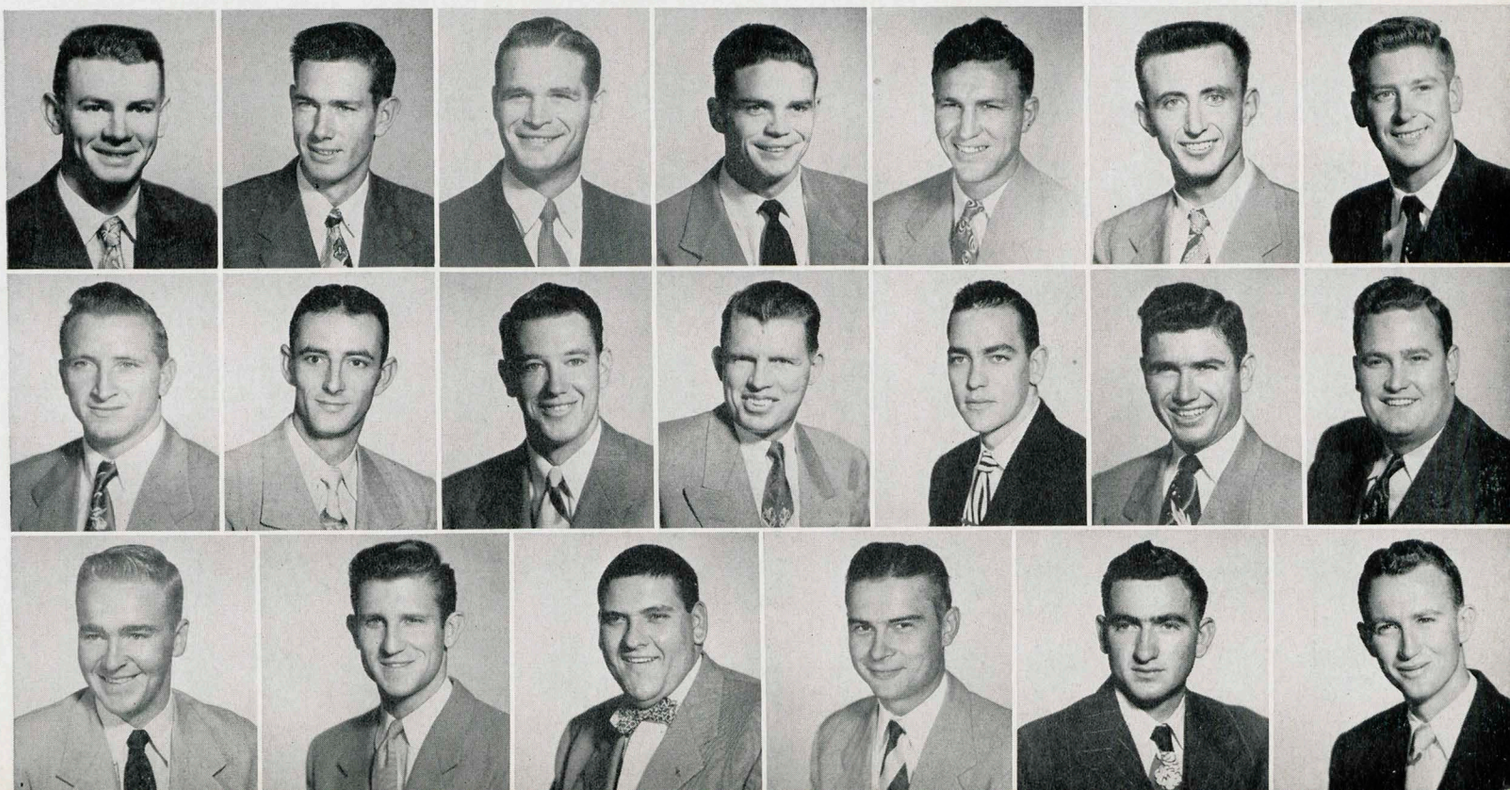

Throughout its existence, the fraternity has made the fulfillment of its motto "Builders of Men" its primary objective. In the attainment of this objective, Farm House has emphasized scholarship, good conduct, and participation in the worth while activities of campus life.

Farm House Fraternity is nationally recognized as a social fraternity, but its membership is generally restricted to those men whose course of study leads to a bachelor of science degree in Agriculture or related sciences.

The Farm House Club was officially recognized on the Arkansas campus January 6, 1950. The members of the group have actively participated in the activities of the student body in the College of Agriculture and in the University as a whole. Farm House men hold important offices in every organization in the College of Agriculture and have members that are active in several honorary and leadership fraternities and in the student governing bodies on the University campus.

The Club now occupies a large house at 811 Dickson, and has become well established in their location. A full program of social activities has been carried out by the group and the future of the group holds much promise for things to come.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

Panhellenic Council is composed of the president and rush chairman of each sorority, and it attempts to enhance understanding of each group through statewide publicity and to establish effective rules of rush.

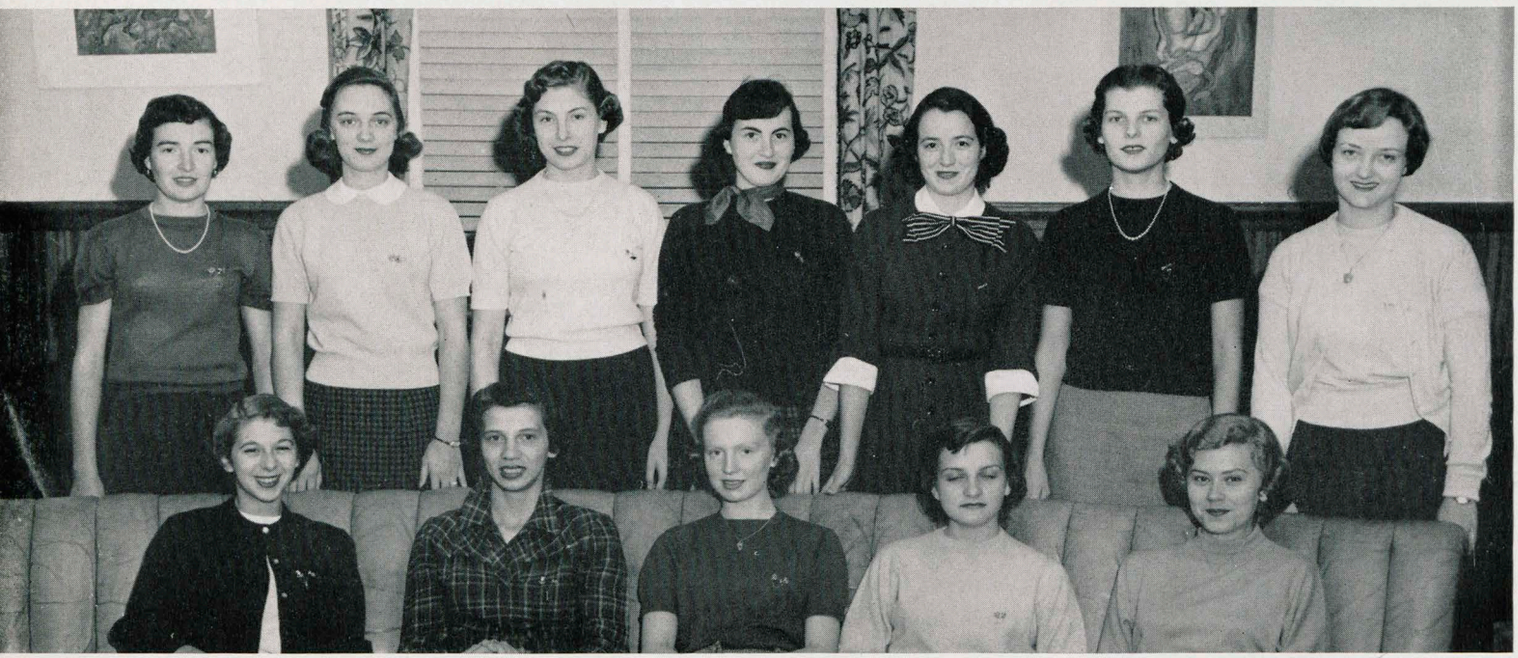

The Panhellenic Council is an Advisory-Governing Board established on every campus where there are two or more national sororities.

Our local Panhellenic Council is and should be a very active organization on the campus. It serves as a channel through which the administration may work with the sororities.

Our group stresses good scholarship and awards a roving loving cup to the pledge class each year who makes the highest grade point.

Panhellenic provides for a better and more cooperative spirit between sororities.

INTERFRATERNITY PLEDGE COUNCIL

JOE BOONE . . . . . President

The Interfraternity Pledge Council is composed of two representatives from each fraternity and each sorority on the campus. Its relation to the pledges is similar to the relationship of the Interfraternity Council to the various fraternities and sororities.

At the annual pledge dance this year Miss Diana Denman, Chi Omega pledge, was named Pledge Queen of 1952 by popular vote of fraternity pledges in a contest sponsored by the pledge council.

Foremost among its projects this year were charity work during the Christmas season and a talent show at the Veterans Hospital.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

To aid and mediate any differences that might occur in the Greek letter fraternities on the campus, and to promote the University of Arkansas are the primary purposes of the I. F. C. To strengthen the Greeks and as an ultimate end strengthen the University are its aims and hopes. Regular meetings are held once a month during the school year, with special meetings called whenever needed.

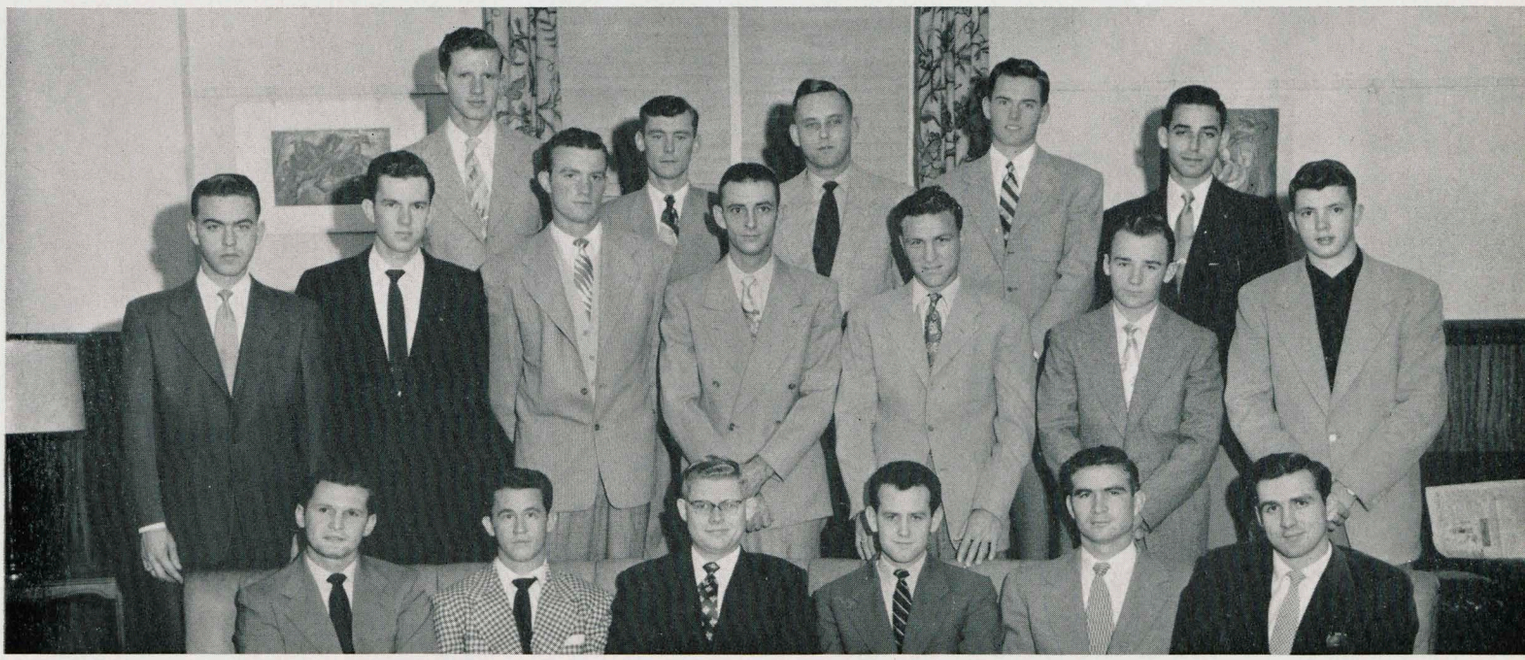

The organization is composed of two representatives of each fraternity on the campus.

Though each fraternity functions independently of the other, through the Council they may coordinate their efforts towards a just policy and an extensive Rushing Program. It is also through the cooperation in the I. F. C. that the fraternities are able to enjoy fairness in competition and continued growth and fraternal spirit.

CARNALL HALL

With a host of new girls, Carnall Hall began this school term under the honor system. In conjunction with the honor system, a big sister program and an etiquette committee had been set up.

The social whirl began with several sweater hops, house parties, open houses, birthday dinners, and participation in the Harvest Moon Ball in the fall.

The holiday spirit of Christmas was carried out by the complete decoration of the house, inside and out. The annual formal dinner-dance and the famous female stag party before the AWS St. Nick Ball were held this season.

The spring formal, the numerous cotton hops, the spring picnic, and the late house parties ended the social whirl of the spring semester.

Carnall girls have achieved many outstanding honors during the year. To mention a few, Jean Sutton served as president of AWS and Jean Kratz was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

CARNALL HALL

DAVIS HALL

URSULA STEPHENS, President

Davis Hall is the smaller residence house for upper class women. It is located at 1020 West Maple and the housemother is Mrs. C. C. Brown.

Christmas spirit ran high at the informal Christmas dance given at the hall. The traditional tree and roaring fire completed the atmosphere. Participants also enjoyed the several sweater hops that were given throughout the year. The annual spring picnic is always an event that Davis hall girls look forward to the year 'round.

DAVIS HALL

GREGSON HALL

This is the fifth year that the men's residence hall, named for W. S. "Pop" Gregson, university chaplain and outstanding campus figure, has been in operation. The first 100 men moved into the newly completed Gregson Hall in the fall of 1948. The building is one of the most modern in the Southwest, having within its walls a cafeteria, a snack bar, a laundry room, a barber shop, a lounge and a mailing room. Into these four walls is packed a small, but thriving and industrious, city with its own government, elected by its residents.

GREGSON HALL

HOLCOMBE HALL

MARY GAIL ANDERSON, President

Holcombe Hall this spring completed its fifth year as a University residence hall for freshman women. Under the able guidance of Mrs. Bernice Welch, Social Director, and Mary Gail Anderson, president, the girls at Holcombe carried on a full and successful social season, high-lighted by the two annual dances—the inter-hall Harvest Moon Ball in October, and the lovely, much anticipated spring formal. Other social functions included an open house for all University men, and many informal pajama parties in the hall's spacious recreation room.

Housing more than 160 girls, the hall was represented in almost every phase of campus activity, from Army and Air Force ROTC sponsors to Student Union committees. As Homecoming and Gaebale approached, a spirit of cooperation among the residents of Holcombe was demonstrated by the girls' willingness to help with floats, skits, and house decorations.

HOLCOMBE HALL

RAZORBACK HALL

CHARLES BOOKER, President

Razorback Hall, home of the University of Arkansas' sports-minded Porkers, continued to make strides this year as an outstanding campus living group. Although many of the campus athletes live in Lloyd or Gregson Hall, Razorback is considered the home of the Arkansas Hogs.

The residents of Razorback Hall have their own government watched over by a slate of officers elected by the group each year and all of the facilities of Gregson hall are open to the men of Razorback.

The new plan, originated last year, of only placing two men in each room has also been a great factor in the improvement of facilities in the dorm.

Several of the men of Razorback Hall are not only outstanding in university sports, but take part in activities on the campus as well.

Keynote of the outstanding social event of the Hog social season was informality. This event is the annual spring outing held by the hall after the final sessions of spring football practice.

RAZORBACK HALL

GIRLS 4-H HOUSE

The Girls' 4-H House was founded on the University of Arkansas campus in 1932, the first cooperatively organized house of its kind on any college campus. The spirit of cooperation and loyalty which has been fostered in the house has contributed an essential part in attaining the most from college life.

The social events of the year included participation in the Harvest Moon Ball, a buffet dinner, Pollyanna banquet following Pollyanna week during which gifts and small services were exchanged, the Sharecroppers Masquerade, sweater hops and pajama parties, and an informal Christmas dance. In April the 4-H girls celebrated their Founder's Day with a banquet honoring alumni and newly elected house officers.

Several of the 4-H girls have been outstanding both on the campus and in 4-H work. Bobby Byrd was an International Farm Youth Exchange delegate to Ireland, and Willene Runsick went to Wales through the same program. Five of the girls were initiated into Phi Upsilon Omicron, and Sue Walker and Willene Runsick were tapped for Mortar Board. Katherine Kinsey is president of Coterie. Anita Johnson and Anna Sue Kaisner were initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta.

LLOYD HALLS

GEORGE HOWARD, President

If one word were sought which best describes the Lloyd Halls, "cosmopolitan" would undoubtedly be most appropriate.

Established in the fall of 1946, and named for Edgar H. "Buck" Lloyd, posthumous recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor in 1945, and graduate of the University, the Halls have become "home" for students from all corners of the world.

Located on Maple Street north of Razorback Stadium, the Halls consist of six frame buildings, five of which house a total of 195 boys at the present time.

Local government is in the hands of the Lloyd Halls Council, two members of which are elected by each Hall. The Council and its officers have jurisdiction over matters pertaining to the Halls and are subject to the Administration and the Student Senate.

Besides undergraduate students, the Halls also accommodate many of the men graduate students of the University.

The late evening cup of coffee is indulged in at the area snack shop, operated by one of the Hall residents. Proceeds from the snack bar go toward helping in the financing of Hall projects.

An active participation in campus activities is carried on at all times in spite of the Halls' relative isolation from the busier parts of the campus.

This then, from the shortest to the tallest, the largest to the smallest, from all races and all nations is a truly representative domain. This is Lloyd Halls.

CHOIR

The Choral Organizations represent three choruses at the University and all of the groups are open to the entire student body and the faculty. This year, new names have been given to the choruses that more accurately describe their activities. The University Chorus was formerly called the Mixed Chorus; the A Cappella Choir has taken the name Collegiate Singers, and the Men's Chorus will be known as the Varsity Men's Glee Club.

UNIVERSITY CHORUS

This is a group of about two hundred and twenty-five singers which annually presents Handel's "The Messiah" in the Field House at Christmas time. At the last performance the chorus sang to an audience of an estimated 2500 people. The chorus is open to students and faculty of the University and people of this vicinity. It is only necessary that one have an average voice, a sincere desire to sing and attend the rehearsals regularly. A second large choral work is presented during the Spring semester.

COLLEGIATE SINGERS

The membership of the Collegiate Singers is limited to sixty and one is accepted only through audition. The requirements for membership include: a voice of good quality, ability to read music, and, above all, an intense interest in singing. The Collegiate Singers annually make an extensive concert tour and perform in schools and communities throughout the State.

The officers of the group are: Charles Turner, President; Kaye Thompson, Secretary; Jack La Fevers, Treasurer, and Wayne Terrell, Manager.

University Chorus, under direction of Herrold Headley, presents annual Christmas program, "The Messiah."

VARSITY MEN'S GLEE CLUB

The Varsity Men's Glee Club was reorganized in the Fall of 1951 after having been inactive during the war years. Men representing all the colleges of the University sing in this group. The Glee Club generally sings music of a lighter nature than the other groups and the men meet each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 4:00 to sing "for the fun of it."

The officers of the group are: Paul Yaroshko, President; Stewart Revenaugh, Secretary, and Bill Ketchum, Treasurer.

The University's choral organizations are to be commended for the work presented to the University audiences this year. The choir's improved character during the past year has been greatly evidenced by the student body at large and a greater amount of student interest is now being directed toward choral work.

Director of the choral organizations is Herrold Headley.
